FOUR KINGS IN FUNERAL MARCH FOR ALEXANDRA

London's Pageant Is Set in Snowstorm.

Tragic Sequel

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Two prominent Londoners died suddenly today following memorial services for Dowager Queen Alexandra.

The lady mayoress, wife of Sir William Pryke, who was installed as lord mayor of London on Nov. 9, died of heart disease shortly after returning from an evening memorial service in St. Paul's cathedral.

During the afternoon Canon Westlake, custodian of Westminster abbey, who had been busy all day with the memorial services and in superintending the arrangements for the public to pass by the coffin, returned home ill and went to bed. His wife, sitting by his bedside, heard him murmer, "I am afraid it has been too much for me." Immediately afterward the canon died.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—Yesterday Alexandra, the woman, bade farewell to her friends and neighbors at Sandringham. Today the body of Alexandra, the queen and empress, played a central part in a great state ceremony which emphasized the power and might of the empire over which her husband ruled and her son now rules.

Tonight her body lies in Westminster Abbey, while long lines of devoted subjects pass before the catafalque wherein lies the coffin. Tomorrow she will be laid at rest at Windsor in the presence only of near relatives, beside the body of King Edward VII.

Nowhere in the world are great state ceremonies as perfectly staged as in England, and this was no exception. The skies themselves joined in the mourning for the queen after a long dry spell, and early this morning the heaviest snowfall for some years began and continued throughout the funeral, giving it the appearance of a fairy procession.

One of Royalty's Spectacles.

I had a view of it that if it could be reproduced on the stage would make the producer's reputation and fortune. My place in the abbey was in the north transept near the north door. We had been waiting for hours for the arrival of the procession when the first faint strains of a military band were heard. Just at that moment the north door swung open and remained open for several minutes.

Framed in the arch of the door, I saw a wonderful procession of guardsmen in tall bearskin hats, marching in the thickly falling snow with heads bowed and arms reversed. The top of each hat was covered with snow. The band's instruments were caked with snow. Troops in ordinary flat service caps and also snow covered marines, bluejackets, and airmen, all outlined with snow, were marching in slow time.

Body Carried on Gun Carriage.

Then came a gun carriage with the coffin covered with the queen's own flag, bearing the leopards of England and the arms of Denmark. On top was only a floral cross.

Beside it were ten giant grenadiers —the same grenadiers who carried the coffin at Sandringham yesterday, and who will act as the bearers until the end. Behind the gun carriage was King George marching alone. His field marshal's hat with its white plumes was draggled with melting snow, and snow lay on the shoulders of his gray army overcoat.

Immediately behind him was the prince of Wales, also alone. He wore a bearskin hat and gray guard overcoat. Behind him were the three kings of Belgium, Norway, and Denmark, with the duke of York. After that was a great concourse of crown princes and minor royalties and relatives of the royal family.

Kings Go Afoot.

The procession had taken nearly three-quarters of an hour from the chapel royal in St. James palace to the abbey, and every step of the way was marched by the royalties on foot. The only horses in the procession were those drawing the gun carriage whereon rested the coffin.

Before the procession reached the abbey the royal ladies arrived in carriages and had taken their places in the sacrarium. They wore deep mourn-

Presbyterians Plan Merger of 2 Churches

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

Plans for the merger of the First Presbyterian church, 41st street and Grand boulevard, with the Second Presbyterian church, Twentieth street and South Michigan avenue, with the ultimate purpose of building a Presbyterian temple in or near the loop, were made known yesterday.

The proposed merger has been approved by a committee of thirty leading Presbyterians, including such ministers as President J. G. K. McClure of McCormick Theological seminary and Dr. John Timothy Stone, pastor of Fourth church, as well as by leading officials of both the First and Second churches. Action must yet be taken by the congregations of the two churches.

Plan Three Strongholds.

The plan is part of a policy to create three strongholds of Presbyterianism, one on each side of the city. The Fourth church will represent the north side, the Third church, Ogden and Ashland avenues, will represent the west side, and the new merger the south side. After the consolidation of the First and Second churches it is proposed to give attention to Third church, which now has an endowment of nearly $100,000, and develop it into a strong institution.

The Presbyterians own the property on which the former First church stood at Twenty-first street and Indiana avenue. The building is now used as a factory and can be sold, it was said, for a considerable sum. The Second church has an endowment of more than $400,000 and one of the finest church buildings of any denomination in Chicago. In all, it was said, the proposed combination represents an investment of $1,000,000.

Differences Are Settled.

The First and Second churches separated on questions dating back before the civil war which have long been settled and there exists no longer any reason why they should not get together, it was said. The changing character of the population around First church is making it increasingly difficult to maintain a resident membership, it was said.

The pastor of Second church for the last five years, Dr. Josiah Sibley, has resigned and will preach his farewell sermon Dec. 6 before leaving for the pastorate of Westminster church, Pasadena, Cal. The pastor of First church is Dr. Charles B. Swartz.

HIGHLAND PARK DEBATES LIMIT ON POPULATION

More than 500 residents of Highland Park crowded into the village hall last night to hear arguments on whether the zoning board should recommend to the council an ordinance limiting to twenty-four the number of families which may occupy one acre.

The west and east sides of the village are divided on the question the east siders approving the ordinance. Property owners of the west side, in which the business section is located, favor more population to the acre.

At the meeting the east siders were in the majority. Because of the feeling displayed, Mayor Samuel Hastings ordered that a second meeting be held on Dec. 11 in the Elm Place school, which will accommodate a larger audience.

'Peppy' Film Afire Brings Cops and Panic

The displeasure of a young woman who had been invited to witness a private view of a motion picture film in an apartment house at 618 Roscoe street early this morning in which salacious scenes were shown resulted in a raid by the police, an explosion of the film, a panic among the occupants of the house, and a costly fire.

The apartment is conducted by P. Hokenhus. Yesterday Joseph Greeley, giving his address as Cleveland, O., and Oliver M. Leither, who said he lives in East Cleveland, rented rooms in the house. They told Hokenhus they were motion picture producers.

During last evening they became acquainted with the Misses Catherine McGovern and Josephine McGovern, sisters, and Miss Jeane English and invited them to their rooms to see a film they said they were about to release.

Show Woman Unadorned.

A sheet was hung across an end of the room and the scenes began to unfold. In a few minutes the orphan girl who was seeking a position appeared in the nude.

At that Miss Catherine McGovern decided she had seen enough and broke away. As she fled the two men, according to the story told the police, locked the door and refused to allow the others to leave.

Catherine hurried to the Town Hall police station and told of her experience. Sergts. Patrick Burke and Thomas Roche were detailed to make an investigation. Their demands for admittance to the room were refused and they broke in, just in time to see part of a revolting scene.

Set Fire to Film.

As the two men realized the intruders were police, Greeley lighted a match and touched it to the film. An explosion followed, and within a few minutes the entire second floor of the building was ablaze. Nearly 100 panic stricken occupants of the four story structure fled to the street in night garb. Other occupants who were cut off from the lower exits by smoke and flame appeared in upper windows.

Then the fire department arrived and Battalion Chief Thomas O'Connor warned the people in the windows not to jump, assuring them they would be rescued.

It was but a few minutes until the flames were extinguished and all were rescued in safety.

Greeley and Leither were arrested and will be charged with producing indecent pictures.

GEN. KING SAYS 'ROT' TO LAWYER FOR MITCHELL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Thus eight short words threaten a mistrial in the Mitchell court-martial.

They were uttered in comment on the extremely intricate cross-examination which Representative Frank Reid of Aurora, Ill., Col. Mitchell's chief counsel, was giving Maj. Jarvis Bain of the general staff on the war department's specific plan for the defense of Hawaii. This cross-examination was bringing out testimony showing that, so far as the major knew, no such plan existed.

Comes at Critical Moment.

In all Col. Mitchell's criticisms of the department he has contended that one of the war department's principal derelictions is that it never has perfected such a plan. Thus the effect of one of the prosecution's witnesses was to sustain the accused.

Gen. King's blunt words could not, therefore, have been uttered at a more tense and critical moment.

Tonight the capital is crackling with reports that Gen. King, now appalled by the excitement and rancor he has created, will ask President Coolidge that he be relieved from further service on the court.

Asked to confirm or deny reports that he would resign, the general said: "I won't say anything."

Fear Reflection on Court.

His fellow judges, Brig. Gen. Frank R. McCoy and Col. Blanton Winship, law officer of the court, are much worried by the episode in its possible effect upon the reputation of the court for impartiality. The other generals remain dumfounded and refuse to comment.

"Such an utterance by a juror in a civilian court would, as every lawyer knows, have caused the instant dismissal of the jury," Representative Reid said.

Col. Herbert White of Iowa, an eminent legalist of the United States army, whom the President detailed as defense counsel to the accused, such being the custom in courts-martial, was more outspoken, saying:

Reid Urges Patience.

Representative Reid, however, urged patience pending the resumption of the trial next Monday morning when, he said, he would move to have Gen. King's language stricken from the record. Whether the court would sustain the motion, or would feel that it had to purge itself, were, Mr. Reid said, matters on which he could give no opinion.

He then prepared a formal statement, which said:

"It is an unfortunate episode and I regret its occurrence. This court is an impartial tribunal. The remarks might be interpreted by some, but not by me, as an indication of one of the court's disposition toward the weight of the evidence. On Monday morning I shall move to strike it from the record, and I have so stated to Gen. King and shall take no advantage of the incident, although, as every lawyer knows, were this a civil proceeding the jury would have been immediately dismissed."

As the ultimate reviewing officer on the Mitchell court-martial's findings will be President Coolidge, it is pointed out by many observers tonight that his intensely legalistic and order loving mind may take very seriously Gen. King's description of the court's proceedings as "damn rot."

Try to Untangle Maze.

Gen. King's explosion came while Mr. Reid and Maj. Bain were trying to disentangle extremely intricate facts tending to sustain certain of Col. Mitchell's contentions relative to the indefinite state of national defense plans in the Pacific, more especially in their bearing on coöperation between the army and navy.

Suddenly, in between Mr. Reid and Maj. Bain, shot the rumble of Gen. King's words "That's damn rot and ought to be stopped."

Silence thicker than the muggy air outside enveloped the court room.

Mr. Reid, as is his wont when deeply moved, went ashen, rounded on the general, and said:

"It is not damn rot in my mind, or

Judge Denies Alimony for Fair Diggers

Few women divorce seekers will receive alimony in the future from Chief Justice Harry A. Lewis of the Superior court, he declared yesterday.

One hundred women, who crowded the court waiting their turn to obtain freedom and comfortable alimony awards, gasped as they heard the unprecedented announcement by the court. They also listened to a stinging arraignment of what the judge called "professional alimony diggers."

Judge Makes Exceptions.

Judge Lewis, who hears about half the divorce petitions filed in Cook county, will continue to award support money for the care of children in divorce cases. When a wife is physically helpless he will command her former husband to provide for her after a divorce has been granted. The judge also will award temporary alimony while divorce suits are pending.

But the plaintive—and pretty—petitioner who dabs her eyes with a handkerchief as she tells of a short and unhappy married life in which no children figured will be lucky to receive a decree. No longer will she be given a portion of her husband's salary as long as she does not remarry.

If wives can persuade their husbands to give them a cash settlement at the time the divorce decree is signed, Judge Lewis will have no objection, but orders for weekly or monthly payments will not be made in his court, he said.

Case Stirs Judge's Anger.

The judge made his ruling when the petition of Mrs. Frieda Alcoba, 26 years old, 1646 Washburne avenue, came before him. She asked for a divorce from John L. Alcoba, whom she charged with cruelty. They had been married three years and there were no children, she testified.

Mrs. Alcoba is working and making a fair salary, she admitted. Her husband's wages as a chauffeur are not high. She asked for $10 a week alimony. Then the judge made some biting comments on feminine alimony seekers.

"The idea of the marriage institution is that man and wife shall live together and propagate the race," he said. "When they separate, both cease, in that regard, to be any benefit to the community.

"Why a healthy woman should receive alimony from a divorced husband is beyond my comprehension. If he wants to marry again, he is forced to consider the burden of the payments to his first wife. Yet she is free to remarry when she wishes.

Considers Burden Uneven.

"The alimony automatically stops then, but if she so desires she may remain single and force her former husband to support her until old age. I don't consider that a fair proposition.

"My court is clogged with cases in which wives are seeking to put in jail husbands who failed to keep up their alimony payments. I sympathize with the husbands in many cases and there will not be any more of that class of cases in this court."

GARY EXCEEDS INDIANAPOLIS IN TERRITORY SIZE

Gary's city council held a special, secret session last night and stole a march on its rival city, Hammond, by passing an ordinance annexing all unincorporated parts of Calumet township, an area of more than thirteen square miles. The city's area is increased to sixty-four square miles, making it geographically larger than Indianapolis.

By this action Hammond is cut off from expansion to the east, leaving it only the villages of Highland and Munster to the south, both of which are reported to be opposed to annexation.

SIX OWE LIVES TO POOR AIM OF POLICE GUNS

Poor marksmanship by police was an important subject yesterday.

Six peaceful citizens felt reasons to be glad about it. They escaped unharmed although two detectives fired twelve shots at them.

Mayor Dever was deploring the erring aim or the slowness of two other detectives to draw their revolvers, through which three bandits were enabled to kill one of the detectives, wound the other, and kill a chauffeur and wound a porter, and to be untouched by twelve other police bullets.

Near Betty Andrews' Home.

Both incidents occurred within a period of a few minutes early yesterday inside and outside a soft drink parlor at 5253 South Halsted street owned by John McKeone, who is also a municipal court bailiff.

The scene was likewise in the district frequented by Martin Durkin, the hunted killer of a policeman and a government agent.

The four detectives were assigned to watch specified places in the neighborhood, on the chance that Durkin might reappear there.

Jury of Leading Citizens.

Coroner Oscar Wolff has selected six prominent citizens to sit in judgment today at the inquest wherein marksmanship will be discussed after viewing the bodies of Policeman James Carroll and Martin Custer, the chauffeur, killed about 3:30 o'clock yesterday morning.

Story of Shooting.

Policeman Carroll and Policeman James Henry, both of the detective bureau, were assigned to special duty in the neighborhood. They should have been outside, but for a few nights they had been waiting inside, in McKeone's place. Detective John Carroll and his partner, Detective William McCullough, were assigned also to special duty in this neighborhood and they were outside.

Policemen Carroll and Henry were seated near a stove in the barroom. Custer was at the bar. George F. Howard, bartender, was in front of the bar. Gus Soeldner, porter, was asleep on a table. Albert Paul, a patron, was standing between Howard and Custer.

Knock at Front Door.

There was a knock at the front door. Howard went through the cigar store front, and admitted the men when they said they were police. Inside, they put revolvers against him and ordered him to walk ahead, arms upraised, into the barroom, where, seeing the others, the intruders shouted: "Hands up!"

Instantly the shooting started. Policeman Carroll fired six shots, all of which were later found in the opposite wall; then he died from a bullet in the head. Henry went down with a bullet in the abdomen, firing but once at the gunmen.

Paul ran to a rear closet, unharmed. Soeldner was shot as he arose from the table on which he had been sleeping. Howard crawled back of the bar and hid.

Fire into His Body.

The invaders apparently then fired several more bullets into Policeman Carroll's head. Eight or nine bullets lodged in the wall back of where Henry had been sitting. One of the bandits inquired what had become of Paul and started looking for him; but the three decided to leave before finding him.

The gunmen broke five windows, seeking an exit, but all the windows were barred. Finally they were able to unbolt a side door, through which they departed, having made no effort to rob the cash register or any of their victims.

The bartender went down to the basement, out the back way, and up to the second floor, where McKeone, the proprietor, lives. He gave the alarm.

Crawls to Sidewalk.

Policeman Henry meanwhile revived sufficiently to crawl out of the front door to the sidewalk. He then fired the remaining five cartridges in his revolver—to attract attention, which he did. A cab driver stopped and assisted him into the cab.

A large automobile was passing, northbound. In it were Betty and Anne Mahoney, 636 Garfield boulevard; Anna Sullivan, 4414 Wallace street; Herman Salder, 3707 Cottage Grove avenue; Harry Davis, 226 West 26th street, and Barney Barry, 54 West 34th street.

Two of the men jumped out to see if they could be of assistance. As they did, the taxi driver lifted the wounded policeman, Henry, into the cab and started away. McKeone reached the street at that second.

He saw two men across the street and on a chance called to them, asking if they were policemen. They were Detectives John Carroll and McCullough, so they shouted, "yes."

"Don't let those people in the Cadillac (the touring car) get away," McKeone urged.

"Two policemen were just killed in the saloon," he added.

The Cadillac had started. The detectives fired rapidly after it, each discharging six shots. The Cadillac didn't stop until the police station at 4736 Halsted street was reached, where the occupants gave an account of the shots fired at them.

The first assumption that Durkin was again running amuck was dispelled by Policeman Henry, who said he knew Durkin, and Durkin was not one of the gunmen.

Beer War Theory.

Beer warfare possibilities were considered. The proprietor said his beer came from the Atlas brewery, which sells only near beer—which may be made marketable as the real thing by the use of the needle and the alky can.

The definite conclusion reached was that robbery had been the only crime intended, and that the policemen, although facing a desperate situation, refused to be cowards.

"They were disobeying orders by being in the place," Acting Chief Matthew Zimmer said, "but they were nevertheless brave policemen. The holdup men encountered police who wouldn't put up their hands."

Comment by Mayor.

"Poor shooting," Mayor Dever said, not then knowing about the other shooting, that jeopardized the lives of the three girls and their escorts. He was referring only to the shots fired at the bandits.

"The police should ever be alert," Mayor Dever instructed. "The movements of a criminal are different than those of a respectable citizen. The bandit's gesture has a significance that should be readily interpreted by policemen.

"Then the police should shoot to kill. The policeman is cautioned to shoot only when he believes his life is in danger. They must bear in mind they must act quickly when they encounter a desperate character.

Take Fewer Chances.

"It is too bad that their marksmanship was so poor this time that they did not kill two or three of the gunmen. In the past the police have given a good account of themselves and I want them always to do so in the future."

While the mayor did not say so directly, his words were construed by police as an order to kill more criminals, to kill them at the slightest indication of an attempt to draw a revolver. And the temper of the department was such that from now on there will be fewer cases of policemen being killed and more instances of police killing men of known bad record or character.

Cartridges May Be Faulty.

One explanation of recent performances wherein police failed to hit their human targets was that perhaps faulty bullets are being used. The police regularly practice shooting and the majority are rated as good shots.

Many, however, load their own cartridges and, as was discovered in the failure of Sergt. Harry Gray to kill Martin Durkin, Gray's bullet had penetrated Durkin's overcoat directly over Durkin's heart, but did not go through the under coat. This, Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker declared, was because Sergt. Gray had not put enough powder into that particular cartridge.

That condition may be remedied by an order forbidding the use of home made cartridges and by the issuance of ammunition by the department.

MASTER BOMBING RING REVEALED BY CONFESSIONS

Sangerman Is Named as Directing Genius.

Detailed workings of the bomber gang whose members were captured in the course of an intensive investigation were revealed to THE TRIBUNE last night by State's Attorney Crowe.

Joseph M. Sangerman, about whom a cloak of high respectability was thrown and for whose release a strenuous effort was made in court yesterday, was named by Mr. Crowe as the man of money and brains who directed the bombers in their work.

A full confession was made by Sangerman, in which he implicated with himself the five others now in custody, including, according to the state's attorney, Chicago's first woman bomb planter, Lena Schrock Rice.

So closely have Sangerman and his accomplices wound the threads of guilt about them, Mr. Crowe said, that he is determined to prevent them from obtaining freedom. He announced that he would appear before Chief Justice Thomas J. Lynch this morning, formally charge the six prisoners with five bombings and three window smashings, and have them held in bonds of from $125,000 to $150,000 each. Habeas corpus proceedings, set for 10 o'clock, are to be forestalled.

Four Others Named.

In addition to Sangerman and Mrs. Rice there will be named, Mr. Crowe said, Fred Wamquist and José Avanzio, who were caught with Mrs. Rice in the act of bombing a store; Louis D'Andrea and Jack Davis.

D'Andrea and Davis, the former a bomber and Davis a bomb maker, also have fully unbosomed themselves of their guilt, Mr. Crowe said.

Sangerman never went along on the trips of destruction—he paid the others to take those risks—but he did accompany his hirelings beforehand to point out to them the places he sought to destroy, Mr. Crowe declared. For three of the most dangerous jobs Sangerman divided $700 among the bombers; for lesser bits, such as window breakings, he gave up a frequent $50 bill, it was charged.

Leader of Barbers' Group.

For the most part Sangerman followed the bent on which he began, bombings of barber shops whose owners refused to obey the union rules, according to the state's attorney. Sangerman, in addition to being a manufacturer of barbers' supplies, is a leader in the Journeyman Barbers' association.

But the ease with which the bombings were committed caused Sangerman to lead his band into mercenary tasks, and it was such a job, a hardware store bombing at 3639 Fullerton avenue Thursday morning, that led to his downfall. Another of these Hessianlike bombings was that of the Art Glass company at 2534 South Western avenue.

Search for Gunman.

For two days, Mr. Crowe revealed, an intensive search has been prosecuted for George Martini, a gunman-gangster who is named as Sangerman's star bomber. But it is feared that Martini left town the moment he heard that some of his comrades were in the state's attorney's custody.

Plans for the inquiry to be prosecuted against any and all who are implicated or suspected of hiring the bombers, or of mixing in independent outrages, are being laid by Assistant State's Attorneys Joseph P. Savage and George E. Gorman. The special grand jury which is summoned for Monday by Chief Justice Lynch probably will sit for a month or more before their task will be completed, the prosecutors said.

Call Labor Officials.

Labor officials are to be called and questioned. Victims of bombings are to be summoned to tell of what threats preceded them.

Just as State's Attorney Crowe handled the labor terrorists who four years ago waged violent warfare on contractors and builders, so he intends to handle the groups who have bombed more than fifty places in Chicago in the last two months.

Sangerman has admitted having paid $400 to the other prisoners to bomb a barber shop in the Cadillac hotel; $200 for the wrecking of a barber shop in Park Ridge, and $150 for the bombing of the Red Wing barber shop at 126 West Chicago avenue.

In a raid at 3831 Lake Park avenue, where Wamquist and his lady bomber kept house, the police found thirteen sticks of dynamite, fifty feet of fuse, and seven detonating caps.

WILBUR REFUSES TO REOPEN QUIZ ON SHENANDOAH

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The request of Joseph E. Davies, counsel for Mrs. Zachary Lansdowne, that the Shenandoah court of inquiry be reconvened and witnesses recalled for cross-examination on behalf of the widow of the airship's commander was denied today.

Another request for a stenographic copy of the testimony of all witnesses heard by the court on any questions bearing on the controversy between Mrs. Lansdowne and Capt. Paul Foley, former judge advocate of the court, whom she accused of attempting to influence her testimony before the court, also was denied, but no reference was made to Mr. Davies' other demand that the court be discharged.

City's First Woman Bomber Tells Story of Her Life

Humdrum life in a Battle Creek restaurant, three growing boys to feed and clothe, blind trust in a bad man, and too much love for him—those were the elements that landed Mrs. Lena Schrock Rice, comely black haired, bobbed haired, and 28 year old mother, in the custody of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe. She is Chicago's first woman bomber.

That is the situation if Lena's story be credited, but the prosecutors don't credit it. She says she is not hardboiled, neither does she act it. She adds tearfully that she actually became a bomber without her knowledge and through no will of her own simply because she blindly did what "that big blonde Viking" she loved told her to do. Archie L. Rice, the husband she left in Goshen, Ind., three years ago and the state's attorney and his aids have a different version—but that's another story.

"Joe got out of the machine," she climaxed her long story. "Little Joe Avanzio, you know. He opened the front door where I was sitting beside Fred Wamquist. And he said: "Well, get out!" I looked at Fred and he motioned for me to do it.

"Joe handed me this package. It was neat and round and looked about like a shirt or something wrapped up. I took it and stuck it under my arm under the cape—didn't dream what it was.

"We started to walk along. Joe had me by the arm. When we came to the doorway of the store, Joe took it and he was lighting his cigar. Then he handed it back to me and told me to put it in the doorway. I thought it was something he wanted to dispose of and just tossed it there.

"The next minute we were surounded by policemen with guns. I was in a machine and being driven away when the explosion came."

"I was married," she went on, "when I was fifteen. At first we lived on a farm. My husband insisted on moving into town. We moved to Wabash and then to Goshen. He drank and abused me and so I took the three boys and went home to the farm, my father's, near Richwood, O."

She didn't say anything about the other two children. Her husband told of those, they are in his cutody.

"Later," she continued, "I went to Battle Creek. I was working in a restaurant there and waiting on Wamquist was the way I met him. He said he was a detective on the railroad and also a government secret service man.

"He asked me to marry him when he would get his divorce. It was a hard struggle for me with the boys and I promised I would."

About Sept. 1 last, they came to Chicago. They took a flat at 3831 Lake Park avenue.

"These bombers, as I know them now, used to come to our flat and talk. I know them only as Joe, and Jack, and Martin, and Louie. I never knew what they talked about. Whenever Wamquist took me out at night he would bring me back and then go out again."

The only one who believes her story is her mother on the Ohio farm. She weeps and says: "O, I don't know what to say, it is so terrible; I can't believe Lena would wilfully commit a crime."

And the husband, now working on the railroad in South Bend, Ind., where he has custody of two of their children, said: "She was a good wife to me until I started working on the railroad. Then she got running with a tough crowd and at last deserted me."

SHEIK RUDY'S SO GALLANT; HELPS WIFE TO DIVORCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 27.—Rudolph Valentino arrived in Paris tonight to begin his painting lessons and incidentally to see how his wife's divorce action is coming on. He is gallantly planning to give it a shove by establishing a residence here.

He was met at the train by his new teacher, Frederico Beltran-Masses, famous expressionist and painter. They rushed off to Rudolph's hotel where the movie sheik revealed his latest picture, which looked suspiciously like the same Winifred Hudnut Valentino who filed a suit for divorce in Paris.

"It is perfectly magnificent—you have raised her soul to her eyes," bubbled M. Beltran-Masses, kissing his new found disciple on both cheeks.

Rudolph was nettled by information that Winifred had greeted mirthfully his pronouncement that he would never marry so long as he was in the movies.

"I suppose that shows she has a sense of humor," he said wryly.

The sheik will not live in the Latin quarter, but in a luxurious notel in Champs Elysees. He has bought two magnificent cars.

Actress Files Suit Against Clark for $250,000

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The complaint in the $250,000 breach of promise suit brought by Marguerite McNulty, motion picture actress, against William Andrew Clark III., grandson of former Senator William A. Clark of Montana, was filed today in the Supreme court by her attorney.

On Jan. 15 last, the complaint alleges, the plaintiff and defendant became engaged, with the understanding that they were to be married within a reasonable time.

On the following Oct. 30, according to the complaint, at the Hotel Belmont the defendant refused to marry her.

CROWE ATTACKS DUE TO POLITICS, WOLFF CHARGES

Coroner Says He Balked at Taking Orders.

Coroner Oscar Wolff yesterday assailed the motives of State's Attorney Crowe in interfering, as he put it, with a number of investigations into murders of gangsters which were actively pressed by the coroner's office.

"Mr. Crowe is attacking me for no reason except that I have refused to accede to his demands to suppress important cases which threaten his political security or endanger the liberties of his political friends," the coroner said.

His Aid Dismissed.

At the same time Coroner Wolff was angered at the dismissal by the state's attorney of his assistant, Harry Meneely, who has been assigned for several years to the coroner's office.

"The only reason I can think of for Mr. Crowe's action in dismissing Meneely is that the latter has been unable to report anything occurring in my office which the state's attorney could use in attacking me," the coroner said.

"Ever since I appointed a jury of irreproachable citizens to inquire into Dean O'Banion's death," Wolff went on, "Mr. Crowe has been fighting me. Through his assistants he tried to throttle the O'Banion inquiry of the coroner's jury, which brought many vitally important facts to light despite the obstructive tactics of the prosecutor."

Fight in Open.

The fight between Wolff and Crowe finally has been drawn into the open, with war frankly declared, and the politicians are interestedly watching for the outcome.

JUDGE'S "DAMN ROT" MAY SCRAP MITCHELL TRIAL

in anybody else's, and I certainly don't think it should be so considered by a member of this court."

Gen. King, as is his wont when deeply moved, went crimson and said:

"I was not speaking to you. I was speaking to the law member."

This did not pacify Mr. Reid at all. Advancing toward the soldier, who once quelled a mutiny on shipboard with his bare hands, the lawyer shouted:

"I don't care who you were talking to. I heard what you said and I want it to go in the record. This may be very tedious to you, but I was cross-examining a witness on a vital matter and it was not unduly prolonged. I consider it very necessary to this case to question this witness thoroughly. I have a right to. I have a mission to perform here for my client, and I'm going to perform it."

All that came in a torrent. Court was in an uproar of exclamations and calls for order. Out of the clamor finally emerged Gen. King's contrite, "I am very sorry, Mr. Reid; very sorry!"

Reid Fails to Laugh.

These words he repeated when he overtook the lawyer in his departure from court and he added, laughing: "I'll see that I keep things to myself hereafter!"

Mr. Reid, still tense and white, did not laugh.

Gen. King had been restive all day. In the morning he was complaining about the unexpected length of the trial, saying that it was costing each of the generals of the court $20 a day to live in Washington and that meanwhile the affairs of their commands were getting into disorder. He also commented sarcastically on Col. Mitchell's resentfulness over the fact that he had been denied permission to go to Detroit to spend Thanksgiving with his infant daughter by his present wife.

"He might," said the general, "have been satisfied to visit his other three children who are here."

The prosecution offered today only two of the 100 witnesses whom it has available for rebuttal testimony. They were Brig. Gen. Leroy Eltinge, commanding Fort McPherson, Ga., and Maj. Bain, over whose white hairs the most violent storm of this stormy court-martial broke. Both sustained Col. Mitchell's charges that the coöperation between the army and the navy was not wholly satisfactory during the last summer's Hawaiian maneuvers and that the results might have been serious in time of war.

Try 26 Russian Peasants for Burning Gypsies Alive

MOSCOW, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Twenty-six peasants are being tried for murder for the burning alive of two gypsies in the village of Kavezino, near Moscow. The gypsies were attacked by 300 peasants, who suspected them of bringing misfortune to the village.

FEDERAL POWER CARRIES TOO FAR, BAR CHIEF SAYS

Chester I. Long Talks to Illinois Lawyers.

Local self-government and individual liberty are in grave danger in this country, and through them the government itself is endangered, Chester I. Long of Wichita, Kas., president of the American Bar association, last night told the justices of the Supreme court of Illinois. He spoke at a banquet given for the judges by the Illinois Bar association in the Drake hotel.

Mr. Long, a former member of congress, warned the lawyers and judges that the nation faces a crisis in the tendency toward the centralization of all governmental power in Washington. He also warned against the recent tendency toward amending the constitution. He said that the forces to oppose those evils are fast gathering and urged his audience to join in the fight.

Would Appeal to Congress.

"Let us appeal to public opinion," he urged. "Let us appeal to the legislatures, to congress, and to the courts, that local self-government and the liberty of man, woman, and child shall not perish from the earth.

"We should call attention to the liberty of the individual, which neither the state nor the national government can take away from him. The powers of the states have been steadily decreasing. Local self-government has been impaired. We have a dual form of government. It is the first attempt in history to establish such a government. It should continue as it was made in the beginning.

"In the first 120 years of our national life there were passed only five amendments to the constitution. There have been passed four amendments to the constitution in the last twelve years. And there were 100 more proposed amendments pending when the last session of congress closed. I tell you, gentlemen, we are at a crisis!"

Talks Directly to Judges.

Mr. Long waved an arm toward the roomful of lawyers in front of him and then turned and looked at Chief Justice Frank K. Dunn and Justices Oscar E. Heard, Floyd E. Thompson, Clyde E. Stone, and Frederic R. De Young of the state Supreme court, who sat at the table at which he stood speaking.

Mr. Long, who served one term in the United States senate. Elihu Root, who spoke of the trend toward centralization twelve years ago, before the four new amendments had been added to the constitution. President Coolidge also was cited, Mr. Long pointing to the Arlington address of May 30 of this year:

"From every position of consistency with our system, more centralization ought to be avoided."

Fears for Personal Liberty.

Then he turned to individual liberty. He said that a number of attempts to further curtail the liberty of persons have recently been made.

"It has come to such a pass," he declared, "that there is an attempt not only to regulate actions of persons, but their opinions, their minds, by law."

He pointed to attempts to pass laws in Iowa, Nebraska and Ohio dealing with the teaching of foreign languages in the public schools, of an attempt to abolish private schools by law in Oregon. He said all those were attempts at infringement of the liberty of persons, and the United States Supreme court declared them unconstitutional on that ground.

In those cases the Supreme court thus defined liberty he said: "'Liberty denotes not merely freedom from bodily restraints but also the right of the individual to contract, to engage in any of the common occupations of life, to acquire useful knowledge, to marry, to establish a home and bring up children, to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience, and generally to enjoy those privileges long recognized at common law as essential to the orderly pursuit of happiness by free men.'"

Finally Mr. Long said: "Liberty has been imperiled by the destruction of local self-government. Let the states resume and exercise the powers reserved to them. Restore liberty by restoring state control over local affairs."

Henry W. Taft of New York, a brother of Chief Justice Taft of the Supreme court, called attention to the necessity for revision of the administration of criminal justice. The public, he asserted, was indifferent to this, and by its indifference made lawyers' efforts at reform futile.

CAREENING AUTO RUNS INTO BUS; SIX ARE INJURED

Charge the Driver with Being Drunk.

FRANK KALTARZ.

Edward Rafferty, 10638 Hoxie avenue, driver of the automobile, and his companion, Benjamin Malone, 10341 Hoxie avenue, were captured by police after they attempted to escape. They were arrested and Rafferty charged with driving while intoxicated and reckless driving. Malone was booked for attempting to escape after an accident.

List of Injured.

The injured are Frank Kamropt, 128 Conduit street, Hammond, Ind., driver of the bus; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dean, 4717 Alcock street, East Chicago; Mrs. S. F. Jerobal, 11331 Baltimore avenue; and two others who were unidentified.

Frank Kaltarz, 35 years old, 5105 Addison street, died at the Keystone hospital of injuries he received Thursday at Long avenue and Addison street when he was struck by an automobile driven by Ralph Gilbertson, 7561 Pratt avenue. Gilbertson was ordered to appear at the inquest today.

Girl Is Killed.

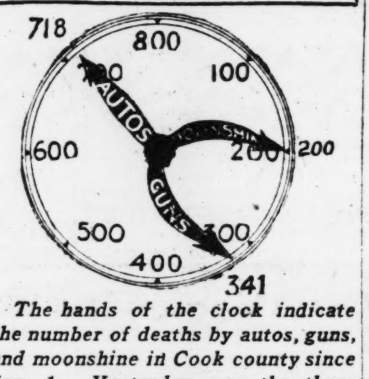
Miss Marian Conway, 2840 Lakeview avenue, was killed when the automobile in which she was riding leaped from Rand road, a mile south of Wauconda, Ill., and smashed into a tree. Thomas J. Fraser, who was driving the car, was probably fatally injured. Witnesses at a coroner's inquest said that the automobile was speeding at the time of the accident.

James Henry, 9 years old, 6619 South May street, was probably fatally injured when he was knocked down by an automobile at 67th and May streets. J. I. Gibson, 6354 South Richmond street, driver of the automobile, was released.

Italian Banker Hurt.

Alfonzo Bolchini, Italian banker from New York, had just arrived in Chicago and was riding to the Drake hotel from the La Salle street depot when the cab collided with another automobile at Superior street and Michigan boulevard. Mr. Bolchini was taken to the Iroquois hospital, where his injuries were found not to be serious.

HANDS OF DEATH



The hands of the clock indicate the number of deaths by autos, guns, and moonshine in Cook county since Jan. 1. Yesterday was the three hundred and thirty-first day of 1925.

POLICE RESERVES CALLED TO GUARD THRONG AT FIRE

Police reserves were called out last night to handle a crowd of thousands that gathered to watch a 4-11 fire at 117-119 North Desplaines street.

The flames broke out on the third floor of the four story structure, and in a short time had pierced the roof. When fire fighting apparatus arrived the three upper floors were burning and the building was doomed.

Heat and smoke drove back the firemen repeatedly, and as other buildings nearby were threatened more special alarms were turned in.

Calls Meeting of Wage Committees.

BULLETIN.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 28, 2 a. m.—(AP)—Maj. W. W. Inglis, chairman of the anthracite operators' wage negotiating committee, early today wired Gov. Pinchot that he "finds it impossible to get the committee together for a conference in Harrisburg today."

Mr. Inglis urged that any plan the governor might have in mind be held confidential until both sides have an opportunity to consider it separately.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Hope of an early peace in the anthracite coal industry was revived tonight by the action of Gov. Pinchot in requesting the wage negotiating committees of the miners and operators to meet him in Harrisburg tomorrow to consider a plan for ending the suspension of mine operations.

The governor was instrumental in bringing about an adjustment of the differences between the two groups in the strike of 1923, and the circumstances under which that agreement was reached were almost identical with those in the present situation.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, did not wait for the formal receipt of the governor's telegram to get the miners' representatives together for the meeting, but upon being advised of its contents he immediately notified the members of the general scale committee to assemble in Harrisburg tomorrow.

This committee comprises about 35 men from the three anthracite districts.

Although he said he had no intimation of what Gov. Pinchot's proposals would be, Mr. Lewis appeared hopeful that they would be acceptable as a basis for renewing negotiations with the operators.

EMIL BRACH, 66, TO WED; MAY BE CANDY MERCHANT

Emil Brach, 66 years old, obtained a license yesterday to marry Marie Hull, 33 years old. Efforts last night to locate Emil J. Brach, millionaire candy manufacturer, who is 66 years old, were fruitless.

The manufacturer came to Chicago when he was 7 years old. As a young man, starting with $1,000 capital, he founded the confectionery firm which now does a $10,000,000 business yearly. Associated with him are his two sons, Frank V. Brach, and Edwin J. Brach, neither of whom could be reached.

WRIGHT CHANGES TERMS OF BILL ASKING DIVORCE

Wife May Ask Only for Separation.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

Miriam Noel Wright, individualist-sculptress, remained in her apartment at the Southmoor hotel yesterday, in a state of acute nervous collapse, too ill to do more than murmur that she, too, would push to the limit her counter divorce bill, filed Nov. 24, charging cruelty and desertion.

So the real action in the clash shifted to Baraboo, Wis. There the case of Wright vs. Wright was set for trial next Monday, but was postponed yesterday because of Mrs. Wright's illness.

It looks as if it were going to be some trial, when it finally gets under way.

Judge Permits Changes.

Late yesterday afternoon Judge J. H. Hill of Baraboo, acting on advice from Attorney Fred B. Silsbee, Mr. Wright's Chicago counsel, withdrew from the court records his client's original summons and complaint.

At the same time Herman Grotophorst, at the direction of ex-Judge F. L. Fake, Mrs. Wright's Chicago attorney, withdrew her answer and counter claim.

Mr. Wright, through Attorney Silsbee, announced his intention of "going through with the divorce bill, most certainly."

"It is a bit ironic," the lawyer pointed out, "that last week's amicable settlement between the two, with a very considerable money settlement by Mr. Wright on his wife, was initiated by Mrs. Wright who said she didn't want publicity. Then she gets a brain storm, apparently, Tuesday, and appeals to Caesar and creates a disturbance that is absolutely unfounded on facts and she knows it.

"Her bill never mentioned another woman. And there is no other woman."

For her part, the sculptress, with a flair for words as well as marble, withdrew her bill yesterday in order to file a new one for separate maintenance instead of divorce, she predicts.

Mrs. Wright denied strenuously the report of Wright's friends that Dr. William J. Hickson, Chicago psychiatrist, had examined her. She admitted that he had come to her home to visit, at the invitation of her husband, but she insisted that he had come merely to try to effect a reconciliation between them.

"Frank have me examined for psychopathic tendencies? ridiculous! Why, I have a mind a hundred times better than Frank's."

Hickson Tells of Visits.

Mr. Hickson admitted he had been called in to see Mrs. Wright three times the summer before last. He visited her, he said, at her hotel, when she was separated from her husband, and at the husband's suggestion. Dr. Hickson declined to make any comment on his observations then.

Mrs. Wright was too ill yesterday to indulge in any autobiographical phil ophies similar, or more probably contradiction of the following bit self-expression from her pen, pu lished in THE TRIBUNE on Nov. 8, 191

"Because I love Frank Lloy Wright and admire him more tha all men and honor the life he ha lived, I am here at Tallesen, the bea tiful country home. I understand ar deeply sympathize with the struggl and terrible trials his life and h great work have passed throug Now, because of my deep love for hir he is again persecuted.

Faith Unshaken Then.

"My real faith in him has neve wavered.

"I believe that great as the arti is, the man is greater, but in attemp ing to have him understand my idea I have at times belittled his, have bee unfair and impatient in my criticis of him, as he has been unkind and in patient in his criticism of me."

KARL, MISSING IN RUM MYSTERY, IS FOUND SLAIN

Body Located on Stickney Road.

A disappearance mystery in bootlegging circles which had puzzled city and county authorities for four months was solved yesterday when the bullet riddled body of George Karl, known to the underworld as Big Bates, was found lying in a ditch at Austin avenue and 80th street, Stickney.

From the mutilated and wasted condition of the body Patrolman William Buchholz of the county police, who was led to the body by three small boys, was convinced Karl met his death about the time he dropped from sight last July. The victim's new touring car, with which he drove away from home when last seen, was found several days after his disappearance a mile from where the body was found.

One Shot Caused Death.

A single well directed shot, which tore away a portion of the lower jaw and ranged upward through the head, was the cause of death, in the opinion of Dr. Joseph W. Springer, coroner's physician, who performed a post mortem examination at Scharpe's morgue, 3423 West 63d street.

Karl's mother, who is proprietor, with a younger son, of a west side soft drink parlor, identified the body. The features were unrecognizable, but the mother made the identification from a gold tooth.

Confirms Murder Theory.

Discovery of the body confirmed the suspicion of police at the time of his disappearance that unknown assassins had visited their revenge upon Karl by taking him for a ride and shooting him to death. A bootleggers' quarrel is considered as the motive for the shooting, though so far no evidence has come to light pointing to the slayer.

The only clews obtained during the long search for Karl, who was 30 years old and married, were several anonymous telephone calls to his family saying he had been murdered.

Karl did not possess a police record as a bootlegger, but had frequently been questioned as to beer running activities. He was also under suspicion in connection with the murder of the father of Colman Finch, a south side roadhouse keeper.

Foe of McErlane Gang.

One report named him as a one time member and later foe of the notorious Frank McErlane gang, which was in the limelight at the time of Karl's disappearance because of the escape from Joliet of Teddy Webb, close associate of McErlane.

The peddling of alcohol is said to have been young Karl's chief business. He is believed to have worked up a thriving trade in this commodity, which leads to the theory that his murderer may have been a business rival. He is described by his friends as being a quiet, likable chap, more prone to settle his differences with his fists rather than with bullets.

2. Chang, surrounded by what is left of his army, is at Mukden, prepared to resist the entrance of Chinese troops into Manchuria.

3. Gen. Chang Tsung-chang, governor of Shantung, has deserted the Manchurian leader.

4. Japan urged by press to serve notice that there shall be no fighting in Manchuria. The region is the scene of extensive Japanese investments.

London's Pageant Set in Snowstorm.

ing, their long crepe veils extending to their feet, and it was only possible to distinguish Queen Mary from the others by her height. These ladies formed a bank of the deepest black on one side of the sacrarium, and when one of them used a white handkerchief it was almost as if a searchlight had relieved the gloom. In striking contrast, the men on the other side of the sacrarium were in brilliant military uniforms.

Empire's Great Men Attend.

In the body of the abbey all the greatest men of the empire were assembled. Prime Minister Baldwin and Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the opposition, came together, wearing the brilliant uniforms of privy councillors, Former Premiers Asquith, Lloyd George and Balfour were present, while the chiefs of the army, navy, and air force filled the abbey with splashes of scarlet, gold, silver, and blue, punctuated by the deep black of the women in the congregation.

At the door of the abbey the procession was met by the archbishop of Canterbury, who took the lead, followed by the magnificently clad clergy, singing the first part of the burial service, "I am the resurrection and the life."

The coffin was borne on the shoulders of the ten grenadiers and behind walked the king and visiting kings and princes. The coffin was slid carefully on the high catafalque and great candles were lighted at the head and feet and the services were carried on by the archbishop and Canon Carnegie.

The king and his sons took their positions beside the coffin, which they held throughout the ceremony. The service was only broken occasionally by the sound of women sobbing The beautiful voices of the choir were audible in every corner of the structure, but the low voice of the aged archbishop was not heard by a great part of the congregation.

Two Miles of Public Wait.

At the end of the service the king stood for a few minutes with head beside his mother's coffin and then after a deep bow turned and led the way to the door, where a car was waiting to take him back to the palace. He was followed by the princes and kings and then came the queens and princesses. As each man passed the coffin he bowed deeply and each woman curtsied.

When the royalties had gone the congregation dispersed and the doors of the abbey were thrown open for the line, already two miles long, waiting to pay their last respects to the dead queen. Late tonight the line was still passing steadily and it was expected that it would continue until the time to remove the body for its transfer to Windsor tomorrow morning.

Vast Crowds See Procession.

In spite of the weather, which was not only snowy but was one of the coldest days of the year, every yard of the processional route was packed with people. Some women took up their places at 11 o'clock last night, twelve hours before the procession, and kept them all night, although the temperature was below the freezing point.

A notable feature of the crowd on the streets was the number of middle aged women to whom Alexandra was queen and whose death marked to them the closing of a generation. The same was noticeable in the crowds passing the coffin tonight, paying their last respects to the most popular woman England ever knew.

QUIT OR FIGHT! WAR LORD CHANG DEFIED BY FENG

BULLETIN.

MANILA, Nov. 28.—(AP)—The United States destroyer McCormick left today for Shanghai on account of the threatening conditions in China. Three other destroyers are held in readiness to proceed to China.

PEKING, Nov. 27.—(AP)—"The Christian general," Feng Yu-hsiang, today served public notice on Marshal Chang Tso-lin, once all-powerful ruler of Manchuria, to quit politics or fight. Feng sent the Mukden leader a message urging him to retire, otherwise, he declared, he would attack.

Chang remained outwardly calm in spite of this culmination of the spectacular march of events, which has made the anti-foreign Feng virtually master of Peking and threatents to eliminate Chang from the political area.

Although dispatches from Mukden said Chang Tso-lin was determined to fight to the last, other defections among his followers were reported, making his stand seem like a forlorn hope. Meanwhile an additional division and other troops of the "Christian general's" forces were taking their places in the garrison of Peking, tightening the grip of Feng on the capital.

President Tuan Still in Peking.

The chief executive, Marshal Tuan Chi-jui, still remains in Peking, in spite of his desire, expressed to the cabinet, to resign and free himself of the imbroglio into which northern China has been thrown. He is understood to have received assurances from Feng Yu-hsiang and Li Ching-ling, civil governor of Chihli, in which Peking is located, that the peace will not be disturbed. Li, formerly a henchman of Chang Tso-lin, has declared himself free of that connection.

Chang Tso-lin is pictured in Mukden dispatches as determined to reject the demands for his retirement, some of which come from his former followers, and to defend his position in Manchuria.

Flower of Army Quits Chang.

Chang has about 50,000 loyal troops remaining, while 100,000 men, composing the former flower of his army, is said to acknowledge the leadership of Gen. Kuo Sung-lien, commander of the 10th division and leader of the revolt among Chang's followers.

A heavy blow to the Manchurian leader's cause is indicated in the reports of the defection of Gen. Chang Tsung-chang, governor of Shantung and one of his closest lieutenants up to this time.

Mail Order Official Not Guilty in Balm Suit

Twelve jurors in Circuit Judge John A. Swanson's court yesterday refused to set a price upon the love of Mrs Edith May Thompson for her husband, William J. Thompson. The jury found Stephen Carroll Crosby, mail order house president, with offices at 609 West Division street, not guilty of the charge of alienating Mrs. Thompson's affections. Thompson had sued for $75,000 damages.

2 ARMED WOMEN HOLD UP BANK IN APPROVED STYLE

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 27.—(AP)—Two armed women held up the First State bank of Renner today, seized $500 in silver, and fled in a battered touring car. The two drove into the town, entered the bank, and while one pointed a pistol at H. S. Wilkenson, the cashier, the other woman scooped up all the silver in sight.

Wilkenson kept his hands up while the younger woman looted the till and took some money from the safe, missing a package containing $300 in currency. Then, backing out of the door, the women leaped into their car and drove rapidly away toward the east.

CONVICT WULFF OF EMBEZZLING FUNDS OF CITY

Despite a dramatic plea to a jury in which he asserted his innocence, Henry Wulff, 55 years old, 4821 Cullom avenue, was found guilty yestreday in Judge George F. Rush's court of embezzling $7,836 while he was senior clerk in the city collector's office. He was sentenced to from one to fifteen years in the penitentiary.

Wulff insisted upon making a closing argument in which he declared that Alexander Ramsey, deputy city collector in 1921, was the guilty man. Ramsey recently committed suicide.

Assistant State's Attorney Henry E. Ayers and Frank Klarkowski presented evidence showing that there were discrepancies in Wulff's cage over a period of six months.

I'M WHOLE THING, BRIAND SAYS OF CABINET POLICY

Persuades Loucheur to Be Finance Chief.

PARIS, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Repeated attempts to institute a cabinet since the Painleve ministry resigned almost a week ago have at last met with success, and the names of the ministers probably will be made known officially tomorrow.

Aristide Briand, already accustomed to the duties of premier, having served in that office seven times, heads the cabinet. For the second time within a week, he was requested yesterday by President Doumergue to form a ministry and tonight he announced that he had been successful and that the new cabinet virtually was complete.

The formation of the combination went along smoothly today until early afternoon, when just about the time M. Briand was to meet President Doumergue he found it necessary to sidestep difficulties placed in his way by a few disgruntled elements of the old left coalition which still are unreconciled to the fact that the left bloc is dead.

The radicals raised the question of the financial policy of the new government; they wanted to know what measures it was proposed to substitute for the projects introduced by M. Painleve.

"I am the policy of the coming government," replied M. Briand. "Until my cabinet has met to decide upon its ministerial declaration I am the whole thing. And if any group is dissatisfied with the choice made by the president of the republic, let them go to Elysée palace."

Gets Loucheur to Act.

After a long talk tonight which kept M. Briand up far beyond his usual bedtime of 8:30 the premier elect finally persuaded Louis Loucheur, who is popularly reputed to be the richest man in France, to preside over the ministry of finance.

It was decided that there will be no budget minister, the minister of finance taking entire charge of all departments of the ministry. M. Loucheur will be aided by an advisory committee whose duty it will be to study fiscal plans prepared by permanent officials of the ministry. Unless there are last minute changes the cabinet is expected to be as follows:

Premier and minister of foreign affairs, M. Briand; finance, M. Loucheur; war, Paul Painleve; justice, Camille Chantemps; interior, Edouard Daladier; navy, Georges Leygues; education, Herault Roustan; commerce, Daniel Vincent; public works, Anatole De Monzie; labor, Antoine Durfour; colonies, Leon Perrier; agriculture, Jean Durand.

M. Briand was so elated at the success of his arguments with M. Loucheur that, although it was nearly 11 o'clock, he sped off to Elysee palace to acquaint President Doumergue of the satisfactory progress he was making.

"Everything is going right," he observed smilingly as he left the presidential mansion. "I have just given the president an account of the labors of the day. The cabinet will be completed unless there is a hitch—which I don't anticipate—tomorrow, perhaps even tomorrow morning. I have an appointment with the president at 11 a. m."

The new government as now shaped involves only a slight shift toward the right. Former Premier Leygues is the only mark of the moderate groups in the new combination. Consequently it is supposed that M. Briand is satisfied with a slight enlargement of the parliamentary majority to make up for the Socialist defection.

Wrestler Wins Over Boxer; Decision Is Given in Court

A former wrestler gained a decision over an ex-pugilist in the Shakespeare avenue court yesterday when John Marach, 2906 Dawson street, former prize fighter, was fined $5 and ordered to pay $50 for damage done to the uniform of Carl Lowing, a policeman and one of few wrestlers ever to win from Johnny Meyers, present middleweight champion. Lowing and Richard Catlers, patrolmen had responded to a riot call Thursday.

I'M GOVERNOR OF TEXAS, NOT 'MA,' FERGUSON SAYS

Jim Admits Wife Handed Over Power to Him.

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—The New York Times in a dispatch from a staff correspondent at Austin, Tex., will say tomorrow that former Gov. James E. Ferguson today admitted that he, and not his wife, Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, is the real governor of Texas.

The newspaper will say he tacitly admitted to newspapermen during a two hour interview that his wife had abdicated part of her executive functions to him and that he justified her in doing so. He said that she had told the voters during her election campaign last year that she lacked experience in statecraft and depended on him to help her.

Ask for "Ma"; Meet Jim.

Asking for an appointment with the governor this morning, newspapermen were told to come back this afternoon. At the appointed time they were ushered into the executive office, but found, not Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson, but her husband.

"In the first primary last year," he said, "I ran second to the klan candidate." Then he corrected himself.

"I mean my wife ran second," he said. "We haven't decided," he said, "whether we will run for governor again next year or not.' He charged his enemies with conducting a "whispering campaign" behind his back, and when the talk of impeaching "Ma" Ferguson was mentioned, he leaned back in his chair and laughed.

Scoffs at Impeachment.

"It's no surprise to me that Satterwhite (speaker of the house) said he would not hesitate to impeach the governor because she is a woman. He wouldn't hesitate to do anything to advance his political career, woman or no woman.

"In her campaign she announced that she was running to vindicate her family honor, but that she did not lay any claims to statecraft and that she would call for advice of prominent men of the state, including 'her good husband.' We went all through this 'petticoat' government thing at that time."

Discussing the investigation into the 1,126 pardons, paroles, and other acts of clemency issued by Mrs. Ferguson during her ten months as governor, Ferguson said that the "investigators would never get anywhere" because there was nothing wrong in her actions.

DAIRYMEN COME TO BUNDESEN AID IN MILK DISPUTE

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, city health commisisoner, yesterday accepted service of a temporary injunction granted by Judge William J. Fulton, Geneva, Ill., several days ago, restraining the commissioner and a score of milk distributors from enforcing the proposed order preventing distribution in Chicago of milk from nontuberculin tested cattle.

After reading the order, Dr. Bundesen declared that he intended to continue to see that the city is supplied with milk from tested herds.

Reports coming in from the country yesterday indicated that the commissioner has more dairymen fighting for him than against him.

4 CHECKER CAB CHIEFS HELD ON FRAUD CHARGES

Although the complainant sought at the last moment to withdraw his charges, four officials of the Checker Cab company were held to the grand jury yesterday in bonds of $15,000 each by Judge John H. Lyle on charges of conspiracy to defraud.

Alfred O. Baker, 6028 Stony Island avenue, had charged that the four men had defrauded him of $5,000 in company stock.

The defendants, Max Raifman, president; Bernard Mitchell, treasurer; Joseph Wokrel, vice president, and Robert McLaughlin, secretary, were allowed until tomorrow to produce bonds.

All You Need Do Is Just DRIVE This Car

Once you've seen the Ajax Six—and driven it—the question of which car to buy in this field is quickly settled.

The Ajax offers far more in every way and the proof is overwhelming.

Ten miles at the wheel will show you things you never dreamed a car of this field could possibly accomplish.

It has a whale of a lot of power—and at either low or high speed it has that delightful purr that people who own costly cars brag about.

Its alertness and handling-lightness is another revelation especially appreciated in congested traffic.

Then take its body design—there's just no argument here—the Ajax Six is so much smarter and more stylish.

Finally, check over all its features. As a good buyer you know just about what cars of similar price have.

There's really nothing in this field that begins to compare with the Ajax Six. And to prove it to yourself—Just drive it! JUST DRIVE IT!

FASCISTI GRAB RULE OF 7,300 TOWNS IN ITALY

Mussolini Law Abolishes Self-Government.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ROME, Nov. 27.—Characterizing the bill as a "master stroke against liberal democracy," Minister of Finance Federzoni today presented to the chamber of deputies a project for the federal appointment of podestas, or municipal officials, depriving 7,300 of the 9,140 communities in Italy of local autonomy. After a session, interrupted only by the enthusiastic outbursts of the Fascisti or cries from nine communists, the project was adopted.

Sig. Federzoni created a sensation when, after saying he refused to accept an amendment so the bill applied to cities of 10,000 or less, he declared as soon as this law was applied another bill would be presented providing for the appointment of podestas for all cities in Italy, including Genoa and Milan.

Absolute Control for Fascisti.

The Podesta law gives the government absolute control of the political machines in the communes. It applies to all communes of 5,000 and under and all watering places on the Italian Riviera, and is regarded as one of the greatest measures to assure the perpetuity of the Fascisti regime.

Another law is pending which increases the powers of the prefects of the provinces, corresponding to American governors, who also will be federal appointees and act as executive heads of public utilities and other activities.

A communist interrupted Sig. Federzoni, declaring the law was against the masses and peasants. A Fascist deputy jumped to the floor and amid the applause and laughter of the chamber told the communists that if the Fascisti did not protect them they would be beaten up daily.

Premier Mussolini and other ministers were on the government bench, but he did not speak.

Silence Greets "Convert."

A speech by Sig. Combattendi, a war veteran and originally anti-Fascist, announcing himself completely converted to Fascism and approving without reserve every law on their program was greeted with stony silence.

Sig. Farinacci, secretary general of the party, has written an article protesting against "conversions resulting from personal interest. What we want is men with character and moral force."

URGES MIDWEST UNITE TO BUILD ITS WATERWAYS

Era of Rivalry Ended, Lecturer Says.

Chicago and St. Louis must combine in building for the nation the inland waterways system. Carl J. Baer of the Standard Unit Navigation company of St. Louis told members of the Geographic Society of Chicago in a lecture at Fullerton hall yesterday.

"It is not a question of competition between cities any more," said Mr. Baer. "The cities of the valley must grow in greater proportion during the next fifty years in order to sustain this nation.

"But when the water transport way is completed between Chicago and the Mississippi, and this is expected within five years, Chicago will be the great inland port of the United States.

"We have forgotten the old waterways, but we are coming back to them. Shallow water navigation is necessary to business men and consumer. Decadence of the canals is no good reason to think that they cannot be utilized in the future.

"There is every opportunity now to provide modern methods of utilizing our shallow rivers and canals. Water traffic is at a materially lower cost than any other. It must be used and combined with the railroads, not as a competitive factor. Unless we use our rivers we cannot hope to compete with European manufacturers.

"The barge line in the Mississippi, operating 1,000 miles from St. Louis to New Orleans, is the only one in the valley, where 15,000 miles of waterway are available. The national government has made this barge line a demonstration and it has proved profitable. We must provide money for the channels, locks, dams and terminals. New York has spent $280,000,000 on its canal system."

Resinol

for skin scrapes and scratches

This healing ointment so quickly stops smarting that it is easy to teach children to call for it when their skin has been scratched, scraped or injured in any way. Wise mothers who have learned from experience that Resinol is perfectly pure and harmless and that it helps to prevent infection because it hastens the healing,—always have it ready for the skin hurts which daily occur in the home where there are children. Get a jar from your druggist today.

GERMAN FEAR OF LEAGUE CLOUDS SECURITY PACT

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

[Copyright: 1925: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—The reichstag this afternoon empowered Foreign Minister Stresemann and Chancellor Luther to sign the European security pact and the other treaties drafted at Locarno. The enabling act was passed by a vote of 291 to 174.

The ratification was not without a joker, however, for when announcing it President Loebe was careful to state it was a simple, and not two-thirds majority.

This conflict over the requirements of the constitution appears to cloud the ratification of the Locarno treaties. In government quarters it was strongly maintained tonight that there is no redress before the courts on the question of the constitutionality of the Locarno law. Government judicial experts contend there can only be a question of constitutionality when the law is improperly drawn.

"We took special care," declared a government spokesman, "that the Locarno pact should be properly prepared."

"In the event the Nationalists wish to push the case," Herr Loebe said, "anybody with law giving powers can bring the matter before the Supreme court of Germany for a decision. The Mecklenberg government, which opposed the Locarno pact in the council of the state, for example, could take such steps.'"

Mecklenburg May Act.

THE TRIBUNE learns the Mecklenburg government, which is radical nationalist, is considering the advisability of taking such steps. The decision of the Mecklenburg government will depend largely on the extent of the concessions, particularly with relation to the airplane restrictions, Rhineland navigation, strength of the occupation forces in the Rhienland, and the Saar plebiscite, which may be forthcoming from the allies in the near future.

It is the attitude of the Mecklenburg government that the league constitutes a superior state. This attitude is similar to that taken by the American senate in refusing to ratify the Versailles treaty and league of nations covenant.

Forces in Rhineland.

Herr Stresemann's newspaper, Taeglische Rundschau, tonight attacks bitterly the Havas announcement that the French maintain six divisions in the Rhineland. This, according to Herr Stresemann's mouthpiece, does not constitute the reduction in the occupation forces promised. According to the Taeglische Rundschau, 90,000 French troops will remain in the Rhineland. Recently it was declared that not more than 40,000 troops would continue the occupation. Whether the French divisions will be a full 15,000 each is a question. An inquiry at the French embassy in Berlin, however brought the response that 15,000 men per division is a reasonable estimate for divisions on frontier or occupation duty.

Poincare Attacks Treaty.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 27.—Raymond Poincare, war president, former premier, and instigator of the Ruhr seizure, today gave out an interview scathingly criticizing the Locarno security pact, warning against the illusions therein, and demanding that France's leaders prepare for Teuton revenge.

M. Poincare said the secret military organizations in Germany are like "defending wolves in steel hats," and they number 2,500,000 men, all trained militarily and ready to reinforce the reichswehr and safety police, while with munitions factories are ready to produce arms.

"I wonder if our English friends have seen that the German postal administration is issuing a series of 150 pfennig propaganda stamps bearing the mark, 'Return her colonies to Germany.' Other stamps are ready to be printed demanding the return of the Silesian corridor, Danzig, the Saar and soon, doubtless, Alsace and Lorraine. Locarno—no more drums, no more guns, no more cannons, no more battles, no more war dead. How sweet it is to sleep in the shade of the orange trees!"

U. C. SCIENTIST'S DISCOVERY BACKS EINSTEIN THEORY

Prof. A. H. Compton of the departmen of physics at the University of Chicago yesterday told members of the Central Ascsociation of Science and Mathematics Teachers that he had proved, after three years of experiment, that light waves are composed of light particles.

His conclusion supports one of the principal points in the general theory of relativity expounded by Einstein, which has been disputed by scientists both in Europe and America.

Prof. Compton said the practical value of his discovery was that it would make possible accurate measurement of light rays, necessary in therapeutic treatment of diseases.

MESSAGE TO HIT WASTE, ASK AID ON FARM, RIVERS

Co-op Market, Fewer R.R. Systems, Super-Power.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Economy, government facilitation of a vast program of economic development at home, and the promotion or iinternational concord are the principal keynotes of the President's annual message to congress.

Mr. Coolidge virtually completed the message today and will devote a few days now to the finishing touches. He will transmit it to congress in writing on Dec. 8, having decided not to read it in person before the houses in joint session.

Washington and John Adams always appeared in person when they had anything to say to congress. Jefferson, presumably because he did not appear to advantage on such occasions, discontinued the custom and transmitted his annual report on the state of the union and other addresses in writing.

Not till Mr. Wilson came in, more than a century after, was the custom of Washington and Adams revived. Mr. Harding followed the Wilson example. Mr. Coolidge appeared once before congress to read his first message after becoming President and then abandoned the practice, for what reason he never has revealed.

To Review Favorite Topics.

While the President will have important things to say in this message to the first session of the Sixty-ninth congress on economy, reduction of taxes, disarmament, and the world court, his views on these matters already have been pretty extensively exploited in his public addresses. For that reason, there will be far greater interest in what recommendations he will make to congress for the promotion of agriculture, industry, and commerce, and for the realization of the ambitious national program of economic development he has in mind.

The President will outline an agricultural policy which will be essentially conservative and will give no satisfaction to the supporters of the McNary-Haugen bill and its various modifications proposing government sanction for artificially boosting the prices of farm products. That the President regards these schemes as unsound economically he has indicated clearly. His agricultural policy is founded chiefly on the development of coöperative marketing, to promote which on a large scale he will ask the action of congress.

The systematic development of inland waterways expanding transportation facilities of the nation will be dealt with in the message in greater detail than hitherto, though it is understood the President will do no more than suggest in general terms the scope of action by this congress which he regards desirable.

Sees Transportationas Vital.

The President is convinced that productivity of many regions of the country would be increased and production costs decreased by a readjustment of transportation so as to use water routes as well as railroads. When asked recently for an expression of his attitude toward the lakes to the gulf deep waterway and the St. Lawrence seaway, in both of which the middle west is deeply interested, the President indicated that he would disclose his view of these and other projects in his message. It is not doubted that he is favorable to both propositions.

Consolidation of the railroads into a few great systems is another of the President's creeds. He believes that it will be possible to reduce freight rates, as demanded by the farmers, when the weak roads are hooked up to the strong roads, so that a rate which now would not enable a weak road to live would furnish a fair return to the consolidated system.

Wants Wide Electrification.

He thinks that reasonable time should be allowed the railroads to consolidate voluntarily, after which compulsory consolidation would be in order.

The President wants the government to further in every way possible the extension of electrification, believing the super-power plan means the revolution of industry.

TEN OVERCOME; $100,000 FIRE AT NORTH CHICAGO

Ten persons, six of them firemen, were overcome yesterday in a $100,000 fire in the Abbott laboratories at North Chicago, Lake county. Included in the property burned were records and secret chemical formulas valued at $25,00.

Fifty girls fled from the building leaving coats and hats behind. Fire departments from Waukegan, Lake Bluff, Lake Forest, Zion and the Great Lakes training station joined the North Chicago firemen in their 6 hour battle, with the fire.

Crowds were attracted by clouds of smoke. Hose lines thrown across the North Shore line tracks delayed trains.

JUDGE LUSTER'S SISTER-IN-LAW FREED BY JURY

Following tearful testimony by Mrs. Elizabeth Christy Luster, pretty sister-in-law of Municipal Judge Max Luster, a jury in Judge Herbert G. Immenhausen's court last night found Mrs. Luster not guilty of charges linking her name with that of Michael Konzak.

Mrs. Luster said she had known Konzak since her girlhood days but that she had never treated him as other than a friend.

Previous witnesses, including policemen and woman detectives, hald told of a raid on an apartment at 4245 Kamerling avenue last Sept. 22 when she and Konzak were arrested. Leo Luster, her husband, and her four children, were present when the verdict exonerating her was read. It was reported that a reconciliation between Luster and his wife might be effected.

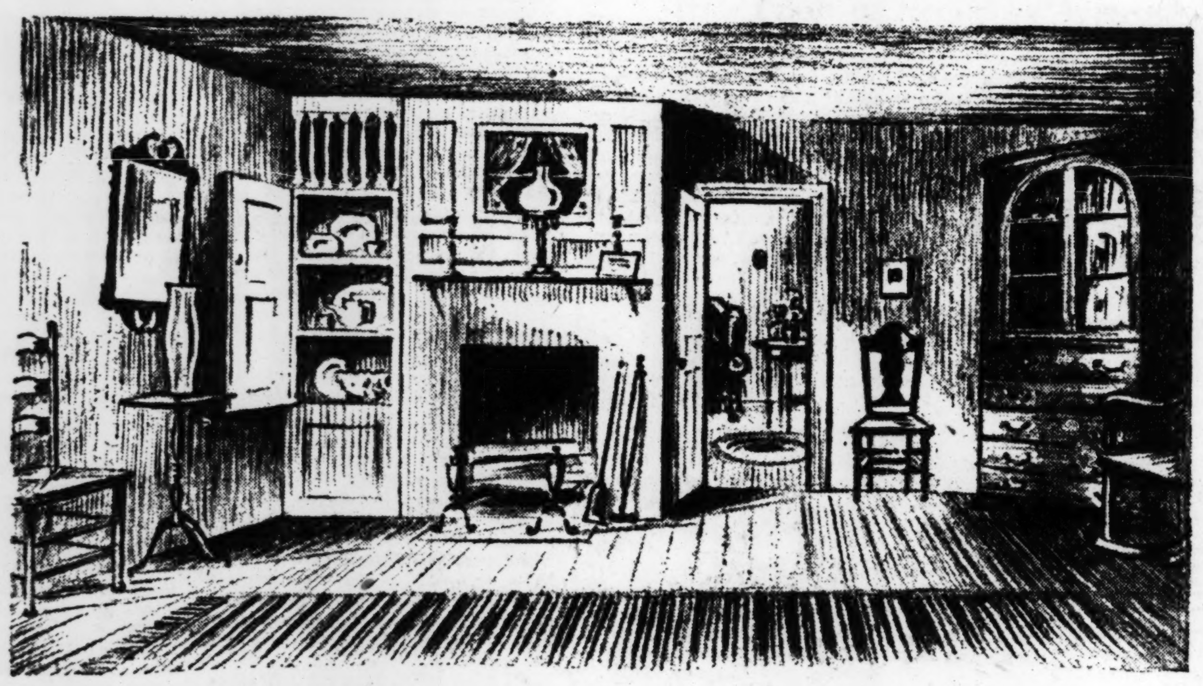
THE HOUSE OF JOHN BARTRAM

John Bartram was born in Chester County, Pennsylvania, in 1699. He is the father of American botany, and upon the grounds of his historic home in Kingsessing, Philadelphia, he founded our first botanical garden.

No. 14 of Our Series of HISTORIC and Interesting AMERICAN HOMES, Emphasizing THE HOME IS THE THING



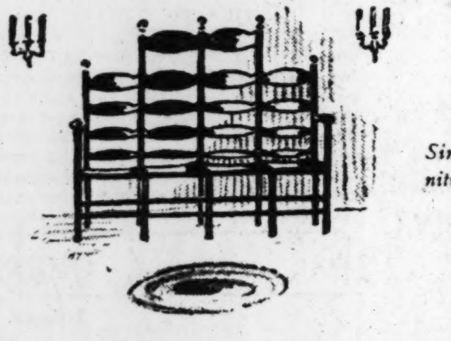
The study of John Bartram, fireplace and cubbyhole.

IN PHILADELPHIA is a picturesque old stone farmhouse built as long ago as before the Revolutionary War with the inscription cut in stone over one of the windows which reads "John and Ann Bartram: 1731." This was the home of the old Quaker who is called the father of American botany and founder of our first botanical garden, where he and his wife, Ann Bartram, lived and where they entertained no less eminent guests than Washington and Franklin and Jefferson.

THE HOME AND THE GARDEN are still to be seen and enjoyed. They were outstandingly different and unique in colonial days and are just as much so today. John Bartram was a very original man and had a very individual way of doing things, which showed most delightfully in the furnishing of his home.

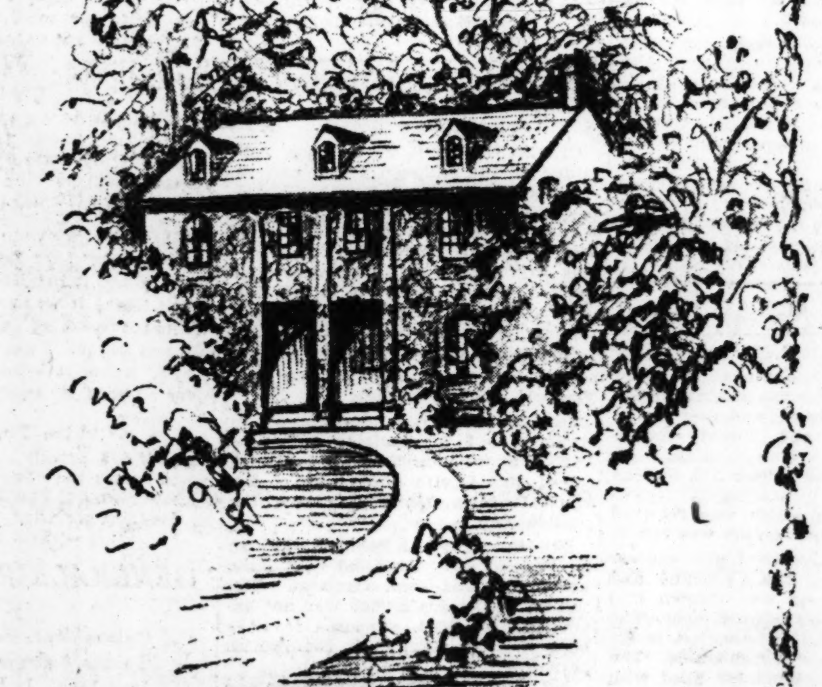
The Home Is The Thing

THE inside of John and Ann Bartram's home was as quaint and individual as you might expect from the exterior. The furniture was fitting and appropriate. The window drapes and rugs were distinctive and charming. Their HOME WAS THE MOST WORTHWHILE THING IN THEIR LIVES. Homes have always been the greatest and dearest possessions in the lives of all of us.



Old fashioned settee in the Bartram home.

Similar styles of furniture in this Store.



"The Home Is the Thing" is the slogan of this Store. Home Furnishings have been the main specialization of this Store since it was established, almost sixty years ago. People who want homes that are furnished not in a stereotyped and commonplace way but expressive of themselves and out of the ordinary can get just the right things at this Store.

EUROPE FOR EUROPEANS.

The German reichstag, by a substantial majority, has ratified the treaties of Locarno. It is a victory for Luther and Stresemann, who negotiated the treaties for their country. It is a compliment to the patriotism of Von Hindenburg, who submerged his own leanings in the desire to do what he thought best for his nation. It is a defeat of the nationalists, who would see junkerism and the Hohenzollern dynasty returned to power.

The ratification of the Locarno treaties is the best evidence yet given to the world that Germany as a republic is an established fact. With this much accomplished, it seems that at last Europe can look forward to days of peaceful rehabilitation. Not all has been settled. Russia and Asia, the menace from the east, still brew in potential eruption. But western Europe, seat of the old troubles, has at least achieved a constructive basis.

Locarno proved that the nations of Europe, when they so willed, could seat themselves about a conference table and evolve friendship. The ancient alliances were in essence negative. They provided for mutual aid against a time of war. Locarno, while that element still entered in, resulted in something positive, a working agreement in behalf of a time of peace.

How different were Versailles and San Remo, where self-interest kept alight the very fires that were ostensibly to be quenched.

Conferences such as Locarno, conferences such as take place in the council halls of the league of nations, are good things, successful things, for Europe. The league proved its efficacy by bringing to a halt the threatened hostilities between Greece and Bulgaria, a small affair to be sure, but one that involved great possibilities of more serious dangers to follow. The league acted promptly, effectively, and proved its worth even to the most dubious.

There are those who think the United States should have had a hand in the Greek-Bulgarian settlement, through membership in the league. To those persons there is the answer that the European powers themselves gave through their representatives who met at Locarno.

Locarno was a declaration of European independence from American interference. President Coolidge talked of calling a land disarmament conference. The diplomats who met at Locarno politely intimated that it was time Europe ran her own affairs in her own way. In naval disarmament America had an interest and the Washington conference was the result of it. In reparations America had an interest, because settlement of the international debt depended on Germany's paying up, and Gen. Dawes' trip and his plan were the outcome, and all the large debtor nations except France have negotiated a plan for payment.

America today has no immediate interest in Europe, and Europe, as was stated at Locarno, has no great interest in America. If America entered the league it would be entering a body dealing with problems with which America has no concern. America's part would be that of the cat's-paw.

Let Americans applaud Locarno, the ratification of the treaties, and the success of the league from these shores, without crossing the Atlantic to enter into a situation which would only lessen this nation's sovereignty and give nothing in return.

WHY WE WANT THE ARMY-NAVY GAME.

The Army plays the Navy today. The game is not at West Point. It isn't at Annapolis. It is in New York. Chicago has asked for a game. Secretary Wilbur of the navy seems to be at least open minded. We do not know the opinion of Secretary Davis of the army, but military chiefs, including the heads of the two academies, are opposed. The fact that the game goes to New York, and that the cadets go there to see it, breaks down the argument against giving it to other sections of the country.

If it would be demoralizing to bring the game and the cadets to Chicago it is only a little less so to take it and them to New York, and the game itself even in West Point or Annapolis is an interruption. That objection really rests on thin air. It is not proposed to make itinerant showmen of the cadets. It would be a three or four day episode in the activities of the schools and as we have said before, the trip could be a maneuver in entrainment.

The friends of the army and navy are asking for the game out here, not as a football game, there is plenty of that, but as a demonstration of the army and navy which would make them more friends. Less conservative persons than military chiefs would be asking for it. Tradition is a powerful force in the army and navy and in some ways it is a good force. We believe the army has a tradition that no force of American regulars ever was in a battle rout. They have been defeated and have retreated, but they never took part in a Bull Run stampede. If the record upholds the tradition it is a good tradition to have. But tradition also has a negative effect. Because a thing never has been done it must never be done.

That disposition leads to a lot of blunders. The Germans did not believe that gas would be as effective as it was. Their chemists knew but the military command was not prepared for the success which followed, and that was the good fortune of the allies. The British were not prepared for the success of their tanks. They were through the Germans and did not know it in time to make use of their advantage.

Napoleon made hash of stiff necked opponents who knew how things had been done before and intended to have them done that way. Washington and his colonials knew how to fight Indians. Braddock and his regulars did not and would not be advised.

This attitude makes trouble and it is one natural to military men. It is what blocks the game for Chicago. Other reasons are advanced, but this is the real one. The friends of the army and navy who ask for the game are not seeking to make a circus out of the event. They want it for patriotic reasons. They want to interest the midwest in the army and navy and have that reflected in liberal political treatment of military affairs.

It was good for Dartmouth to come to Chicago for a game. What is good for a college would be good for these national institutions whose welfare depends upon congressional interest. If the people are interested the congressmen will be interested.

THE DYNAMITERS.

Police for the first time within memory caught a gang of bombers at work the other night. They had planted a bomb in front of a hardware store whose proprietor refused to close his shop on Sundays. The prisoners are reported to have confessed to the state's attorney who now has an opportunity to put an end to a long series of outrages, stretching back through the police records for years.

Bombing was the first organized crime in Chicago. Years ago the bombers confined their activities to blowing up gambling halls. One group of gamblers seeking to corner the business in Chicago would bomb the establishments of their rivals. Gradually the uses of the bomb were extended. It came to be the common weapon in labor conflicts, notably in the building trades. Of late years it has been used to terrorize small shopkeepers into joining trade associations. Grocers, garage owners, shoemakers, barbers, and others have been frightened into submission. Property owners who have dared defy the janitors' union have had bombs planted in their buildings. Similarly, buildings occupied by Negroes in white neighborhoods have been damaged.

The bomb is an ideal weapon for coercing the man of small means. It gives the victim a scare and generally costs him a tidy sum for repairs at minimum risk to the bomber and at no risk at all to the man who hires the dynamiters. By the time the bomb goes off, the criminal is far from the scene of his crime. Any clews he may inadvertently have left behind have been blown out of existence by the bomb itself.

More important than the conviction of the bombers themselves will be the conviction of those who employed them. The police have provided Mr. Crowe a splendid opening. He ought to be able to give bombers and those who hire them a lesson that will not soon be forgotten.

THE FRENCH AS COLONISTS.

Harassed and her rule threatened in Morocco and in Syria, one wonders sometimes whether France is again to fail as a colonist. She holds today a colonial empire second only to that of England. Is it to slip away from her as did the enormous territory she once held in North America and which she optimistically christened Nouvelle France?

France, until recently, never has been a successful colonizer. Comparatively, at least; for her rival has always been Britain, most successful colonizer of them all. By temperament and geographic location France has been handicapped.

Her explorers sallied into new lands as much for the adventure of it as for conquest. England sent traders, not adventurers. While her pioneers in new lands waited for support from home, Versailles occupied itself in the bickerings of European dynasties, as indeed it had to; for France is part of Europe. England, independent across her channel, backed up her explorers and her traders with troops.

England built up her navy; France allowed hers to go to pieces. England sent colonists; the French peasant refused to move from his home soil. Forty years before the American revolution, when France was attempting to hem in the English provinces by her Canadian expansion, Canada's population was only some 90,000, while 1,200,000 Englishmen occupied the Atlantic seaboard. England's population has steadily mounted, creating new recruits for the colonies. France's birth rate has dwindled.

As important, probably, as anything else has been the different attitude of the English colonist and the Frenchman to the natives of the invaded territory. Austere in his caste consciousness, the Englishman has held himself aloof, a demigod, and his military strength has so far succeeded in keeping the illusion intact. That this success has not been quite perfect is evidenced by the murmurings in India and in Egypt. The French, on the other hand, have carried the principles of the revolution across the seas with them, and "Liberté, Egalité, Fraternité" sit no better on a race about to be subdued than does too much education.

Once upon a time France held all of Canada except the far west and the region about Hudson's bay. She held what is now the United States from the Alleghanies to the buffalo plains. She had an even chance with England to gain dominion over India. She let her chances slip away.

Today France enjoys great holdings in Africa, in Indo-China, the south seas, and in Asia Minor. Can she hang on to them, or will these, too, slip?

She has a deficit of $92,000,000 in her 1925 budget, due largely to the cost of the Moroccan and Syrian wars. A great section of the French people are opposed to such costly imperialism. Again they cry "Liberté, Egalité, Fraternité."

The world will watch the outcome with interest.

Editorial of the Day

LUDENDORFF GETS EXCITED.

[The Milwaukee Journal.]

Herr Ludendorff sheds large and copious tears because President Hindenburg urges ratification of the Locarno peace agreements by the reichstag. Under these agreements Germany for the first time since the war gets a position in the council of nations, instead of staying at the back door until called into the presence of the victors. Ludendorff urges Hindenburg not to sign, "but to fight." To fight what? Does Herr Ludendorff want another beer garden revolution such as he made himself ridiculous in when he let the adventurer Hitler turn him into a comic opera actor? Hindenburg understands what is best for Germany, and such fame as he has can only be enhanced if he proves himself to be a wiser leader in peace than in war. Yet Ludendorff feels so badly about what his old commander in chief is doing that he "must hide himself in shame," if the Locarno pacts are approved. At this writing it looks as though he will have to do just that, and the more he hides out the better.

How to Keep Well. By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations, and where a stamped, addressed envelope is inclosed. THE FETICH OF THE TREE.

M. A. writes: In your column recently was an account of the experiments proving the need of light, natural or artificial, for the welfare of little chickens. A day or so later one noticed a story of a half moribund child resuscitated by "solar rays." Every one knows, theoretically, the value of sunlight to human beings. Are we not in receipt of constant requests for funds to enable tenement children to get into the country? One such appeal invites the recipient to note the white sprouts on a potato kept in the cellar and consider the human sprouts so defrauded of light and air. And yet . . .

Let the observer of the curious ways of the well to do citizen of this city, the very ones who respond to the appeals, take a walk through any of our fashionable suburbs; what does he see? House after house, some of them magnificent piles of architecture, set amidst a dense growth of trees and shrubs, so that practically no sunlight may penetrate to the windows. Lawns—those fair stretches of velvety greens which used to gladden our eyes—seem to have become quite extinct. Every ten feet must bear its tree or shrub; the edges of every place of half an acre even are bordered with a dank growth of shrubbery, so that the seed men now advertise grass seed that will grow in the shade.

It is absurd, unhealthy, and unsightly; yet such is the high regard in which a tree is held that it is, literally, like pulling teeth—a painful process—to get any owner of property to forego one simple, spindly, self-sown tree, no matter how much of an obstruction it may be. "It takes so long to grow" seems to be the keynote of the tree worship prevalent among "our best people."

A mother from a fashionable suburb was recently told by a baby specialist that her child would be the better for sun baths—must have them, in fact. What was to be done? The house was beautifully draped and bedecked with elms, oaks, and maples to the east, south and west. On the outskirts of the town lived the laundress, a kindly soul, mother of 5. Her tiny house stood free of landscape effects, and thither, convoyed by the chauffeur and nurse in a rolling limousine, the "poor little rich child" went each day to enjoy the effects of the cheap and undiscriminating sun. Did the parents cut down one tree around her nursery? They did not.

I invite the attention of the readers of your column to this seemingly unimportant but really vital matter.

REPLY.

Let me add this.

Houses set among dense trees are apt to be hot in hot weather because the trees keep off the breeze.

BREAST FEEDING.

Mrs. M. H. T. writes:

1. What can be done about the mothers who will not breast feed their babies?

2. Is there a mother who could not nurse her child if she really wanted to? I contend there is not and it's my opinion the mothers of the daughters are more to blame than the daughters themselves. I think an excellent plan would be for doctors to refuse attendance upon patients who refuse to nurse their babies and who refuse to eat the milk giving foods. It is criminal to refuse a baby its natural food and if mothers refuse to do this there should be laws made and enforced compelling them to do so. At all events, it would lessen mortality against infants. I have been repeatedly criticized and told that I was wrong upon the matter, therefore I am asking for enlightenment.

REPLY.

1. Nothing, except to educate and interest them. The death rate among bottle fed babies is several times as high as that among breast fed. The sickness rate is also much higher. Bottle fed babies are prone to catch measles and whooping cough. The breast fed are not. Breast feeding is less troublesome than bottle feeding, even when the baby is well. Sick babies are more troublesome than well ones. Breast feeding is less expensive than bottle feeding.

By breast feeding on a four hour schedule with no night feeding, the mother can get regular, restful sleep. If she must go out to work, or for pleasure, she can give one bottle feeding a day and in that way get about eight hours a day away from home.

A law, making bottle feeding a crime, could not be passed nor enforced.

2. Most women can breast feed their babies. There are few who cannot.

OUSTED FROM FLAT.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I rented a flat which I occupied for seven months. Then I took sick and was not working, so I could not pay the rent for one month. Ten days after the rent was due I received an official notice to leave the flat on the grounds that I was unable to pay the rent. Can the landlord still recover that month's rent by attaching my pay?

STREETS SHOULD BE PAVED.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—[Friend of the People.]—The streets of the district from the drainage canal south to Sixty-third street and from Kostner west to Harlem avenue are badly in need of attention. A fire engine house was completed recently in this district, but in case of fire I do not see how the engines could possibly get through the streets. If the city would dump some ashes around here it would help.

P. J.

The cost of filling in the streets listed with ashes would be prohibitive on account of the great distance from the source of supply. The only remedy is to have the streets paved by special assessment at as early a date as possible and I suggest that he request the alderman of the ward to take necessary action to this end.

EMPLOYE'S RIGHTS.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—On a recent job I was taken off time work and put on piece work. I preferred the other kind of work and asked my boss if I could return to it. He told me with considerable profanity that if I did not like it I could quit. I told him that I thought the profanity was unnecessary, upon which he struck me. 1. To what extent must an employé be subject to such profanity and abuse? 2. Had the boss any right to strike me? 3. What legal action could I take against him or the firm employing him?

R. H. E.

1. There is no legal requirement that he be subject to it.

2. No.

3. If you wish to pursue legal remedies, you should employ an attorney.

60 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 28, 1865.

WASHINGTON.—Count de Monthalon, the French minister, protested the seizure by the government of tobacco at Richmond, Va., claiming it to be the property of August Belmont, American agent for the French Rothschilds.

WASHINGTON.—Gen. Grant and staff will leave on a ten days' inspection tour of the south.

WASHINGTON.—Newsboys startled the capital by crying extras: "War with France." A rumor was afloat that federal troops had fired on a French war vessel in the Rio Grande river, but the state department denies it, no report of trouble with Maximilian's forces reaching the department.

CHICAGO.—Mail from Chicago on Saturday evening now reaches New York on Monday morning, 27 hours quicker than previous schedules.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 28, 1900.

CHICAGO. — Resolutions indorsing Graeme Stewart for the nomination for mayor next spring were adopted by the Twenty-second and Twenty-fourth Ward Republican club meetings. In the Eleventh ward former Ald. Simons made a speech advocating Mr. Stewart's nomination which was received with cheers, but no action was taken.

BEAVER, Pa.—The night express for Cleveland on the Cleveland and Pittsburgh railroad was thrown into the river two miles below Beaver. The loss of life is not known, but is believed to have been considerable. The five cars were comfortably filled with passengers.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—United States Senator Cushman Kellogg Davis, chairman of the foreign relations committee of the senate, died after an illness of two months.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Chief Wilkie of the secret service said he had no information whatever of a rumored plot to kill the President, as told in a story from Hoboken, N. J. He said his bureau had received hundreds of such reports from time to time.

CHICAGO.—The Union Pacific railroad has taken steps to make the business of train robbing odious. The company, it is announced, will put armed guards on all trains carrying large shipments of bullion or money. In addition to this, it offers to pay $1,000 reward for every train robber, dead or alive.

LONDON.—With all the pomp and circumstance that might have attended the obsequies of a member of the royal family, the remains of Sir Arthur S. Sullivan were interred in St. Paul's cathedral. The first portion of the service was held in the royal chapel. The queen, the emperor of Germany, the prince of Wales, and other royalty were represented.

MANILA.—A detachment of the Third United States infantry was ambushed near Malolos. The ladrones fired a volley at the Americans, killing two privates of Company F and wounding three.

CHICAGO.—Tommy Ryan won the decision over "Kid" Carter at Tattersall's after six rounds of as hard fighting as the most fastidious sport would care to witness.

NOVEMBER 28, 1915.

CHICAGO.—Louis P. Lochner, secretary of the Chicago Peace society and spokesman for Henry Ford, announced that Mr. Ford will call a general strike of the millions of fighting men in Europe by wireless on Christmas day if he fails to persuade the warring nations that war is hell and that hell has no place on earth.

CHICAGO.—THE TRIBUNE issued its annual call to Good Fellows to rally to the aid of the poor on Christmas. The first call was in 1909.

JOLIET.—The jury was reported to stand 9 to 3 for hanging "Chicken Joe" Campbell, on trial for the murder of Mrs. Odette Allen, wife of Edmund M. Allen, former warden of the penitentiary.

ROME. — Earl Kitchener, British minister of war, conferred with King Emmanuel and Gen. Cadorna. The subject of the conference was not announced, but it is supposed to have been in connection with the Balkan situation.

NEW YORK.—President Wilson and Mrs. Norman Galt, his fiancée, furnished the heartiest laugh of the evening at a musical comedy show here. As they entered they were greeted with tremendous applause. No sooner was quiet restored than this line of the play was spoken: "Poor widows cause a lot of trouble in this world." The audience broke into roars of laughter. Wilson just smiled.

WASHINGTON.—Dr. Arthur Dean Bevan of Chicago was elected president of the world's most exclusive medical fraternity—the Clinical Surgical society—which is restricted to thirty-nine members.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 24.—In an editorial appearing in your paper on Nov. 22, 1925, headed "Above the Law," you stated: "We do not know of killings in any other state than Maryland where the jurisdiction of the state law has been taken away," etc.

I call your attention to an Illinois case where a prohibition agent was indicted in Madison county and the case was removed to Springfield, the agent was defended by the U. S. district attorney and a special assistant, and was acquitted. Briefly, the record is as follows:

On Nov. 17, 1920, S. Glenn Young was indicted in the Circuit court of Madison county, charged in four counts with having murdered Luke Vukovic by shooting the latter in the head. The indictment was signed by William J. Gottenstrader, as foreman, and by Joseph P. Streuber, state's attorney. Young was arrested by the sheriff of Sangamon county on request of the Madison county authorities and lodged in the Sangamon jail. On Nov. 18, 1920, Young filed a petition for removal to the U. S. court at Springfield, alleging that he was an internal revenue prohibition agent and while making an investigation in his official capacity was assaulted by Luke Vukovic with a pistol, and that he [Young] shot and killed Vukovic in self-defense. On Nov. 19 a writ of habeas corpus was issued and served on the Sangamon sheriff and Young was produced in the U. S. court. On the next day a writ of certiorari removing the cause from Madison county to the U. S. court was issued and served. This case is numbered 16,657.

The homicide case is numbered 16,658, and was called for trial June 7, 1921. The state's attorney of Madison county prosecuted and Young was defended by Edward C. Knotts, U. S. district attorney for the southern district of Illinois, and by Robert H. Patton, special assistant. On June 10, 1921, the jury returned a verdict of "not guilty."

The foregoing information is of record and is authentic. I was not connected with it and was not and am not interested other than as a lawyer and a citizen in sympathy with the stand taken by your paper.

WILLIAM ST. J. WINES.

WHOA!

Chicago, Nov. 22.—When we say "Whoa" to a horse he stops. A horse can't hold a pistol or handle a blackjack or grab a knife. Even if the horse could do that, all a person would have to do in order to make the horse stop would be to say "Whoa."

What I am driving at is this: Why can't some very smart person create a word to make a gunman stop when he is about to shoot, or when he is about to strike you with a blackjack or a knife? It can be done if we only try some word or something else. All we need is something to paralyze the gunman's arm or brain in a half a second. I'll admit I can't think of anything, but deep down in me I feel sure there is a way to make this world, especially Chicago, a safe place to be at any time for anybody. All we need to do is to stop that finger from moving an eighth of an inch or so.

We need a lost motion word with a paralyzing effect. "Whoa, there!"

FRANK A. ALLEN.

ADVICE TO DURKIN.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—If Durkin will proceed to the great west side and to no less a thoroughfare than Ogden avenue, between Harrison street and Roosevelt road, he will find holes in the street large enough to hide a truck in. The police would never dare go after him down there if they fear him so on the surface. Try it, Durkin, because it may be years and years before they decide to close these openings and by that time your troubles may blow over.

ERNEST MALTER.

THE WESTERN BOULEVARD BRIDGE.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Having just burned up a gallon of gas on account of it and used up an equal amount of nervous energy, I feel in the mood to express my views on the subject of the bridge at Western boulevard, near the International Harvester works.

This situation is really a disgrace to the city. I refer especially to the northbound traffic. Night after night, at the rush times, automobiles are lined up for two or three blocks, waiting to get over this bridge. Western avenue is equally crowded. Both lines move at a snail's pace. There is much honking of horn and clanging of bell and loss of both time and temper. What is worse, there are always some ambitious citizens who cannot await their turn like the rest of us and so shoot ahead in an extra line, often two, thus making it hard and even dangerous for the machines coming south.

If the city cannot make drives paralleling Western boulevard, it could at least install some of these beehive lights or have the pavement marked approaching the bridge. The crowding in is both terrible and deplorable. A policeman also would be of material help. Why not clear this up for the next achievement week?

LONG SUFFERER.

FOR WIDENING HALSTED STREET.

Chicago, Nov. 25.—Halsted street, originally referred to in the Chicago Plan commission report as the "king of streets," has been neglected in the rapid forward movement of Chicago. This street extends from the south limits into the boundary of the north side on a straight line. It should be the greatest thoroughfare in the city. Why not make this a 108 foot street so that the southwest traffic coming in on Archer avenue and other arteries may avoid the loop passing north on this street to Ogden avenue?

This would relieve the loop of 25 per cent of its unnecessary traffic, and would help solve the traffic problem in the loop. It is now a 66 foot street, which is entirely inadequate. The street is of no great value as it is for the traffic moves so slowly that it is avoided by all who can find another way of travel.

The business men on the street could well afford to pay an assessment for such an improvement as the traffic on the street would make property values much higher. The Chicago Plan commission could well afford to initiate the movement as the greatest improvement the city requires today.

WILLIAM J. RATHJE.

A ROAD TO THE WEST SIDE.

Chicago, Nov. 24.—Your editorial in reference to a road parallel to Roosevelt road is an excellent one.

If Monroe street were paved from Clinton street to Morgan street, about one-half mile, we believe this would be a road such as you suggest. Monroe street runs from Grant park out to Western avenue, and if this small patch were improved considerable pressure would be taken from Madison street, Jackson and Washington boulevards.

Please accept our sincere thanks for the first bit of reasonable publicity our west side has had in some time. We usually get the hospitals, jails, dog pounds, pest houses, and philanthropic institutions for hobos that north siders and south siders do not want, so that your few words are certainly appreciated.

Morley Puts Over Fine Idea in His "Thunder on Left"

By Fanny Butcher.

CHRISTOPHER MORLEY.

Christopher Morley has an audience disproportionately large and disproportionately devoted to his merits, it has always seemed to me. While he is a writer of facility and occasionally of charm and whimsicality, he is by every possible literary standard a second rater. Excepting "Shandygaff," which was a collection of very pleasant essays and the best of his work, every book has been little more than an idea. The ideas were occasionally delightful, like the idea of "Parnassus on Wheels." They had a sort of fruity atmosphere, like "The Haunted Bookshop," or they were what some considered delightfully whimsical, like "Where the Blue Begins" (but which I, knowing and loving dogs, thought was pure tosh). But not one of those books was much more than an idea.

Mr. Morley is an excellent journalist, and, having an idea, he is perfectly capable of making the most of it and of making a very entertaining book of it, of doing his task perfectly adequately. That his books are not great ones is not only due to Mr. Morley's fundamental inadequacies, perhaps, any more than to the adoring public. The public demands of him a certain amount of work during a certain amount of time. He has never written anything that I have ever read which might not have been done just as I am writing this review—with a sense that a deadline awaits, and that to polish it or to rewrite it, or to wait for the cold judgment of time upon it, is utterly impossible.

If Mr. Morley were not such a good journalist, he wouldn't be able to fool anybody about his books being literature. As it is, he fools, as nine-tenths of the writers of today do, almost every one who reads their hastily dashed off novels and who forgets the power of the really great and gives himself to the allurements of the merely great. I don't say that Mr. Morley is a Milton, even though he has certainly been neither mute nor inglorious, but I do say that whatever Miltonian qualities he has he has never allowed to raise their horrid heads. It is because he may really be able to write and because most of our books don't even have an idea that I regret his customary haste.

Those regrets are made more serious by "Thunder on the Left," a novel in which he really does almost bring the thing off. He has a wonderful idea, a sort of Walter de la Mareish one, and there are times when the idea almost has the suitable vestments of the great. But, like every other of his novels (except the purely funny one, and incidentally, perhaps the one which I liked best, "Pandora Lifts the Lid," written with Don Marquis) the idea doesn't attain reality.

It's a charming idea, though. In the beginning a group of children are talking about growing up and wondering whether it's fun to be grown up or not and one of them promises to find out. Then the story switches to the time when they are grown up and the boy who promised to find out is injected into a peaceful week-end party, which consists of, as you later find, the children of the beginning chapter, grown up. The boy is naive, a child in reality, although he has attained man's stature.

The fundamental idea of the book is that there isn't really any happiness in being grown up, a whimsical and rather philosophical idea, much more vivid and mystical than any other idea Morley has propounded in his books, and, for that reason, destined probably to be less understood. Most of his readers will find the book merely a good story of a group of modern intellectuals and everyday people mixed curiously in a tale. It is that. But it is something much more vital than that. It is a fictional statement of a philosophical concept. If Mr. Morley had been able to bring it off, if he had been just a little more gifted and just a little less in a hurry, he would probably have written a great book. Walter de la Mare could have done it perfectly. But, then, Walter de la Mare would never have done it, for he probably wouldn't have thought such a self-evident fact worth writing about as that if children could see what life was to be as adults they would never want to leave childhood. Anyway, I think "Thunder on the Left" the best book of Christopher Morley's that I have ever read. What his passionate admirers will think of it we will soon know, for he has many and they are all vocal.

Back to the Soil—and Happy.

"Green Bush," by John T. Frederick. (Knopf.)

"Green Bush," by John T. Frederick, is one of those books which are, of their type, excellent examples, which are written with meticulous care and skill, but which somehow just don't thrill you, and you can't tell why they don't. They satisfy all of your demands for that kind of novel, but they slip into the limbo of forgotten books just as a day in which everything has been even and pleasant and casual and well mannered in your life slips into place among the forgotten yesterdays. There is nothing vivid nor tenacious about them. You like them. But you don't yearn for their recoming.

"Green Bush" is the story—and I must emphasize again the fact that it is an unusually good one—of a man who had the yearning for the soil in his heart—if not the soil, at least the clear freshness of life near it, if not rooted in it. The son of the owner of a small country newspaper, he tried to make a place for himself in the city, but city life is simply not meant for him, and he goes back to the country and is happy. There are embroideries to the plot, but that is the pattern of it, as it has been the pattern of so many novels lately. "Green Bush" is more than ordinarily a fine example of that kind of novel. It has reality. There is nothing maudlin nor false about it. But the fact remains that when you have finished it, although it has given you a sense of having read a good book, it hasn't thrilled you.

A Book of Whimsy.

"The Sailor's Return," by David Garnett. (Knopf.)

"The Sailor's Return," is in its way, although of an entirely different genre, as great a piece of work as "Lady into Fox." David Garnett wrote in that earlier book a whimsy that was different from anything that most of us had read for a long time, an almost perfect thing of its kind. It was a whimsy, however, and so was "The Man in the Zoo," although it was less unforgettable and fine than "Lady Into Fox."

"The Sailor's Return" is a book in exactly the opposite manner. It is an absolutely simple and unadorned tale of fact. That the fact is a rather bizarre one only makes the utterly unembroidered manner of telling it the more spectacular. It is the story of a returned sailor—although "The Sailor's Return" is the name of a public house—who has married the daughter of an African chief. With her pearls and her gold dust in his pocket, with her, whom he calls Tulip, dressed as a boy and with their baby, Sambo, concealed in a basket, they arrive in England. He soon takes her out of her boy's clothes, removes Sambo from the basket, dresses her in the most fluty of the Victorian styles and they buy a public house. The story is concerned with the growing hatred of the country side for the black woman and her child, the idyllic happiness of the strange family, and the complete tragedy which overtakes them when the husband is killed in a fight and Tulip flees from the village curate who wants to take her child and put him in an asylum.

She finally succeeds in persuading a captain of a boat to take him back to Africa, but he refuses to take the mother and she returns to "The Sailor's Return" and works almost as a slave there. The vivid and bizarre tale is told without one moment's heightening of emotion. It is the calmest tale you have ever read, and one of the most smoldering underneath. It is a brilliant piece of work technically.

Davies' New Book Gives Sketches of English Authors

By Sidney Dark.
[English Critic.]

It is twenty years ago since W. H. Davies, the poet, published his "Autobiography of a Super Tramp." Since then his verse, of a Wordsworthian simplicity beloved by the parodists, has gained him a considerable reputation. Now he has published another volume of autobiography which he calls "Later Days," in which he has much to say of the literary celebrities whom he has known.

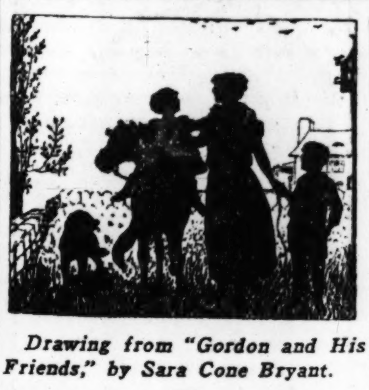
W. H. DAVIES.
[Portrait by Laura Knight.]

Among them Bernard Shaw is his chief idol. Writing of Conrad, Davies says that the Polish novelist was much upset when he told him of the rumor that though he held a master's certificate he had never really commanded a ship. I thoroughly agree with Mr. Davies when he writes, "Rupert Brooke was not only not a great poet—his work shows not the least sign that he ever would have become one. . . . To talk of a severe loss to English poetry is all sentimental cant and humbug."

I have been reading John Drinkwater's "Robert Burns," and I do not think that either from the literary or from the theatrical point of view it is equal to his "Abraham Lincoln," his "Mary Stuart," or his "Oliver Cromwell." The Scottish poet is allowed by the dramatist very largely to explain himself by quoting his own poems, and one of the few really striking original lines in the play is the confession in the last act, "I've spent my life repenting." The fact is, it seems to me, that Burns' life, interesting as it was, was not of the stuff of which stage plays can successfully be made.

Louis Couperus has been in the Far East and has written a travel book which he calls "Nippon."

Children's Books



Drawing from "Gordon and His Friends," by Sara Cone Bryant.

Children's books are reviewed by Adah F. Whitcomb, supervisor of the children's department of the Chicago Public Library.

"Gordon and His Friends," by Sara Cone Bryant (Houghton).

Gordon and Mary are very real children who had glorious fun the whole summer through at the seashore. A seven year old child can easily read the stories, which are told mostly in words of one syllable.

No wonder children learn to read easily nowadays, when they can have such delightful books as this. The illustrations are mostly silhouettes, which seem to be a very popular form of illustration at present.

From 8 to 14.

"Under These Trees," by Grace Humphrey (Milton, Bradley Co.).

School readers today are being made attractive and alluring. It is difficult to tell a school reader from a home reading book. They contain no vocabulary for each lesson, with study questions, bound up in a drab cover, but bright colored pictures, good print, stories and poems and information put together in a way to interest and please children.

Such a book is "Stories in Trees," by Mary I. Curtis, for 3d and 4th grade children.

Another book, by Grace Humphrey, entitled "Under These Trees," is just chock full of historical accounts of ten famous trees, all the way from the famous fig tree in the Roman forum to the Washington elm.

It is surprising how many important events in the progress of civilization are bound up in the stories of these, including the fairy tree of Domremy, the trysting oak of Robin Hood, the Royal oak, and the Charter oak.

Of the ten famous trees six were oaks, three elms, and one a fig tree. Eighth and ninth grade children will find their history more interesting after reading this book.

"Cricket, a Little Girl of the Old West," by Forrestine C. Hooker (Doubleday, Page & Co.).

Cricket was the nickname of the small daughter of an army officer who lived at Fort Sill and in various places in the far west where he was sent by the government.

She is a very real character. Each chapter portrays her share in some of the varied experiences of the troopers' life, including Indian uprisings and cowboy raids, as the soldiers change their posts from one Indian reservation to another.

Cricket had many queer pets, including a horned toad, a coyote, and even an Indian papoose. Her adventures and hardships, her joys and tragedies prove her to be a true and lovable child of nature.

One is sorry to part with her.

JUDGING CONTEST OPENS LIVESTOCK EXHIBIT TODAY

Students from Colleges Seek Prizes.

A special review was held at the International Live Stock exposition last night for the judges who are to pick the prize winners of the show, which opens this morning at the Union stockyards.

While the actual judging will not begin until Monday morning, Robert L. B. Duncan and J. Edgerton Quested, both foreign judges, were on the grounds yesterday getting a bird's eye view of the exposition and the 10,500 animals groomed for the grand roundup of the year.

Many Schools Entered.

The show officially opens today with the intercollegiate live stock judging contest. Teams made up of five students will represent the various agricultural colleges and universities in the United States and Canada, including Ontario Agricultural college, University of California, University of Arizona, Colorado State Agricultural college, University of Illinois, Iowa State college, Kansas State Agricultural college, Massachusetts Agricultural college, Michigan Agricultural college, University of Minnesota, University of Missouri, University of Nebraska, North Dakota Agricultural college, Ohio State university, Oklahoma A. and M. college, Pennsylvania State college, Purdue university, South Dakota Agricultural college, A. and M. College of Texas, West Virginia university, University of Wisconsin, and University of Wyoming.

The junior live stock feeding contest will be held today.

Oklahoma Is Winner.

Oklahoma yesterday won the seventh annual noncollegiate live stock judging contest, a preliminary event in which teams from twenty-two states participated, winning the trophy presented yearly by the Union Stock Yards and Transit company. Clarence Kingery, 17 years old, of Garber, Okla., scored highest in the individual competition with 546 points out of a possible 600.

Tonight is Chicago night at the nightly horse show, where the blue ribboners from local stables are to frolic on the tan bark.

Men and boys of the stockyards, who are in the saddle almost every day in the year, will have their round tonight, demonstrating their ability as cowpunchers.

MASKED PAIR KILL MAN, WOUND 1 IN ROADHOUSE RAID

Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., Nov. 27.—(AP)—One man was murdered and another was probably fatally wounded by masked men in a mystery attack in a roadhouse near here tonight. Two men, wearing long white masks, leaped into an automobile after the shooting and escaped.

The wounded man, William Bauer, questioned by sheriff's deputies, said he had no known enemies, and was unable to give a motive for the attack. Bauer and his companion, Ray Davis, who was slain outright, went to the roadhouse shortly before 9 o'clock and told the proprietor, Frank Flatoff, they wished to talk with him. The three sat down on a settee.

A few moments later an automobile was heard outside of the roadhouse and the two masked men entered. Without warning, one of them drew a revolver, and saying: "Davis, you're the man we want," fired, killing his victim. The other said: "Bauer, you're next," and fired, wounding Bauer in the stomach.

Business Men's Paintings on Exhibition to the Public

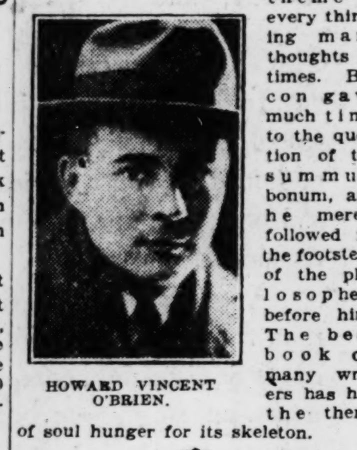
Paintings by Chicago business men are on display this week at the Business Men's Art club, 81 West Van Buren street. All are the work of men actively engaged in various commercial enterprises, but who for their pastime produce pictures in oil and water color. The exhibition is open to the public from 1 to 10 p. m., with the exception of Monday and Wednesday evenings. It closes Dec. 1.

BOOKS

'What Man Wants' Is the Story of One Who Asked Nothing

"What a Man Wants," by Howard Vincent O'Brien. (Doubleday, Page.)

What a man wants has been the theme of countless books, as it is the theme of every thinking man's thoughts at times. Bacon gave much time to the question of the summum bonum, and he merely followed in the footsteps of the philosophers before him. The best book of many writers has had the theme of soul hunger for its skeleton.



HOWARD VINCENT O'BRIEN.

Howard Vincent O'Brien attacks the problem from another angle. He takes as his hero a man who didn't really want anything. The most characteristic paragraph in the book—and incidentally one of the nicest parts—is where the whole family is trying to make the boy ashamed of not studying. His father angrily demands of him, "Don't you want to go to college?" and the boy replies simply, "No." Whereupon the family bursts into incredulous no's, and the boy protests: "I merely said I didn't want to go. I didn't say I wanted not to go."

"What a Man Wants" is the story of a man who didn't really want anything, and as long as he doesn't really want anything he is a charming and delightful character. When he finds that what he wants is a special girl he turns into the hero of all of the love stories in the world.

But while he is a boy and a young man he is a very nice person. He is especially nice in the war. He didn't want promotion or anything else, and he hated Paris on his leave and was glad to get back to the dirt and the comfortable routine of his gun. If he weren't given to making such generous and story-book gestures the hero of "What a Man Wants" would be a delight. But it is the fashion nowadays for the innocent to suffer in books. Mark Sabre has had a prolific progeny. Ammiel, the hero of this book, is an unusually real understandable character until he is noble. He is a memorable one, too.

But when he begins being noble he is just like all of the other heroes, just as he is like all of the other lovers. At that, "What a Man Wants" is a better story than nine-tenths of them, because when he is a human being, Ammiel is an exceptionally straightforward and uncompromisingly honest human being, and that is as rare in books as it is in life.

"Leaves from My Life," by Annie Kilburn Kilmer. [Frye Publishing Company.]

The mother of Joyce Kilmer has published some of her early newspaper letters in a volume, which she calls "Leaves from My Life." On the front of the book, under her name, is "The Mother of Sergeant Joyce Kilmer," which would lead the reader to think that there might be new material in it about Joyce Kilmer. What he finds is a dull and self-satisfied book of things which might have held some interest to those to whom they were written, but which is not in any sense a book of any importance whatever. It is the sort of book which would have made Joyce Kilmer sick at heart to see published, because it is so trivial and so little worth the effort of publication.

"John Burroughs and Ludella Peck." [Harold Vinol.]

The letters which John Burroughs wrote to Ludella Peck and those which she wrote to him have been gathered together and printed in a most attractive form by Harold Vinol. Mr. Burroughs said of Miss Peck that she was "a wistful, penetrating soul with a keen intellect. I had few as sympathetic readers and no wiser critic." The correspondence of two such people is a charming addition to any literature. The letters were written over a period of years, beginning in 1892 and were interrupted by Miss Peck's death in 1913. The last letter which each wrote to the other was dated early in April of 1912.

Suggested for Christmas

TWICE THIRTY

By Edward W. Bok

Author of "The Americanization of Edward Bok"

One reason why this will make an excellent Christmas gift:

"It is a restful book, because Mr. Bok is not probing under surfaces and laying wounds bare. He is content to look on the smiling side of life, and when that is not present, to search for it."—Harry Hansen in the Chicago News.

Another reason:

"He possesses that rare quality—readability . . . Mr. Bok has a story to tell and he tells it in his own way—a good way, too. He writes at white heat of enthusiasm and spontaneity . . . We had to finish it at one reading."—W. Orton Tewson in the New York Post Literary Review.

And note this:

"One of the worth-while books of our time . . . 'The President' (one chapter of the book) is a gem of literary art, almost flawless of its kind. Don't fail to read it to the last word . . . It is quite as noteworthy . . . as 'The Americanization of Edward Bok', and those who liked that will find some even better things in 'Twice Thirty'."—Literary Digest International Book Review.

CONFESSIONS

Vilhjalmur Stefansson is one of those truly blest writers—a man who has something so interesting to say that any one would want to read him even if he wrote badly, but also a man who writes so well that any one would like to read him no matter what he wrote about. He and William Beebe are the outstanding two scientists of that literary sort. Mr. Stefansson is a keen observer as well as an explorer. His "My Life With the Eskimo" is a statement of a whole national philosophy as well as a record of a people, for instance. When I asked Mr. Stefansson what book he would rather have written than any other, he replied:

[Copyright by Harris & Ewing.

There are in English no books about exploration that I like well enough to bother about wishing I had written them, except, perhaps Knud Rasmussen's. But, then, I think of his books chiefly as studies in human nature and not as accounts of travel. Lippincott's published one of them, Stokes another, and now I hear Putnam's are going to bring out a third. It is said that if it succeeds they will follow with other translations. Some of them will be among the best books of exploration ever written. I know, for I have read them in Danish and German.

In the opposite class from Rasmussen, I am fond of "Munchausen" and of the travel tales that are about as truthful, but which are, or were, taken seriously by the public—such as Dr. Cook's and Dr. Ossendowski's.

It is harder to mislead in fiction, and so (my mind being on the subject of hoaxes) I think I shall wish I had written Selma Lagerlof's "Miracles of Antichrist." And, of course, she does not really mislead; she has merely succeeded better than any one I know of in writing a book that is all things to all men.

I did not realize, when I read it, that the "Miracles of Antichrist" was the masterpiece I now consider it to be. I had not then the Nobel award to guide my opinion, for I read the book in Swedish, while the author's fame was as yet only North European. But the real point is that I now judge it not by its effects on me, but by its effect on others. For to the world at large it is at least three different and antagonistic books.

And so I suppose I envy most the author of "The Miracles of Antichrist."

Vilhjalmur Stefansson

About Foreigners

"On New Shores," by Konrad Bercovici (Century).

What Konrad Bercovici did for the foreigners in New York in "Around the World in New York" he does for the foreign settlements throughout the country in "On New Shores." He has studied these groups for many years and he writes about them with understanding, if from no brilliant sociological angle. He tries to survey too wide a field, it seems to me, but his conclusions are meant to be pleasant reading rather than especially illuminating, probably. He devotes one chapter each to the Italians, the Polish farmers, the Jugoslav farmers, the Roumanian settlers, the Dutch farmers, the German settlers, the Jews, the Lithuanians, the Swedish and Norwegian farmers, the Japanese, the Chinese, the Spaniards throughout the United States, and his other chapters to special communities.

Prosaic Item of Roads Is Theme of Full Sized Book

"The Road," by Hilaire Belloc (Harper's).

Can you imagine a skilled literary man in these our United States writing a serious and earnest book about roads and their future? It takes an Englishman, and Hilaire Belloc, at that, to find in the prosaic matter of roads material for not a short essay but a longish book. He describes the kinds of roads that have existed in the past, reflecting as they did the civilization that produced them, and then faces the problem of the future of the motor mad country (and apparently England is no less mazed in that respect than America). He says that there must be wide, complete arterial highways (and he probably has never motored in Wisconsin in his life and so has not come upon that phrase except by reasoning). To produce those highways — which should skirt the cities as ditches drain a fen—there should be certain economic preparation, among it the imposition of a tax on fuel, which is an especially interesting point of view, since we have been more than wrought up in the States about that very matter. Apparently he—being an Englishman—thinks of the central government as the determinator of such things, whereas we in the United States leave such matters to state governments, with the diverging results of Indiana and Illinois, for instance, in the matter of the gasoline tax. Mr. Belloc's essay is interesting, but it has little of the usual Bellocian charm. He is much in earnest and does not permit himself his usual whimsical wanderings of the mind into every charming mental lane that he comes upon.

Twenty-five years or so ago Edouard Herriot wrote for his doctor's thesis an exhaustive biography of Madame Recamier. It became a classic of its kind in French, but until M. Herriot's rise to the premiership it remained unknown to English readers. It has just been translated and published sumptuously here in two volumes.

Favorites in New Garb

"Prince and the Page," by Charlotte M. Yonge, illustrated by Marguerite de Angeli (Macmillan).

Illustrated profusely with half tones and line drawings which lack a certain unity in nature and method of placement. Otherwise the book is attractive and will no doubt popularize this old favorite.

"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," by Kate D. Wiggin, illustrated by H. M. Grose (Houghton Mifflin).

This edition has numerous black and white illustrations, as well as colored ones. The charm of the quiet countryside and of small town life are well portrayed.

"Hans Andersen's Fairy Tales," by Hans C. Andersen, illustrated by Heath Robinson (Doran).

"Similar to the edition published by Constable, England 1917. Includes the best known of Andersen's stories and has many attractive illustrations, both black and white line drawings and delicately colored plates."

OUTCAST

By Elizabeth York [illegible]ler

SYNOPSIS.

A band of crooks, stumbling on the fact that Sir Adrian Shale's wife is alive, when supposedly she had died six months before in Italy, arrives at Grantwick, Sir Adrian's home, for the purpose of blackmailing him, Mimi Winchell, one of the crooks, posing as a widow, obtains a letter of introduction to Sir Adrian, who is kind to her and her "daughter" Doris. The girl is beautiful and possesses the only shred of respectability the gang can lay claim to. She is in reality and orphan whom Mimi has befriended. One of the crooks, Beauty Bill Gibbons, asks Doris to marry him. She refuses. A few days later Sir Adrian angers Mimi by announcing he would like to marry Doris. She tells him she knows his wife is alive, and demands fifty thousand pounds for silence. Sir Adrian does not believe her, but agrees to pay the money. She returns to London immediately and discovers that Sir Adrian has tricked her. Somewhat disturbed by Mimi's story, Sir Adrian decides to make an investigation. His wife's former maid, Anna Ferguson, failed to come back to England after Lady Shale's death in Italy. In attempting to find her, Sir Adrian calls on her sister, Mme. Gorgette, a fashionable London dressmaker, who is unable to give him any information. Doris rebels at the life she is forced to lead with Mimi and her husband, Uncle Charley, and takes a job as manikin at Mme. Georgette's. Uncle Charley, ill, sends for Doris, and while she is with him he dies. She is late in returning to Mme. Georgette's and is scolded by madam's husband for refusing to tell where she has been. She leaves madam's house and her employ. Mimi, knowing Doris is Mme. Georgette's daughter, makes a demand on the dressmaker for five thousand pounds.

INSTALLMENT XXX.

AN UNEXPECTED BLOW.

Then came the words in the detective's report that sent Shale starting from his seat.

"Lady Shale died on the 17th, or early in the morning of the 18th. She is buried as Signora Beatrice Bonci in the parish cemetery. (Certificate inclosed.) The man, Bonci, confided in me the accompanying letter, written, as he says, by Lady Shale in the early days of her illness. I informed Bonci of my mission and he confirmed the details already reported."

Shale had dropped the soulless report to read that accompanying letter.

It was a callous, cynical note that shocked him deeply, even knowing what he did. Beatrice was defiant to the end.

"I have a presentment that I shall not recover from the fever I have contracted," she wrote, "and I feel it due to you that you should know certain facts."

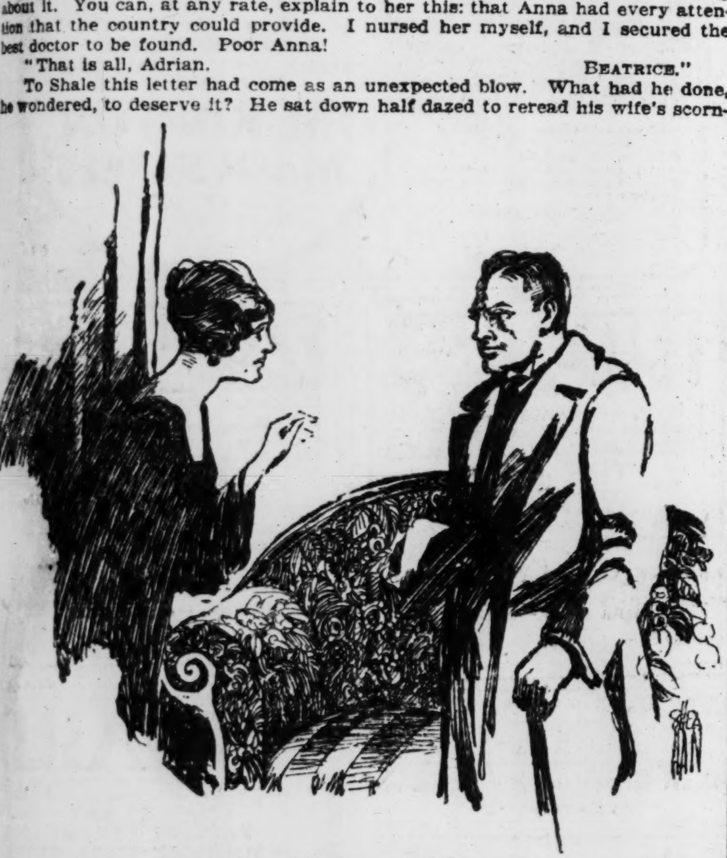
She went on to tell the story of Alassio. Then: "From you, Adrian, I neither expect nor ask forgiveness. I have no regrets. You, with your nice conventions, could never understand that wealth and safety and luxury are things that don't matter a bit. I, at least, have snatched a few happy hours at the end of a weary life.

"If I thought I had hurt you deeply, I could be sorry. But I know I have done nothing more than irritate your correct sense of propriety. Any sorrow you may have felt is solely for yourself, not for me. Yet I bear you no ill will. You were kind to me, as you conceived kindness, and I can only hope that some day you may know the happiness of love such as I have known.

"But I feel guilty about Anna. I want you to see her sister, who is Georgette of Dover street. Tell her—well, tell her what you like, but don't be smug about it. You can, at any rate, explain to her this: that Anna had every attention that the country could provide. I nursed her myself, and I secured the best doctor to be found. Poor Anna!

"That is all, Adrian. BEATRICE."

To Shale this letter had come as an unexpected blow. What had he done, he wondered, to deserve it? He sat down half dazed to reread his wife's scornful words, then the cold, unpitying reports. It all seemed too incredible.



Georgette suddenly started forward.

At last he roused himself; he must do something about it, and the thing which called most definitely to be done was to put himself right with Anna's sister. It would be a shock for her, too; he would try to soften that shock, a large measure of responsibility for which was his.

Adrian Shale ordered his car and drove straight to Madam Georgette's, determined not to spare himself but to make a clean confession of the whole affair.

Had he arrived at Dover street a few minutes later he would not have seen the unhappy woman he sought; but, as fate ordered it, his card was taken to Georgette within a couple of minutes of Mimi's departure. Madam, bewildered, despairing, with gray, drawn face and frightened eyes, sat gazing blankly at the floor when one of the young ladies announced Sir Adrian's arrival. Georgette made a mighty effort to pull herself together, and turning her face from the girl, replied mechanically: "Show him in here."

The next second, realizing her unfitness to see anybody, she would have recalled the words; but it was then too late, and she had to compel herself to face Shale as though nothing had happened. She was so distraught that she did not even wonder why he had called. The terror and agony of Mimi's threat obsessed her completely.

Shale bowed gravely as he entered the room, but his first glance at Georgette's ashy face and her hunted, tortured expression told him that something was wrong. And his immediate thought was one of regret that he should have to bring her bad news.

She responded hysterically to his greeting, and, talking swiftly, in a hard, unnatural voice, explained that she was not feeling well.

Sir Adrian murmured conventional sympathy, and, judging it best, plunged straight into his story.

"Madam, I am sorry to have to add to your worries," he began with deliberation, "but I have some unhappy tidings for you—about your sister."

"Yes, yes?" Georgette said vacantly. "About Anna? What is it?"

Shale hesitated in surprise. Her voice was so cold, so indifferent. The woman seemed utterly unlike herself.

"My agents have sent me a report of their inquiries at Alassio," he went on, after a moment, "and I must beg you to be prepared to hear some bad news."

Still Georgette did not seem to comprehend. She would not meet his eyes, but said in a toneless way: "Then she's dead—then Anna is dead. Is that what you have come to tell me?"

"Yes," he replied, gravely.

For perhaps a minute neither of them spoke. Shale was shocked at Georgette's appearance; never before had he seen a human being in the throes of such agony. Was it mental or physical? He wanted to say something to break the terrible silence, but he could think of nothing to say.

Then of a sudden her restraint broke. Her hands went up to her face her head sank to the table, and a pitiful paroxysm of sobbing shook her whole frame.

It was eerie, it was terrifying, this silent weeping. Shale started forward to comfort her if possible, but she did not seem to hear his words. He felt so helpless; he should, he thought—although he was reluctant to do so—summon assistance. But when he was on the point of going to the door for this purpose Georgette recovered control of herself.

She sat up with an abrupt, jerky movement and looked him straight in the face.

"I'm sorry. I couldn't help it. But it all seems to have come at once." She spoke bravely. "Please tell me about Anna. I won't break down again." And now she made a pathetic attempt to smile.

Shale felt enormously relieved, and, he decided, he could not do better than attempt to distract the unhappy woman's thoughts by the confession he wished to make to her. If only he could rouse her anger against himself it might do her good.

"The story I have to tell you does me little credit," he began, "but I must tell you the whole truth and trust you will understand and forgive." And then frankly, almost callously, he told of what he knew of Beatrice's life from the time she had left him to go to Italy.

He made no attempt to defend his acquiescence in the published tale of how he had been present when she supposedly had died at Alassio, no excuse for having feared to seek out the truth sooner. His narrative was one of simple fact, and the sheer, unvarnished sincerity of it affected Georgette.

She hardly made a comment; just nodded her head now and again, and once she murmured: "I am so sorry for you." And it was not until he came near to the end that her tired face showed anything but impassivity.

"I do assure you," he was saying earnestly, "that I did believe that my wife had died in Alassio. And I might yet have believed it but for the fact that the information came into the possession of a gang of scoundrels who tried to blackmail me."

Georgette suddenly started forward.

"But I dealt with them all right," he concluded grimly.

"Tried to blackmail you?" Georgette spoke slowly, carefully. "What did you do?"

"Very foolishly I did not prosecute," he said. "I count myself a coward for that. But they won't trouble me again."

"But what did you do? Tell me, tell me!" she cried in agitation.

U. S. Language to Throw Off English Yoke

America Now Has Its Own Tongue, Britisher Says.

A declaration of independence for the American language, liberating it from the British mother tongue, was proclaimed yesterday at a meeting of the National Council of Teachers of English. The council is holding a three-day convention at the Auditorium hotel.

Strangely enough, the Patrick Henry of the occasion was himself an Englishman, W. A. Cragie, noted professor of Anglo-Saxon in the University of Oxford, who spoke before the college section of the council. His topic was "A New Dictionary of American English."

The rapid and independent development of American self-expression, he said, can no longer be covered by the British vocabulary. A new dictionary of exclusively American words and phrases with their dates of origin and historical connections, he believes, has become a necessity.

Prof. Cragie explained that the main purpose of his visit to this country is to promote a national movement toward this end. English experts at the University of Chicago are already planning to coöperate in the work, he said, and other universities will soon be enlisted. Hundreds of teachers, authors and educators will be asked to help in compilation of the dictionary by reading assigned books and sending in reports.

"Will we incorporate American slang—that is the question I am asked everywhere," Prof. Cragie continued. "As for current slang, no. The proper place for it is on the tongues of those who like it or in a slang dictionary.

"It is true, however, that some of today's slang becomes the language of tomorrow. There is a great impulse at present to invent new words. But only to the extent that such words become permanent can a historical dictionary recognize them."

A proposed survey of American English in connection with the dictionary plan was discussed at the meeting by Prof. Hans. Kurath of Northwestern university. The survey, he said will be an effort to discover and set forth the characteristics of the American language and the influences bearing upon its formation.

Miss Zona Gale, novelist, will address a joint session of the council and the English club of Greater Chicago this afternoon.

Supports Einstein Theory.

Members of the Central association of Science and Mathematics teachers meeting yesterday at the University of Chicago, were told by Prof. A. H. Compton of the university department of physics that he had proved light waves are composed of light particles.

This supports one of the main contentions of the Einstein theory of relativity. Prof. Compton's experiments were carried on for three years. The practical value, he says, lies in the fact that it is now possible to measure accurately the length of light waves used in the therapeutic treatment of diseases.

The convention was welcomed to the university by President Max Mason.

[H. S. Reick Photo.]

Miss Helen Haugan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar H. Haugan of Evanston, will become the bride of Franklin Groves Clement, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan M. Clement of 232 East Walton place, at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at St. Chrysostom's church. Pan-European Union to Be Launched in '26, Visiting Count Says

So rapid has been the growth of the plan for a United States of Europe that the centennial of the first Pan-American congress in 1926 will mark the first great concerted movement toward the establishment of a similar Pan-European congress, it was announced here yesterday by Count Richard Nikolas Coudenhove-Kalegi, editor of Pan-Europa, official magazine of the Pan-European union, and one of its earliest and strongest advocates.

The congress is to be held in October of next year in Vienna, where headquarters of the Pan-European union have been established in the Hofsburg, the old palace of the Hapsburg rulers. Sentiment of the great statesmen of the countries involved, including Germany has been so favorable, Count Kalergi said, that he has not the slightest doubt the federation will be effected at that time.

As sketched by the count, the Pan-European congress would include all the countries of Europe with the exception of England, Russia and Turkey.

At noon today at a luncheon given by the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations at the Hotel La Salle, Count Kalergi will deliver an address on the proposed congress. He is accompanied by Countess Kalergi, who is known as Ida Roland, and is famous on the Viennese stage. For the last four weeks they have been visiting the larger cities of the east, where Count Kalergi lectured.

Girls! If You Must Smoke, Here's How It Is Safely Done

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—If the girls of Barnard college simply have got to smoke, at least they have an unofficial guide as to how, where and when to do it.

A list of nine rules—unofficial and unposted—has been prepared by Dr. Guliema F. Allsop, college physician. Sex has nothing to do with the harmful effects of smoking, says the physician, for a weak man may easily be outsmoked by a husky college girl.

The rules suggest that a girl should not smoke until she is 21 and until she has been examined by a physician to determine whether it will be injurious. Another rule places the number of cigarettes a day at five, while a fourth describes how the tobacco should look.

Inhaling and blowing through the nose are bad, says rule No. 5, and No. 6 says smoking should be done outdoors, "if you can get away with it." After-dinner smoking is wisest, says No. 7, and No. 8 advises use of a holder. The last rule suggests one month a year total abstinence, ostensibly to get in trim for the rest of the year.

Cigars and pipes are not mentioned—yet.

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Frank Bois, Newton, Ill., was awarded $5.

The Question.

What event that you witnessed in Chicago gave you the greatest thrill?

Where Asked.

The Answers.

Louis Harris, 3520 Sheridan road, brokerage salesman.—The blimp disaster. I was on an errand for Alfred L. Baker and saw the crash. For an instant I thought it was a stunt or some experiment being pulled off, instead of the tragedy it actually was.

Miss Dorothy Berndgen, 916 Eastwood avenue, bank bookkeeper. — Thursday's game at Cubs park—not the game but Red Grange. He's certainly wonderful. Wouldn't I like to run off with him—any time! He's great. I saw the Eastland disaster about ten minutes after it happened, but let's not talk about unpleasant things.

J. P. Walsh, 4825 Rockwell street, city fireman. — The Eastland disaster. I was passing on the L a minute or so after it happened; got off and rushed over there. South Water street employés were throwing boxes in the river for use as floats, but the rest of us were helpless and unable to help.

Miss Ethel Randall, 1735 Juneway terrace, stenographer. —I have been so rushed today, I can't think. Why, Chicago herself, when a girl friend and I saw it for the first time on Armistice day, three years ago, when I was 17. Those tall, tall buildings and busy, crowded streets, and the rumbling, deafening noise—wonderful!

R. J. Musser, 120 South Homan avenue, railroad brakeman —I never saw a real thriller in Chicago; nothing to compare with the accident I was in about three years ago on my run to Clinton, Ia., when the engine I was on with twenty cars of coal jumped the track and piled up. And no one hurt!

Christmas Carols to Open Yule Benefit

Christmas carols will be sung with all the vim and vigor breathed into them by minstrels of yore, as a prelude to the athletic carnival to be staged at the Coliseum and annex the night of Dec. 19, under the direction of County Treasurer P. J. Carr, as a Christmas benefit for the poor families of Chicago. Mr. Carr hopes to realize $50,000 from the entertainment.

Harry Edward Freund has formed a large committee to direct a city-wide movement to have the carols sung, not only at the Coliseum entertainment, but also in clubs, hotels, motion picture theaters, schools, hospitals, and jails.

Mayor Dever heads the committee as honorary chairman. Members include John J. Mitchell, Harry A. Wheeler, John G. Shedd, A. G. Gulbransen, Dr. Max Mason, president of the University of Chicago; Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university; Harry Pratt Judson, president emeritus, University of Chicago; Frederick Stock, Clifford W. Barnes, Mrs. James W. Morrison, Mrs. B. F. Langworthy, Mrs. Edward S. Bailey, Mrs. Harold Ickes, Supt. William McAndrew, and Harry D. Sulver.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

A picture published in THE TRIBUNE yesterday as that of Fred Wamquist, a bomber, was that of his brother, Henry Wamquist, 45 East 100th street. It was found in Fred's pockets by the police. Although Henry Wamquist resembles his brother in appearance, he asserts that he has never been involved in any bombing or other criminal activity.

Juvenile Whistlers to Compete Today for Playgrounds Title

Champion whistlers from 125 school playgrounds will warble and trill in the first annual contest for the city whistling title in the auditorium of the Hartman Furniture company building this morning.

The contests, a feature of the celebration of music month in the schools, has never been tried before in Chicago according to C. H. English, director of the bureau of recreation, and is forecast as a more or less risky experiment.

"It's hard to whistle when anybody is watching and ten times worse if they laugh at you," averred Mr. English yesterday, adding, "and some of those kids are sure to start laughing. If they do we'll have to face the contestants toward the wall."

Four kinds of whistling will be allowed. Through the teeth, with cupped hands, with two fingers in the mouth and with puckered lips. Each contestant must whistle "America the Beautiful" and one selection of his own. Gold medals will be awarded the winners.

The contest this morning will be for juniors under the age of fifteen only. Senior boys and girls will compete at 3 o'clock this afternoon in Fuller park, 45th street and Princeton avenue. Both contests are open to the public.

"We believe that whistling is a good trait to develop," said Mr. English. "More than that, it is one of the elemental and most pleasing forms of musical expression."

Committee Named to Fight Printed Filth

Organizations associated with the Chicago Woman's Aid in its fight on obscene literature will meet at Kimball hall a week from Monday to hear reports on the progress of the drive and to formulate plans for more extensive activities against the offensive publications.

Mrs. Joseph Mayer, president of the Chicago Woman's Aid, yesterday announced the committee of eight that will be in charge of the work. The members of the committee are recruited from organizations in all parts of the city. They are:

Mrs. Mayer and Mrs. Robert Frank of the Chicago Woman's Aid, Mrs. T. S. McCarthy of the Catholic Woman's league, Mrs. Gordon of the Englewood Woman's club, Mrs. Louis Bruner of the Bowen High School Parent-Teacher association, Mrs. Alfred S. Hope of the Girls' Friendly society, Mrs. F. L. McLaughlin of the Glenola club, and Mrs. Max Adler of the Inter-Racial Committee.

Dal Monte and Hackett Sing "The Barber"

And They Make Centenary Performance Notable.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

One hundred years ago last night there was a performance of "The Barber of Seville" in New York. It would seem to have been the first operatic performance given in that city, which ever since has been enough for New York to claim that it was the first opera given in the United States. The estimate is wrong by only about ninety years.

Anyway it was a notable event, as any performance of "The Barber" is likely to be, and it was considered sufficient excuse for the Civic Opera company to give a centennial echo of it at the Auditorium. Not that "The Barber" needs any excuse. Cast it properly, have it sung with any degree of accuracy and speed, and it is its own excuse.

This performance brought in Toti Dal Monte for her first appearance of the season as Rosina, Charles Hackett for his first performance at the Auditorium as Count Almaviva, and a noble aggregation of fun makers and fine singers who have been in the habit of appearing in Rossini's musical farce in past seasons. Giacomo Rimini as Figaro, Vittorio Trevisan as Dr. Bartolo, Virgilio Lazzari as Don Basilio—there is a grand trio for this work. Travel the world over and you will not match them.

In at least three respects, physically, sartorially and vocally, Miss Dal Monte is almost a young Tetrazzini. Her voice glitters in its brittle crystallinity. Her "Una voce poco fa" was a source of wonderment to all who admire the ground and lofty stunts of accurate coloratura. When she came to the lesson scene she sang some variations on "The Carnival of Venice," accredited to Benedict, and pretty nearly the holder of the world's record for worthless music.

At all times she was brilliant, facile, and right in the middle of the note, and at all times she carried her part with an engaging sense of fun. Her costumes were as resplendent as her voice. That of the second act can best be described as a rhapsody in bright red with a coda in gold lace and a cadenza of fleurs de lis.

Wherefore Antonia of the Mountain came back to Chicago with as much applause as she took away from it last season.

Mr. Hackett harvested a large crop of earned applause on his own account. In the first place, he looked the handsome, dashing count, which is no handicap to any leading artist. In addition he sang some of the most difficult music ever written for tenor smoothly, easily, and with a fine disdain of technical obstacles. He had manner and poise. Score another credit mark for the American wing of the company.

For seasons past there has been reason to think pleasant things about the jolly intrigue of Mr. Rimini's barber, likewise of those two extraordinary comedians, Mr. Trevisan and Mr. Lazzari, totally opposed in method, yet joining unfailingly on the common ground of the manufacture of laughter. They were at their best last night, and if the performance as a whole did not always hang together, it was the fault of no individual artist. Roberto Moranzoni conducted.

Mr. Stock had no soloist scheduled for the Chicago Symphony orchestra concert yesterday afternoon, but he played two novelties, a third piece of only occasional hearing, and a symphony classifying as one of the season's standbys.

Beginning the program with Glazounow's "Stenka Razine," which is the occasional piece, he passed to the first novelty, Ernest Bloch's Concerto Grosso for string orchestra and piano. This is Bloch in an unfamiliar and perhaps transitional aspect. Instead of delving into dissonance, it was mostly straightforward tune, founded, he says, on the Swiss folk music of his childhood, occasionally sounding strangely like English folk music, quite pleasant, but with a totally unnecessary fugue at the end.

Next was Gregor Fitelberg's Polish Rhapsody, again founded on what sounded like folk music, though from a different quarter of Europe, again a highly pleasant observance, though just a bit too long. This was the sum of the first half. After the intermission came Tschaikowsky's Fifth Symphony, played nearly once a season and never failing in its emotional approach.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Chocolate Puddings.

Of all the quick deserts, the little chocolate custards, blanc manges, and chocolate cornstarch puddings seem to lead in favor in "slight" cookery. With cornstarch and gelatin they may be stiff and horny. With egg only to thicken, or egg and flour, they are not so likely to be. One of the least expensive and one of the most pleasant to eat—with some whipped cream—is the following:

Melt an ounce of chocolate over the fire in one-half cup of milk. When melted cook until perfectly blended with the milk and until as smooth as velvet. Take from fire, add one-half cup of sugar and three level tablespoons of flour, which has been wet up with a little milk; then add more milk, making in all two cups. Stir and cook this mixture over the fire until thick, then cook for ten or fifteen minutes, or even twenty, so that the flour may be wholesome that is, let the fire do more work and the digestion less. Beat up one egg and pour the boiling hot mixture over it, stirring slowly all the time. Add about one-half teaspoon of vanilla, stirring it in well, and then cool and chill the mixture.

One of the ways to make a chocolate custard is this: Take one ounce chocolate, one pint hot milk, two eggs, four to eight tablespoons sugar, a pinch of salt, and a teaspoon of vanilla. This mixture can be made a frozen custard, in which case use the eight tablespoons of sugar—that is, half a cup. Cut up the chocolate into a saucepan, add to it a little of the milk, and cook over the fire until it is smooth and creamed and till the chocolate has thickened the milk, or until every dark fleck has disappeared and the color is as uniform as that of cream. Add the remainder of the milk with the sugar, and cook again until smooth. Pour this over two eggs slightly beaten, fill into buttered custard cups, and make like any cup custard, in a water bath, watching carefully. This will make three or four cups of a soft and smooth dessert. It may be baked in a pie crust.

Once Too Often.

I am fond of babies. One day while in the elevated street car a woman sat diagonally across from me. She held an adorable baby in her arms. I smiled and crowed at the infant, who seemed to enjoy my contortions, smiling and gurgling at me.

I was so engrossed with my success and the reciprocation of the gurgling infant that before I realized it we were downtown. I turned my head to look out of the window and see where we were, and then turned back, smiling and wagging my head—when, horrors! —the infant's seat had been taken by a young man who scowled at me as if I were "non compos mentis."

He Was a Doctor.

I was riding in the park one day when I noticed a man having quite a bit of trouble with a horse I had owned, but which I could no longer ride owing to a major operation I had undergone. I went up to him and spoke to the horse. The latter recognized my voice and proceeded to behave himself.

The man requested an explanation which I gave. I said, "The doctors informed me I would never ride again, but here I am trying my best, although I have to take a less powerful horse." I said doctors only wanted one's money and 'panned' them in general. He introduced himself by his last name only, without a title.

I was greatly embarrassed when the lady in charge of the stable introduced us by saying, 'Dr. M—— meet Mrs. B——.' J. B.

Mrs. Leffingwell and Ernest Graham to Wed in London

BY NANCY R——.

Madame Rumor, the sly old puss, is certainly correct in her guess that edding bells were about to ring out r a certain pair of Chicagoites—rs. Ruby Leffingwell and Ernest R. raham of 25 Banks street. Accompanied by Mr. Graham's cousins, Dr. d Mrs. Wilbur E. Post, and the Or-le Thompsons, Mrs. Leffingwell and r. Graham are sailing for England week from today, and early next nth they'll be quietly married in ndon. They will spend their honey-on abroad, I understand; as yet the te for their return to Chicago has t been definitely set.

I rather think that before long Miss de McCormick will be the owner of set of furniture that will make her e envy of Chicago hostesses. It's English dining room set, a large ble and six chairs, and a smaller ble and four smaller chairs, made of pier mache by that first Henry Clay Birmingham, who patented the process in 1772. The various pieces are quered in black, and inlaid in most quisite flower patterns with color-mother of pearl and gold. I'm told e set was about to go to the South ensington museum, but that it was erally snatched from them and ought to Chicago. If Miss McCor-ck isn't the next owner, I miss my ess, but whether she'll use it in her artment or give it to the Art Insti-e is still a question.

Just now, the set is on exhibition at e Ancestral Art collection at 100 East icago avenue. If you've received one the pale blue and black announce-nts of this fine collection and won-red who was in back of it, allow me let you in on the secret. Miss Mc-rmick, Mlle. Zelie Barthelemy, mes MacVeagh and Dwight Harding ve formed a quartet whose purpose to bring to this country those rare seum pieces of old English furni-re, silver and china that are so mpting to the American collector and difficult to find. The collection is to opened to visitors on Monday and esday of next week, between 3 and in the afternoon, and is well worth visit.

Society at the Opera

The Red, White, and Blue ball at new ballroom of the Hotel Sher-an will be the city's most important cial event this evening. It will bene-the Red, White, and Blue club, ose sponsors are Mrs. Joseph G. leman, Mrs. F. C. Letts, Mrs. E. R. ield, Mrs. Leeds Mitchell, Mrs. Wal-e Kirk, Mrs. Warren Ripple, and veral other prominent women. There ll be an elaborate cabaret perform-ce, with most of the stars in current ys appearing. A number of dinner rties are to take place before the ll, at which the women in large num-rs are to wear red, white, or blue wns.

The Cornell University Musical clubs e planning to give their Chicago per-rmance on Tuesday evening, Dec. 29, t Orchestra hall. There will be social oings for the musicians and singers luring the few hours which they will pend in the city. A committee of lumni headed by Newton C. Farr in-udes Champ Carry, John Luther, ie, Huntly H. Gilbert, J. P. Harrold, Johnson, Lewis S. Louer, hard Matthiessen, John McIlvaine, Pond, Lawrence M. Viles, Har-Vose Jr., Paul Wilder, and Bots-d B. Young.

There will be three debut teas of in-st and importance today. Norman lliams will introduce his daughter, Joan Williams, the only one of year's buds who has had the dis-tion of being presented at the Court James, at a tea at the Casino; Thomas R. Lyon will give the of two at homes for her grand-ghter, Miss Harriet Lyon of Pasa-a, Cal., who is visiting in Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. John R. W. Sargent 4600 Drexel boulevard will give a for their daughter, Miss Florence rgent.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Yager are give a dinner party for fifteen sts at the Drake this evening.

The White Elephant Rummage shop l have its annual Christmas sale on day. Mrs. George Halleck Taylor to be in charge and will be assisted Mrs. Harry H. Shearson, Mrs. Watson, Mrs. Ford R. Carter, John Bowe, Mrs. Alvin C. Mc-d, and Miss Emma Powell. Mrs. H. Cowles is to be in charge the toy sale. Mrs. James E. Baum Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell, Miss Gurley, Mrs. Oscar Johnson, Dorothy Marston, Miss Edith nat, and Miss Louise Tyler will .

The Arts club has issued announce-s for a luncheon to be given for Antonin Barthelemy on next Thurs-y at 12:30 o'clock.

The Lower North District of the ted Charities will receive the pro-s of a musical afternoon at the oom of the Drake on Tuesday aft-oon, Dec. 8. Mrs. Rensselaer W. of 1529 Astor street, chairman of entertainment committee, is in rge of the affair. Miss Sarah ster is in charge of a group of the cond year out" girls who will , including Miss Rosemary Gal-, Miss Hester White, Miss Sarane and Miss Catherine Norcross.

Miss Marie Rozet of 1006 North La street is in Philadelphia, where is visiting Mr. and Mrs. George Childs Drexel.

Miss Florence Sargent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. W. Sargent of 4600 Drexel boulevard, is to be one of a trio of debutantes who will make their bows today. Assisting at her party will be Miss Emily Otis, Miss Winifred Smith, Miss Mildred Wetten, Miss Katherine Putnam, Miss Eloise Requa, Miss Dorothy Peacock, Miss Katherine and Miss Nancy Anderson, Miss Mary Harts, and Miss Mary Spang of Reading, Pa., who is visiting the Sargents for a few days.

Miss Crerar's Tea at Fortnightly Attended by Army of Friends

A small army of friends attended the tea which Mrs. John Crerar gave yesterday afternoon for her daughter, Miss Catherine Crerar, and for Miss Margaret James, the daughter of her friend, Mrs. Ralph James of London, at the Fortnightly. Mrs. Timothy B. Blackstone, Miss Crerar's grandmother, received, as also did Mrs. James, who is the former Louise Brega of Chicago. The debutantes who assisted were Miss Winifred Smith, Miss Muriel Winston, Miss Jane McLennan, Miss Isabel Scott, Miss Margaret Willing, Miss Virginia Wilson, Miss Betty Marshall, Miss Emily Otis, Miss Edwina Litsinger, Miss Anna Louise Curtis, Miss Leslie Foster, Miss Beatrice Burnet, Miss Mary Ott, Miss Jane Warner, Miss Alicia Patterson, and Miss Jeannette Reynolds.

After the party the debutantes and their escorts attended the supper dance at the Casino, which Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Scott of Hubbard Woods gave for their daughter, Miss Isabel Scott. Later the whole crowd went to the Congress hotel for the supper dance which Mrs. Edward R. Litsinger gave for Miss Edwina Litsinger, Miss Marion Dixon, Miss Beatrice Borland, and Miss Joan Williams.

The Army and Navy club will give a novelty dinner dance from 6:30 to 8:30 o'clock this evening.

The University of Illinois chapter of Alpha Delta Pi sorority will have a meeting of the active members and alumnæ at the Hamilton club today. Miss Ellyn Olson of Rockford, formerly of Chicago, and Miss Betty Nilson of Glencoe are in charge.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

G. J. K. PROTECTIVE APPLIANCES over the bunion will relieve the irritation. They may be obtained in a shoe store, or may be made of felt with a hole in the center opposite the painful area of the bunion. The felt should be just thick enough to relieve the pressure. Wear shoes with a straight last. For treatment of corns, send stamped addressed envelope for my booklet Care of the Feet.

JULIA H.: FOR WARTS ON THE hands the following lotion is recommended: One dram salicylic acid; one ounce flexible collodion. Mix well. Apply with a tiny camel's hair brush for four nights. Then soak in hot water. This will take away part of the horny covering. Continue until the wart has disappeared.

Diet and Exercises First, Then Walking Make Pounds Vanish

by Antoinette Donnelly

"What do you think of walking to reduce?" asks a correspondent.

I think there is no better exercise than walking, except possibly outdoor swimming, for reducing and for keeping you fit. But the great trouble with walking is that it is done in short distances by the reducer, distances not quite long enough, nor done with sufficient vigor to do good in a short time. If one would do five miles a day and go to it as though you meant it, no lagging anywhere along the route, by the end of a month I'm sure five pounds would be gone, provided you did not come back from the walk, of course, with an increased appetite.

That is another objection to recommending walking for the beginning reducer. For the more advanced class in reduction, which would include those who had complete control over the appetite, I should unhesitatingly recommend walking. It isn't that I don't think well of walking to get thin, but, human appetites being what they are, I would recommend lighter forms of exercise to begin with, and would suggest until the weight is down a bit that diet be given the chief consideration.

Then, when you have learned to say "No" to the lobster salad and any other fattening dish, get into your walking duds and sally forth briskly.

A long walk does less damage to the reducer's appetite, really, than a short one. A short walk whets it unmercifully. Since the short walk uses up so little fat, the total result will nearly always be a gain instead of a loss. Constantly I hear people say they have tried to reduce; don't they walk a mile every day? A mile a day isn't enough to make inroads on the adipose, although it is better for the general health than no walk at all. But light exercise combined with diet adds to the strength of the patient and makes the process much more rapid.

Jack Dempsey, in an interview recently, indicated he is a walking enthusiast, but his theory is that the walking should begin before the weight comes on. In other words, you can keep it off by your daily long, snappy hike. If the correspondent would diet herself for two weeks say, get off six pounds or so with it and the light exercise, and then go in for the five mile hike she would not only reduce, but her reduction would be a healthier one than that achieved any other way I could subscribe.

Sorority House Fund to Benefit by Dance

The alumnae of Alpha Epsilon Phi sorority in Chicago will give a dance benefit for the house fund of the sorority at the Surf hotel this evening. Omicron chapter of Northwestern university is trying to raise sufficient money to build a house on the campus so its members will not be forced to reside in boarding houses. Miss Charlotte Munzer of 1403 Sherwin avenue is president of the alumnae who are working for the success of the dance.

Be a Mistress of Tact, if You Want Youth's Confidence

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I don't understand my daughter," a mother complains. "She is boy crazy, and she does not use any sense in her choice of friends. She is secretive. She does not deliberately lie, but she will not open up and talk to me."

And so on. The old story of how to deal with a difficult age in a knowing and understanding way!

It is a hard one for parents, this combating the hasty, ill considered intimacies known among certain young people. Friendship between boy and girl has tremendous fascination.

Friendship, says the philosopher, requires strength of mind, but to the young friendship requires only fascinating personalities, beauty, and fun. It is frequently little more than a game, working a little excitement into what seems to youth an otherwise humdrum existence.

"Youth," as some savant declares, "suffers from what may be termed diseases of emotions which, being uncontrolled and more infectious than any other, are a menace to themselves and to those around them."

It is unfortunate that this stormy, convulsive energy cannot be met with the wisdom and experience of maturer years; but it cannot, so some other way must be devised to meet the emergency in the turbulent young human.

The first step, therefore, is to attempt a broader understanding of these conflicting emotions of the young. If possible, jerk your mature mind back over the intervening space of years to your own youth, and try to remember that the boy-crazy stage was no different then than now.

If you escaped it, you can recall your girlhood friends who were afflicted, but the chances are your emotions were quite as turbulent, and you were secretive about those young love affairs of yours. You didn't tell all you knew to your parent. There are some fortunate mothers who never lose the confidence of their children, but they are not in the majority. Cajolery or scoldings will not induce confidences, once the precious thing has been lost in childhood.

It requires infinite patience, exquisite tact, and tenderness, with remembrance of one's own youth and its feverishness, to understand young, turbulent, passionate souls. To pooh-pooh, scold, or nag is to debar yourself from ever being able to understand and help young boys and girls during the most difficult years of their development.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Etiquette Says "No."

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl friend has a birthday next month and I would like to remember her. We are both in our late 'teens. Would jewelry be advisable? PUZZLED."

The Book of Etiquette says jewelry may come from one's fiancé, but not from beaus. So I'd suggest that you send flowers. They are always acceptable.

Make New Friends.

"Dear Miss Blake: I met a fellow and it was love at first sight. He moved and I have not seen him since. Please advise. TROUBLED."

Since he forgot you so quickly, Troubled, it would seem wise to find other interests and make new friends. In this way you'll forget him, too.

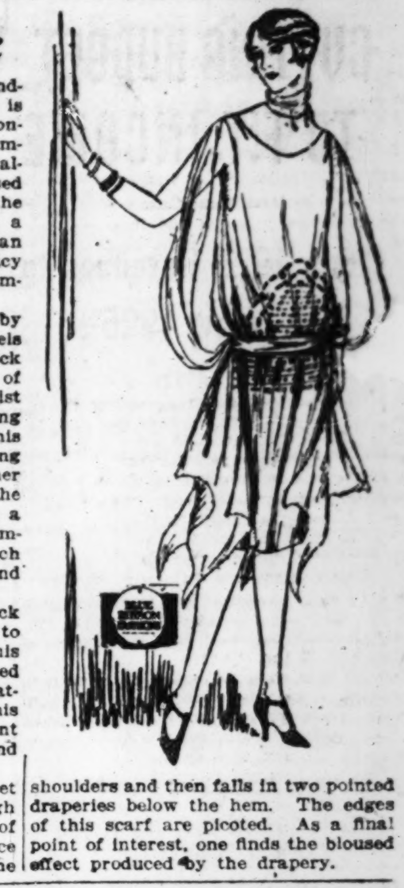
Beads Are Again One of Our Dance Partners

by Corinne Lowe



NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Often the glass of fashion is merely the glass bead. Beading continues to be a favorite form of trimming for the evening gown and, although it is used sparingly, it is used effectively. The fact of it is that the beading of today contrives to be a more integral part of the costume than was often the case when profligacy rather than discretion ruled our trimming conduct.

A good example of this is offered by one of Patou's most stunning models of the season. In this gown of black velvet there is a necklace-like band of strass that descends to the long waist line. Here it merges into an oblong motif of the same strass, and at this point one marks the upward draping of the skirt. This draping is further emphasized by bands of strass on the skirt, each of which mounts into a point at the center front. Here trimming and line really complement each other. More than that, they blend into each other.

We are showing today a dance frock of palest rose chiffon, recommended to college girl and debutante. In this model mirror beads are interspersed with oblong crystals, and both are attached with silver threads. In this case the design is intended to present the effect of a raised waist line and also of the tightly girded hips.

This frock is of the simplest, yet it attains an ultimate of grace through the disposition of a narrow scarf of self-material which, winding once about the throat, is attached to the shoulders and then falls in two pointed draperies below the hem. The edges of this scarf are picoted. As a final point of interest, one finds the bloused effect produced by the drapery.

Men's Fashions

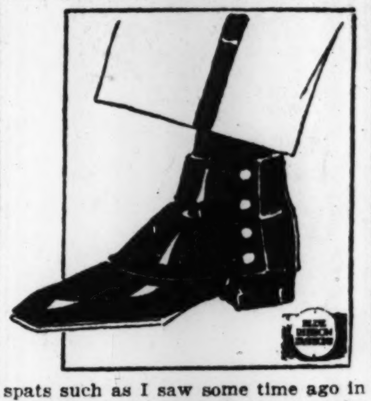
BY A. T. GALLICO.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—A letter from a reader queries me as to the style or advisability of wearing spats with a dinner coat.

The answer is most emphatically no: that is, unless you wear patent leather spats such as I saw some time ago in the window of one of the most exclusive shoe manufacturers in town.



These patent leather spats are a glistening black which is in keeping with the general motif of the dinner coat, which is black and white with possibly a touch of gray in the vest.

You will have no difficulty picturing to yourself how bad white or even gray spats would look with a dinner outfit.

Black silk sox are the only ones worn with the dinner coat. Wool or lisle never appear, nor are colored socks of any description worn. The only decoration to be found on socks worn with the dinner coat are white silk clocks.

CHICAGO BUSY CUTTING BUDGET TO FIT INCOME

Chicago, despite its growing needs, will spend $565,910 less in 1926 for corporate purposes than it did in 1925, according to estimates of the city's revenue for 1926 submitted to the council finance committee yesterday by City Controller Martin J. O'Brien.

The controller's estimates of corporate fund revenue and expenditures for next year are fixed at $47,134,925. Appropriations for this year amounted to $47,700,836.

Of the city's resources for 1926 it is estimated that $31,202,348 will be available from taxes, the remainder from miscellaneous sources. Every department estimate will be cut.

Two Unexpected Benefits.

One reason given for the 1926 revenue being less was the receipt in 1925 of nearly $800,00 from two unforeseen sources. The city received $477,687 from the Santa Fé railroad for vacation of streets and alleys and $316,000 reimbursements from special assessments.

"Chicago through its building," Controller O'Brien said, "in the last two and one-half years has added more than $940,000,000 to its permanent wealth. Would it not be reasonable to expect that in such a season of prosperity we would be able to derive revenue in sufficient volume to meet the actual needs of our city government?"

Calls Tax Machinery Faulty.

Mr. O'Brien blames the taxing machinery, which he declared was so archaic that no further dependence could be placed on it to compute city revenue.

Mr. O'Brien already has cut about $12,000,000 from the departments' original estimates for 1926. The chief cut was in the item for maintenance of streets and alleys; $10,289,724 was cut to $6,625,213. Board of local improvements' estimates were $3,436,728 and were cut to $935,340.

The department of gas and electricity was cut nearly $2,000,000; the police and fire departments about $1,000,000 each. The bridges and viaducts bureau and that of playgrounds and bathing beaches were cut about $400,000 each.

Water Department Status.

Revenue from the water fund is fixed at $12,433,517 and the expenditures for that department at $12,429,141. Vehicle taxes for 1926 will total $4,299,730 and the needs will approximate $4,300,270.

The finance committee is expected to tackle the budget next week, and is making an effort to pass the annual appropriation bill by Jan. 15.

MEXICAN HOUSE PASSES LAW TO SPEED OIL WORK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mexico City, Nov. 27.—The house of deputies at midnight last night, by a vote of 136 to 1, passed, with a few modifications, the petroleum bill sent it by the senate. The law was returned today to the senate, which is expected to approve it before the close of the session this month.

The bill provides for undisputed technical government ownership of all petroleum land and products and the supervision of all refineries and other petroleum plants, and is designed to aid oil production.

The bill provides that all holders of petroleum concessions must waive their national rights, as far as the concessions are concerned, agreeing to be governed in all transactions and legal questions arising throughout by the Mexican law. The owner of land shall have preferential right to exploitation of oil thereon and only when he refuses shall others have the right to the concession.

Hokum; Jeanne Eagels as Auctioneer

His name is "Hokum," and he growls, wags his head and gives mean looks. It's all a bluff, though for papier mache is the sternest stuff he is made of, and all his antics are controlled by Miss Jeanne Eagels of "Rain," who will auction him off at the ball tonight for the benefit of the Red, White and Blue club. Carrying these dogs is the latest fad in France, and "Hokum" made his first appearance at Cannes, where he was carried by Suzanne Lenglen when she won the tennis championship.

The charity ball will be held in the new ball room of the new Hotel Sherman. Three thousand balloons and other elaborate decorations have been ordered by the hotel management. Dancing, mah jongg and bridge are on the program, and no less than seventeen stars of the city's theatrical talent will be present to entertain.

Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman is president of the club, which is maintained at 1340 Wade street, where about 900 poor children are beneficiaries of its activities.

ARICA, Chile, Nov. 27.—The special commission considering boundaries has been interrupted again following the publication in El Pacifico of an apparently authentic report of the recent events at Chayavinto over the signature of Col. Louis Marchand Gonzalez, commanding the Chilean carabineros there.

The boundaries commission met today and Gen. Morrow agreed to Col. Ordonez's request for an investigation, but Señon Greve, the Chilean commissioner, challenged the commission's power to conduct the inquiry. Gen. Morrow and Col. Ordonez were in agreement that the commission had full power in the affair and that it is responsible for the withdrawal of the Peruvians from their work. Following a vote to this effect, Señor Greve announced his withdrawal.

The plebiscitary commission will meet tomorrow at 11 o'clock, and, according to reports here tonight, Chile will appeal to the league of nations if its demands for an early plebescite are not granted.

SAFE IN LIQUOR CASE KEPT SHUT BY LEGAL BATTLE

Fine legal points yesterday kept closed the doors of the giant safe which Mabel G. Reinecke, collector of internal revenue, last Wednesday caused to be moved to her office from the J. B. Scheur company warehouse, 17 West Austin avenue.

Attorneys Edwin L. Weisl, Ben P. Epstein, and J. L. Slattery, attorneys for the Scheuer concern, filed a petition asking that the search warrant upon which prohibition agents raided the plant a week ago be quashed. They also attacked the right of the collector of internal revenue to bring in the firm's safe inasmuch as no witness in the case was served with a subpoena duces tecum to deliver certain specified papers, it is claimed.

The attacks on the search warrant were made on the ground that the claim of prohibition agents who obtained the subpoena that they had caught a whiff of alcohol in the air near the place was not sufficient grounds for the warrant.

OBITUARY.

W. N. Rudd Dies Suddenly; Was Expert on Flowers

Mr. Rudd was 65 years old and was widely known as a horticultural expert, having given a number of lectures on the subject at the University of Illinois. He is survived by a widow and three daughters, Mrs. Ray M. Arnold of Galesburg, Ill.; Mrs. Kellogg Speed of Highland Park, and Mrs. Norman J. Seim of Chicago.

Funeral services will be held at the family residence, 514 Maple avenue, Blue Island, at 2:30 p. m. today. Burial will be in Mount Greenwood.

MRS. MARY C. HAMBLIN, 75, died yesterday at her home, 94 Aikenside road, Riverside. She was the widow of W. B. Hamblin, who died several years ago. Services will be held at the home Sunday at 4 p. m. Burial will be at White Pidgeon, Mich.

GEORGE W. FINCH, 64, of 832 Argyle street, died last night at the Lake View hospital following an operation. Mr. Finch was president of the Ansell Ticket company. He was a member of the Old Colony and a 32d degree Mason. Services Monday at 2 p. m. Interment at Rosehill.

BOY, HOPING TO FLY, VANISHES.

John Punicki, 16, 538 West Forty-fifth place, who disappeared Saturday, is believed to have run away to become an aviator. He had often expressed the desire to become an army flyer.

Mrs. Katharine MacHarg Balmer, wife of Edwin Balmer, author, died yesterday at the family home, 1714 Asbury avenue, Evanston. She had been ill for several years with a rare form of anaemia.

Mrs. Balmer was 43 years old and was a graduate of Northwestern university. She obtained a degree in 1904 and for the next five years was an illustrator. In 1909 she was married and devoted herself to family life and assisting her husband in his literary activities. She was a sister of William MacHarg, with whom Balmer wrote "Via Wireless," one of his early successes, which was staged.

Mr. Balmer said that she read proof on all his stories and criticized them. Three children, Caroline, 15 years old; Thomas, 12, and Katharine Ruth, 10, survive.

Funeral services will be held today at 2:30 p. m. at St. Mark's church, Evanston. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

A. A. M'CORMICK FUNERAL RITES THIS AFTERNOON

Services for Alexander A. McCormick, former editor and publisher of the Chicago Evening Post, alderman and county board president, who died Tuesday, will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the chapel of Graceland cemetery. The service will be read by the Rev. J. G. K. McClure of the McCormick Theological seminary.

The county board and the city council will pay tribute to his memory at their meetings Monday.

The honorary pall bearers, named yesterday, are: Alfred L. Baker, Edward F. Carry, Jacob M. Dickinson, T. E. Donnelly, John V. Farwell, David R. Forgan, Henry B. Fuller, Calvin Hill, Henry Hilton, Frank H. Jones, Charles H. Markham, Henry Monroe, John T. Pirie, Frank H. Scott, John W. Scott, John G. Shedd, Albert A. Sprague, Horace T. Tenney, Slason Thompson, and Walter H. Wilson.

ATTEMPTS TO COMMIT SUICIDE.

ROSEHILL MAUSOLEUM

To Keep Memories Vivid When Life Has Gone

ONE cannot bring back those who are gone, but may keep, undimmed, memories of them precious beyond words. And this may be done though one's means be modest, since now there are available, in the new addition to the Rosehill Mausoleum, single crypts for so little as $450. Perpetual care for the resting place of him or her who sleeps forever is the priceless benefit of an investment in Rosehill Mausoleum space. One could be sure of that when a trust fund alone was set aside for it. Now the new "Mausoleum Building Special Reserve Fund" makes it doubly sure.

Inquiries are attended to promptly and courteously, and with no thought of obligation.

Elmer Spends Night Soaking Up Harmonies

Has Kind Words to Say of 'Most Everybody.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Perhaps it were just as well to start with the brief program by the W-G-N mixed quartet, 8:40. It began with "Sweet and Low," but I wish to refer particularly to the selection "Voices of the Woods" (Rubenstein). This is really a four part harmony arrangement of the composer's well known piano piece, "Melody in F."

It or a similar arrangement was sung effectively by the North Shore Congregational church choir through WBCC last Sunday evening. The piece may be destined to become as popular as "The Bells of St. Mary's."

Incidentally, it seems that when Announcer Quinn Ryan is away for a few days we appreciate him all the more on his return.

There is not much doubt that the writer was but one among many of WMAQ's radio audience, 8:30 to 9, who were thankful for the Whitney trio's repetition of Wolf-Ferrari's piano trio, opus 5. Some one should give these nameless works a title with an English meaning.

The second hearing of this charming piece, with its short themes and its clever, colorful harmonic structure, greatly deepens one's liking for it. I believe a third hearing of it would be appreciated. It is one-half hour of solid, satisfying musical enjoyment.

We came within an ace of hearing a regular Chicago Symphony orchestra "pop" concert at WLS, 9 to 10. This was by the Little Symphony orchestra of Chicago, which was heard from this same station about a month ago, and will play there again Christmas day. The station's tone was far from satisfactory, but the selections were from Beethoven, Grieg, Tschaikowsky, and others, and they had the air of authoritative interpretation.

During this same 9 o'clock hour flying trips were made to WEBH, where Friml's "Firefly" was being given a second reading by the WEBH light opera company. During the last year the writer has been reading about the various performances of "The Firefly" given by opera companies throughout the country, and all the time wishing he could hear it. It is now thoroughly familiar music. For which, many thanks.

Sunday afternoon at 3:30, W-G-N, faculty members of the Chicago Musical college will present a chamber music recital, which probably will be the most artistic musical event in Chicago's radio history.

Charles P. Hughes, formerly business manager for Charles E. Erbstein's radio station, announced yesterday that he had taken a five year lease on station WWAE, Plainfield, Ill., from Lawrence [Butch] Crowley. Mr. Crowley is the bootlegger who is said to have put gold doorknobs on his mansion.

WANT TO SHOW YOU WHERE THE MONEY YOU LOANED ME WENT. WARBUCKS - EVERY DIME OF IT WENT INTO NEW BUILDINGS FENCES PAINT AND LIVE STOCK - THE ONLY LUXURY WE GOT WAS THE NEW HOUSE AND I SORTA FIGURED MARY'D EARNED THAT - NICE LOOKING BUILDINGS, SILO -
THINGS SEEMED TO GO BETTER RIGHT AFTER YOU GAVE US A HAND - THAT STORM DIDN'T HURT THE CORN AS BAD AS WE THOUGHT AND THE FROST HELD OFF TILL IT GOT RIPE - HAD A RIGHT GOOD CROP AND GOT IT INTO THE CRIB - GOING TO FEED EVERY KERNEL OF IT, TOO - NO GRAIN'S GOING TO BE HAULED OFF THIS PLACE FROM NOW ON - YESSIR, WARBUCKS - WE WERE DOWN AND OUT AND YOU PUT US ON OUR FEET - SINCE THEN EVERYTHING'S GONE OUR WAY. I'VE MADE SOME LUCKY DEALS IN CATTLE SINCE I SAW YOU - MARY AND I WERE TALKING IT OVER LAST NIGHT AND WE CAN PAY BACK FOUR THOUSAND OF WHAT WE OWE YOU -
WAIT A YEAR, SILO - YOU'LL NEED CAPITAL - DON'T CRAMP YOURSELF - AND DON'T THANK ME - THE DOUGH ALONE DIDN'T PUT YOU ON TOP - IT WAS YOURSELF, SEE? RADIO PROGRAMS FOR TODAY

CAN you imagine Fannie Brice, Eddie Cantor, and Paul Ash all in the same room? What a hilarious time it would be! Then tune down to 302.8 meters this evening for WLIB, the Liberty Magazine station, around 7 o'clock and you can hear them all on the same program, singing their humorous songs, and with Ash playing that wicked piano of his. If introductions are needed, Miss Brice is one of the stars assembled in the "Music Box Revnue," now at the Illinois theater; Eddie Cantor is making them laugh at "Kid Boots" in the Woods theater, while Paul Ash is the ringmaster of the weekly festivities at McVicker's theater.

These three stars are appearing on the WLIB program this evening for the benefit of the united drive for Jewish charities and are to offer a half hour program from 7 to 7:30, when they will be followed by Fred Hamm and his Liberty orchestra, playing until 8. The second Hamm hour on

W-G-N PROGRAM

The first of this season's syncopation matinees starts today at W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel, with a startling and snappy array of talent, including Erskine Tate and his Vendome theater orchestra—and what jazz!—Freeman Gosden and Charlie Correll, the riotous W-G-N twosome, and Frieda Leonard and Jewel Barnett, the humming birds. The matinee starts at 4:15 p. m. and lasts until 5. And what a show it's going to be!

From 8:30 to 9 o'clock this evening the W-G-N mixed quartet, consisting of Bernice Taylor, soprano; Kathleen Ryan, contralto; Dan Baker, tenor, and Mark Love, basso, is to present one of its characteristic programs. The earlier portion of this hour, from 8 to 8:30, will be devoted to the conclusion of the dinner concert by the Drake concert ensemble and the Blackstone string quintet.

Half the world is half asleep

Can success in life be undermined by constipation? Indeed it can. The poisons of this disease tire you out, wear you down, make you listless and make you lose interest in things in general. Ambition is most often prompted by a thoroughly healthy body. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings permanent relief from constipation.

He didn't have the energy to fight

LOST . . . another big order . . . the fourth defeat that day. All because he didn't have the energy to fight when his prospect said "No." Something had blunted his senses and stolen his strength. What was he coming to?

That "something" was constipation, the world's most universal disease. What a shame so many people suffer from constipation when there is really such an easy, pleasant, sure way to bring permanent relief—the regular use of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—two tablespoonfuls daily; or in chronic cases, with every meal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is what doctors call a bulk food. As it travels through the system its fiber remains unchanged. Therefore, it sweeps the intestine clean and drives out the vicious poisons of constipation. ALL-BRAN also absorbs and carries moistures through the intestinal tract, stimulating it to healthy, normal action. ALL-BRAN works as nature works. You need never increase the amount eaten. How different from habit-forming pills and drugs, which become ineffective unless the dose is steadily strengthened and increased.

You'll like Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Serve it with milk or cream, sprinkled over cereals, or cooked with cereals; in soups, or made into the many recipes given on the package. You'll like it with fruit. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or your grocer returns the purchase price.

KNOW THE TRUTH ABOUT BRAN

To be effective, bran fiber must go through the various digestive processes without submitting to any of them. It must pass through the entire alimentary tract without its form being changed.

What happens when a bran food is eaten?

After the saliva has acted upon it, it passes through the stomach and into the intestines, where every part which is not fiber is absorbed.

In ALL-BRAN the quantity of fiber is so great that it furnishes bulk enough to prevent and relieve constipation.

In a part-bran food, the quantity of fiber is so small that there is only a puny amount to do a herculean task.

ALL-BRAN brings sure results. Demand it.

CRISIS NEARS FOR HARMONY PLANS OF COUNTY G. O. P.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The showdown on the much discussed harmony ticket for the Republican county primary probably will come next week. Some say that by the end of the week the harmony idea will be smashed to smithereens.

The Barrett-Crowe steering committee discovered yesterday that United States Senator Deneen will return to Chicago on Monday and the plan is to put the whole situation up to him at once.

Instead of carrying out the original project for a general harmony conference attended by representatives of all factions, the present program is to send a committee of three to Deneen and ask for a definite understanding of the terms on which negotiations can be opened.

The subcommittee consists of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, William H. Weber, member of the board of review and head of the country towns' organization, and B. W. Snow, chief bailiff of the municipal court, whose affiliations now seem to be with George F. Harding, Thompson leader on the south side.

It is reported that this trio, as the result of several Barrett-Crowe conferences during the last few days, will be prepared, if the opportunity offers, to make what they consider an attractive proposition to Senator Deneen. The impression has been that the senator would be willing to enter into an agreement giving his group only one-third of the ticket and the offer authorized is said to include a larger number of places on the ballot, although they might not be just the places Deneen would choose.

If the senator is willing to take this offer back to his group for final action, further negotiations will follow. But the general expectation is that at the first chance he will present the demand of his group that all bi-partisan arrangements with the Democrats, including the deals on the drainage board and the south park board, be terminated.

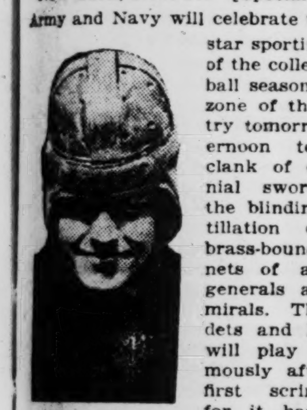
New York, Nov. 27.—[Special.]—The Army and Navy will celebrate the five star sporting final of the college football season in this zone of the country tomorrow afternoon to the clank of ceremonial swords and the blinding scintillation of the brass-bound bonnets of assorted generals and admirals. The Cadets and Middies will play anonymously after the first scrimmage, for it has been raining heavily since last night, the field of the Polo grounds is soggy again, and the white numbers on the men's shoulder blades will be blotted out as soon as they hit the boggy ground.



TINY HEWITT.

There will be football as well as marching and personal grandeur in the festivities at the Polo Grounds, but the Army and Navy game would draw a full attendance in New York, or anywhere else in the country for that matter, if the athletes only played mumbley peg.

Why John Doe Likes It.

Here is a rivalry that matches the harsh animosity of Yale and Harvard, and here is the splendor of a grand duke's funeral, compared to which the gaudy complexion of a circus parade seems somewhat sallow. It isn't the marching that New York pays as much as $100 a ticket to see, for there is more intricate footwork in the average Ned Weyburn chorus in a Broadway show for the modest admittance of $8.80, including tax.

It is something else, perhaps the pleasure of imagination. The wheezing civilian who is beginning to find himself bulging into his own lap when he sits down, may sit by the sidelines as the blue and gray files go swinging by and longingly vision himself among this clotted cream of the youth of the land.

That is a pretty high-sounding reason why the Army and Navy game would still be a sell out if the two teams came to New York at the end of the season without a victory between them, to decide which was the worst football team in the entire U. S. A.

Anyway, the Army and Navy play the star bout of the metropolitan season tomorrow and the nature of their feud is such that this belated game at least will be waged in a spirit of aggression on both sides. In this respect it will contrast with two other celebrated deep November fixtures, the Yale-Harvard and Cornell-Penn affairs, both of which were made dismal by defensive tactics.

Offense Their Defense.

It is noticeable that the customers at prize fights and ball games lay great store by the far fetched sock, whether it be a swing from the shoestrings by a left handed heavyweight or Babe Ruth whaling a long fly right into an outfielder's glove. They value the wallop, even though it fails, far above the defensive play that turns the wallop aside.

Whereas Harvard and Penn were rather proud of their defensive work in their big game, the Army and Navy both have always gone about their annual game with a reckless determination to let the other team do the defending. Consequently most of them go to decisions, one way or another, and the scores between them after 27 games include only two ties. Furthermore, the net result was a standoff until last year, when the Army won and took the lead with thirteen victories to the Navy's dozen.

Both Have the Edge.

Nowadays the Navy plays under the intercollegiate three year rule, whereas the Army has always insisted that a cadet is a cadet and is eligible to represent the academy any time he qualifies. There is no aversion either to players who have already left substantial football records behind them in the universities and there will be two such men, Wilson and Hewitt, available for services tomorrow, who were famous football players at Penn State and Pitt, respectively, before they were appointed to the military academy.

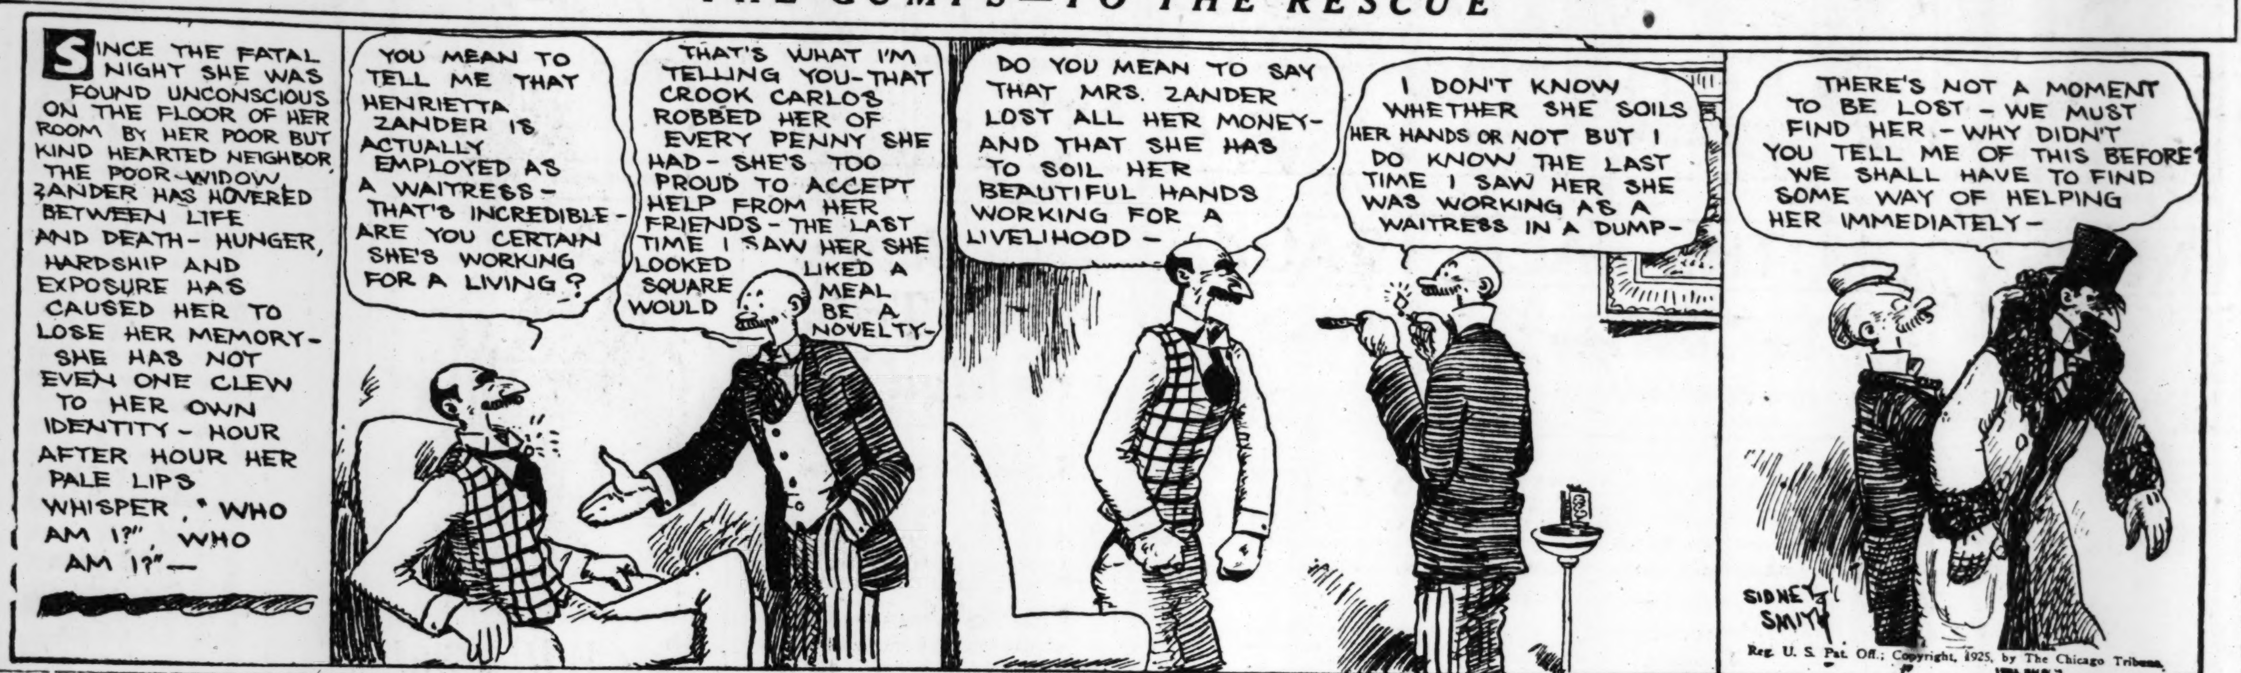
THE GUMPS—TO THE RESCUE



SINCE THE FATAL NIGHT SHE WAS FOUND UNCONSCIOUS ON THE FLOOR OF HER ROOM BY HER POOR BUT KIND HEARTED NEIGHBOR, THE POOR WIDOW ZANDER HAS HOVERED BETWEEN LIFE AND DEATH - HUNGER, HARDSHIP AND EXPOSURE HAS CAUSED HER TO LOSE HER MEMORY - SHE HAS NOT EVEN ONE CLEW TO HER OWN IDENTITY - HOUR AFTER HOUR HER PALE LIPS WHISPER, "WHO AM I?", "WHO AM I?"—
YOU MEAN TO TELL ME THAT HENRIETTA ZANDER IS ACTUALLY EMPLOYED AS A WAITRESS - THAT'S INCREDIBLE - ARE YOU CERTAIN SHE'S WORKING FOR A LIVING?
THAT'S WHAT I'M TELLING YOU - THAT CROOK CARLOS ROBBED HER OF EVERY PENNY SHE HAD - SHE'S TOO PROUD TO ACCEPT HELP FROM HER FRIENDS - THE LAST TIME I SAW HER SHE LOOKED LIKED A SQUARE MEAL WOULD BE A NOVELTY -
DO YOU MEAN TO SAY THAT MRS. ZANDER LOST ALL HER MONEY - AND THAT SHE HAS TO SOIL HER BEAUTIFUL HANDS WORKING FOR A LIVELIHOOD -
I DON'T KNOW WHETHER SHE SOILS HER HANDS OR NOT BUT I DO KNOW THE LAST TIME I SAW HER SHE WAS WORKING AS A WAITRESS IN A DUMP -
THERE'S NOT A MOMENT TO BE LOST - WE MUST FIND HER - WHY DIDN'T YOU TELL ME OF THIS BEFORE? WE SHALL HAVE TO FIND SOME WAY OF HELPING HER IMMEDIATELY -

JACK WANTS BUT ONE GOOD SOCK AT WILLS' CHIN

Anxious to Battle Negro, He Says.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

While on the coast to referee the Iowa-Southern California football game last Saturday the writer indulged in a long fanning bee with Jack Dempsey, the world's heavyweight champion.

During the conversation the subject of boxing bobbed up. Most every one who has tried to interview Dempsey on ring affairs realizes it is rather difficult to get the champion into an interesting discussion on his favorite pastime. Jack, however, was in a different frame of mind on this occasion and talked freely of the present day fighters.

Before Dempsey was permitted to talk long on the merits of Wills, Walker, Greb, and other luminaries of the ring he was asked point blank if he is sincere in his intentions to fight Wills.

Sure He Can Beat Wills.

"I would like nothing better than to meet this fellow on July 4 or Labor day," the champion replied. "I have seen Wills box many times and I am positive I can beat him.

"I also know I have reached the pinnacle of my career, but am positive I have enough left in this right duke to flatten the Negro. You can say for me that Jack Dempsey will not lead with his chin nor his right hand as he did in the Firpo fight. All I want is one good sock at Harry's chin and the fight will be over."

Asked about the possibility of Floyd Fitzsimmons staging the bout, Dempsey asserted he would rather see Fitz put it on than any other promoter. Jack, however, stated Floyd is having trouble to find a place where it can be held and it may be possible the fight will go to New York or Jersey City.

"I don't care about fighting in Chicago if the boxing bill is passed," Dempsey answered when asked about rumors that Chicago may be selected as the site. "A fuss between a white and black man may incite a race riot and I don't care to be a party to it.

But There's the Money.

"Of course, the money is the principal thing. It will be my last big shot and if the public demands I meet Wills, I must get my price."

The champion was asked what his price might be and he replied that he believed he is entitled to at least $750,000 for his end or a percentage of the receipts which will equal that amount.

Dempsey is keenly interested in his hotel in Los Angeles. He has spent several thousands of dollars on repairs and is catering to the better class of guests. Only boxers and managers of the highest type are permitted to stop at the hostelry.

PLANS MADE TO GIVE CHICAGO ARMY-NAVY TILT

At a conference yesterday at the Hamilton club called by United States Senator William B. McKinley plans were laid for a determined effort to give Chicago a chance to see the West Point and Annapolis football teams play next year.

With details to be completed later, it was agreed that a Chicago delegation, including university athletic leaders and newspaper men, will be sent to Washington, where Senator McKinley will arrange for conferences with the secretaries of the army and the navy and other federal officials it may be necessary to consult.

The opinion was expressed that if the east must see the big Army-Navy contest a second game might be arranged for Chicago for the benefit of the middle west. And if this proposal is rejected, it was suggested that a game between the Army and some western university and another contest with the Navy participating would serve the same purpose.

Gossip of the Day's Sport

BY DON MAXWELL.

College football with its school spirit and enthusiasm has won followers by the hundreds of thousands. Pro football has been drawing comparatively small crowds. The Iceman of Wheaton may deliver college football fans to the pros.

Professional baseball scored a putout on campus baseball shortly after Christy Mathewson signed with the big league. What will pro football—finished football—do to college football?

Students of the University of Nebraska celebrated their victory over Notre Dame by running wild on the campus, talking back to the profs, and forcing dismissal of classes. Reports fail to mention any one black jacking the mayor of Lincoln. He probably read about Northwestern's jovial spree and hid.

Red Grange has more managers than touchdowns. Three more—Mr. Pyle (C. C.); Doc Cooley, the Danville watchdog, who loans Red an automobile and follows him wherever he goes, and Byron F. Moore of South Bend.

Eckersall's interview with Dempsey is a refreshing bit of real dope on what the idle champ wants. Reams of copy have come out on Jack's attitude. Most of it is contradictory. Behind all of it is the press agent sparring to keep the champ and his drawing power alive. Eckersall tells you what you'd never learn from the hot air barrage.

If Chicago gets the Army and Navy game and it's played on Soldiers' field the Navy will use submarines and the Army tanks. Unique species of fish killed in action will be placed on exhibition at Lincoln park aquarium.

The University of Illinois (school at Urbana where Red Grange once took a course in football) is planning the only dry spot in the state. It is buying an umbrella for the gridiron. Cost, $12,000. What's $12,000 to a school which plays Granges?

It's not long since the definition of a pro football player was a "tough guy." Now the pro is a "star, who draws more money in one day than a coach makes in a year."

One of the biggest events of the coming week will be the dinner to be given on Thursday to fifty football coaches and athletic directors by the Chicago Commonwealth club. The coaches will talk on "Why we are glad to see Red Grange Get Rich."

Britton talks of a contract with the Bears. Illini chapel exercises will convene at Cubs' park at 10 a. m.

TILDEN CLINCHES SOCCER TITLE

Scoring two goals in the first half, Tilden Tech easily defeated Lane, 20 to 0, yesterday for the soccer championship of the city public high schools. The game was played at De Paul field, and the result was never in doubt. The game was a playoff of a recent scoreless tie.

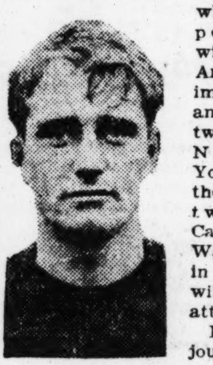
Rial Rolfe Advances to Finals of Carolina Golf

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Rial E. Rolfe, Chicago golfer and former western intercollegiate champion, advanced to the final round of the Carolina tournament here today when he defeated J. T. Bray of Youngstown, O., 5 and 4.

GRID CONTESTS TODAY CLOSE HECTIC SEASON

Loyola Meets Haskell at Soldiers' Field.

The final chapter of the hectic 1925 football season will be written today when a few important games will be played. Among the most important is the annual clash between Army and Navy in New York City, while the struggle between Southern California and Washington State in Los Angeles will be the coast attraction.



ROGER KILEY.

Local fans will journey to the stadium in Grant park to witness the game between Haskell Indians and Loyola. The Indians have journeyed to all parts of the country to meet representative elevens, and though sometimes beaten they have always shown real football.

Open Game Likely.

The Indians are coached by Dick Hanley, a former Washington State player and an excellent teacher. Loyola has been prepared for the contest by Roger Kiley, former Notre Dame end and one of the best flank players in Gold and Blue gridiron history. If weather conditions are favorable, open play should feature the contest.

Results of these games, however, have no bearing on the sectional titles, which have been decided in most cases. Dartmouth is generally recognized as the strongest eleven in the east and one of the most powerful in the country.

Action of Northwestern university coaches and athletic heads in recognizing Michigan as the Western conference champion has done away with many arguments. Although both teams lost one game, the Wolverines claimed the title on a percentage basis, as they played six Big Ten teams against four for Northwestern. The Maize and Blue also can be rated about the strongest eleven in the middle west.

Missouri Is Valley Champ.

Missouri is generally acclaimed the champion of the Missouri Valley conference, while Colorado Aggies clinched the championship of the Rocky Mountain conference and Washington just managed to clinch the Pacific Coast conference championship by defeating Oregon last Thursday, 15 to 14. Alabama won the title in the Southern conference by winning over Georgia last Thursday. Alabama, however, will not meet Tulane, another unbeaten eleven in the south.

Indications are that either Pittsburgh, Alabama or Tulane will be chosen to meet Washington in the east versus west game at Pasadena on New York's day. Pitt's decisive victory over Penn State stamps it a team of power and the same is true of Alabama, which beat Georgia, 27 to 0.

It would be interesting to see how a southern eleven would fare with a coast team. In the past eastern elevens which have made the trip have been handicapped by the heat. As southern teams are accustomed to playing in hot weather, it would be extremely interesting to follow such a struggle.

TRIBUNE DECISIONS

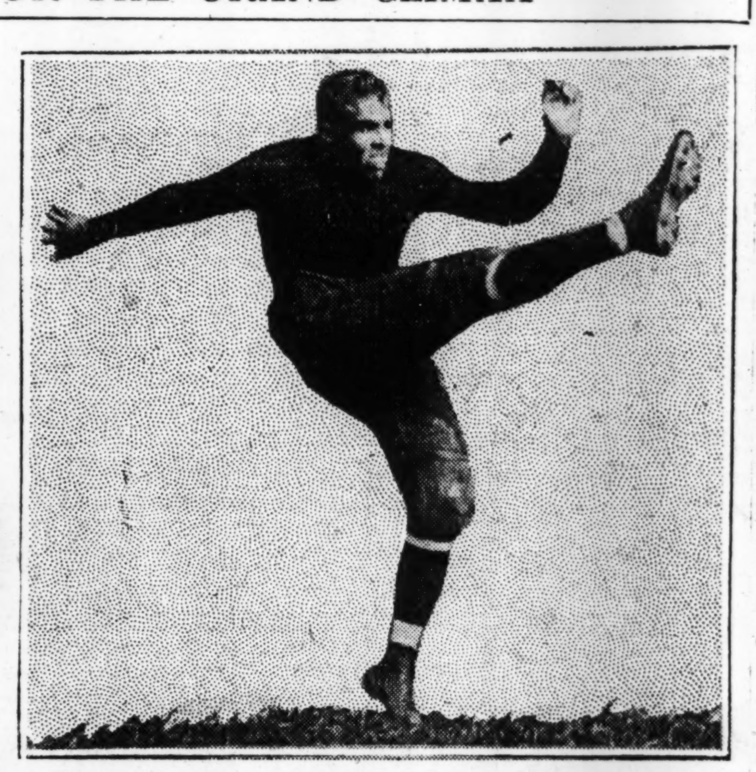
NOW FOR THE GRAND CLIMAX

Capt. Baxter, end, will lead the Army eleven in today's struggle with the Navy, which officially closes the 1925 football season.



This is Allan Shapley, star half back of the Navy eleven, which meets the Army in their annual battle today in New York.

Four Nations Vie for Prizes in Horse Show

BY FRENCH LANE.

England's entry for the National Horse show opening at the Chicago Riding club on Dec. 8 was received yesterday. It included a mixed team of London Olympic games riders and Canadian army officers.

It brought the total number of nations to compete for the rich prizes in the picturesque tanbark arena to four, the flags of which will be unfurled amid the pomp and pageantry of the opening night ceremonies.

Never before have so many foreign nations gone after honors in an American show west of New York. And with the crack teams of the four nations competing here, including dashing dragoons and hussars, fresh from European capitals, the race for honors will be the keenest in horse show annals in this country.

Olympic Entries Coming.

Teams from Belgium and France were entered earlier in the week to compete against Uncle Sam's best from Fort Riley, Kas., and from Fort Sheridan. The class of horses to be exhibited in the army division will be equally as good as that shown at the Olympic games in recent years.

Several of the invading army team riders are veterans of Olympic competition, and a number of the horses were prize winners at the last games held in Paris.

While the entry of the English team was the high spot in the events leading up to the great horse show yesterday, there were nominations coming in from many sections that gave it more and more prominence. C. T. Fisher of Detroit and C. Studebaker of South Bend entered horses for a number of the classes. Both stables are among the leaders in the middle west. They are being pointed for shipment here early next week.

Behr Horses Arrive.

A half dozen jumpers, all in top condition, owned by B. L. Behr of Chicago, were unloaded at the riding club yesterday and will be sent through their paces over the jumps in the huge tanbark arena today. The Chicagoan is confident he will account for a number of the rich prizes.

There has been no letup in the demand for tickets to the national event, and only 10 of the 150 boxes remained unsold late last night. There has also been a brisk demand all week for tickets other than the box seats. The sale indicates near capacity crowds at every session.

Chicagoan to Help Manage Harvard Football Team

William A. Magie, 450 Oakdale avenue, Chicago, a sophomore in Harvard college, has been appointed assistant manager of the Harvard football team for next year. Magie won the place in a competition lasting several weeks.

Cornhuskers Take Holiday to Dance On N. D.'s Grave

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 27.—(AP)—There was no school today for University of Nebraska students. Jubilation over the defeat of Notre Dame yesterday demoralized all efforts of faculty members to hold classes, forcing a formal dismissal by Dean Carl Engberg in midmorning.

Eight o'clock classes began in various buildings, but depleted rows of seats greeted most instructors. About 9 o'clock several hundred gathered in the center of the campus and began a snake dance around the buildings, shouting "There will be no school today." Recruits joined the "strikers" rapidly, and made the shout a reality.

Dean Engberg said tonight no formal action would be taken against the ringleaders because no property damage was done. The demonstration lasted all day, but assumed no violent proportions.

Pittsburgh to Get Invitation for Pasadena Game

Washington, Pa., Nov. 27. — [Special.]—News received here from an unimpeachable California source today, stated that the University of Pittsburgh is to be invited to play the University of Washington, coast champions, in the Tournament of Roses football game at Pasadena on New Year's day.

The Pitt victory over Penn State, coupled with the defeat of Penn and the playing through of a hard schedule with but one defeat, that at the hands of Lafayette, prompted the decision to invite the Panthers, this report stated. In the same connection, the word here was to the effect that it had been decided earlier that Washington and Jefferson was the team selected for the Rose tournament clash, had the Presidents come through with victories in their important games. Defeats at the hands of Pitt and West Virginia, however, ruined the W. and J. chances.

DE LA SALLE TO TACKLE MISSOURI ELEVEN TODAY

An intersectional football game that will mark the close of the prep season here will be staged this afternoon when De La Salle academy and McBride school of Missouri clash at Normal park. The Missourians come here with an undefeated record.

De La Salle, coached by Norman Barry, is one of the best teams in the city. The south siders tied with Loyola academy for the Catholic league championship.

Experts Laud Tribune Race Entry Lists

BY MORROW KRUM.

Running five miles in a cross country race is a task that requires a great deal of endurance, a good bit of training, and a large amount of mental courage. It is no job for weaklings.

Chicago is to be congratulated upon the size of the field that will turn out in Washington Park tomorrow afternoon to take part in The Tribune Athletic association's third annual cross country race. According to the entry list and apparent determination of the runners entered, the field will number more than 100, the largest ever to compete in a midwestern run. There are 149 entered.

Entries Honor to Chicago.

If 100 run, Chicagoans can swell with civic pride, according to men familiar with track events. It is a great thing to find that many cross country runners in a city even as large as Chicago, experts say.

The race will be staged in the baseball field in Washington park. The runners will circle the field four times for a total distance of five miles. During their progress towards the goal line they will have to clear sixteen barriers and obstacles.

The race course is so laid out that spectators will be enabled to follow the field from one place. There will be no helterskelter chase over the countryside, yet the runners will be faced with practically the same conditions. Facilities for handling a crowd as large as 50,000 have been arranged. There is to be no admission charge.

32 Prizes Ready.

The entry list includes the names of some famous runners. Several athletic associations are represented by teams. Teams are to be composed of the first five men of any association to finish. There are thirty-two prizes, a silver loving cup for the team that wins the event, another for the individual who wins, and ten gold, ten silver, and ten bronze medals. The prizes will be awarded at the finish of the race. The race will start at 2:30 o'clock sharp.

Entrants who have not joined the A. A. U. must pay 25 cents for registration fee to A. A. U. officials at the number table. Dressing rooms have been arranged in the basement of the South Park commissioners' building at Fifty-seventh street and Cottage Grove avenue. Numbers will be given out at 2 o'clock.

Illinois Selects Feb. 27 for Big Relay Meet

The ninth annual relay carnival of the University of Illinois will be held in the spacious armory on Feb. 27. The list of events will be announced within the next two weeks and the affair will be staged under the personal direction of Harry Gill, track and field coach at Illinois.

ILLINOIS PUNTER MAY WEAR PRO COLORS SOON

EVEN PHILLY EXCITED

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Thirty-five thousand tickets already have been sold for the game at Shibe park Saturday next when Red Grange, former star of the University of Illinois, makes his eastern debut as a pro.

Nothing like this demand has ever been known in the history of professional football in the east. The seating capacity at Shibe park will be completely exhausted for this contest.

Earl Britton, the Illinois full back, and running mate of Red Grange while the latter flashed to fame on western conference gridirons, was in Chicago last night in conference with officials of the Chicago Bears, professional football team.

C. C. PYLE.

The conference continued until late into the night and while no official statements were given out, rumors came from behind the closed doors of the session that Britton had accepted terms and will appear in uniform with the Bears in the game against Columbus at Cubs' park Sunday. He will appear in the Bears' back field along with Grange in games later this season, it was said.

During the visit of Britton here, C. C. Pyle, manager of Grange, took time off long enough to discuss some of the hundred and one rumors concerning Grange that have been put into circulation lately.

Moore Red's Treasurer.

In the first place he denied there was any such thing as a Red Grange, C. C. Pyle & Co. firm. "Red is the firm and he is the sole owner," Pyle declared. "I am his manager and reports that Byron F. Moore, former Champaign theater manager, had been taken into the firm are all without foundation. Moore and Grange have been friends for a number of years and as Red's business affairs continued to pile up he needed a man of Moore's type to serve as sort of an assistant secretary and treasurer. He offered Moore the position and it was accepted."

Reports of numerous law actions aimed at Pyle and Grange have come as no surprise to them, the former declared. "We anticipate a number of them and have engaged Attorneys Brundage and Gorman to take care of our legal affairs," he said.

Denies Two-a-Day Contract.

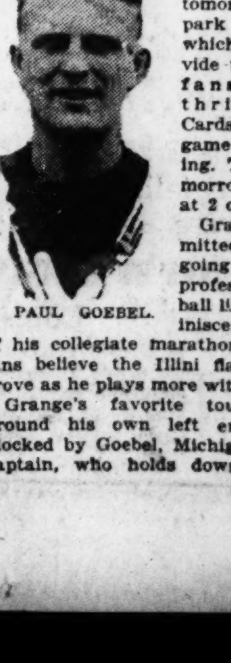
Talking of the report that a vaudeville team asserts it has a prior contract with Grange and was planning an action in the courts Pyle declared no such contract had ever been entered into by Grange. "At the time the contract was alleged to have been made Red was still a minor," Pyle said. "But even so there is not a scratch of paper of any kind indicating a contract had been made."

News that a suit for garnishment had been filed yesterday in Municipal court here by the Chicago Morris plan bank against Grange, which seeks to collect $2,828, alleged to be due from Pyle, was an absolute surprise, Pyle asserted. "If there are grounds for any such action the case has been allowed to remain dormant for half a dozen years," Pyle said. "I was not aware of any such suit until I read it in THE TRIBUNE tonight and have instructed my attorneys to settle it in full tomorrow morning if it is a just claim.

Attorneys for the bank stated that it had obtained a judgment against Pyle in April, 1923, but had been unable to collect the money. The alleged debt was for rent of offices used by a concern owned by Pyle and J. H. Redhead, the attorneys said.

BEARS VS. COLUMBUS

Red Grange and the Chicago Bears are perfecting the Bruin machine for the battle with the veteran Columbus, O., eleven tomorrow at Cubs' park in a tilt which should provide thousands of fans with the thrills of the Cards and Bears game Thanksgiving. The game tomorrow will start at 2 o'clock.



PAUL GOEBEL.

Grange has admitted that the going against a professional football line isn't reminiscent of many of his collegiate marathons, although fans believe the Illini flash will improve as he plays more with the Bears.

In the back field Columbus has Bob Rapp, leading scorer in professional football for 1923, Tynes of Texas, and Lynch of Ohio Northern at the halves and Frank Nesser at full back.

Cards Battle Islanders.

Duke Slater, colored giant and former all-American tackle of Iowa, will be in the Rock Island line when the Cards battle the invaders at Sox park tomorrow afternoon. Among the other stars of the Rock Island outfit are Little Twig, Carlisle Indians; Weiderquist, Washington and Jefferson; Thompson, Iowa, Burton, Louisiana, and Rooney of Duluth, all linemen, and Lamb of Lombard and Novak of Georgia, backs.

A victory for the Cardinals means that the south side team will own the championship of the National Professional Football league. According to Manager Chris O'Brien, if the Cards beat Rock Island no other team in the league will be able to overtake Driscoll's outfit by Dec. 20, the closing date of the pro league schedule.

The Cards all came out of the Bear game in good shape and all of the players except Red Dunn will be in top shape for the clash with the Islanders.

STECHER SIGNS TO MEET JUDSON ON MAT DEC. 7

Ed (Strangler) Lewis is due in Chicago today to complete training for his match with Mike Romano at the Broadway armory Wednesday night. Romano is training at Mullen's gym, and Lewis will work at the same place at a different hour. Taro Miyaki, Jap jiu jitsu expert, will appear on the card in a demonstration of his famous holds.

One of the best matches of the season is the Hans Steinke-John Freberg scrap, the semi-windup on the Stecher-Komar title card at the Coliseum Monday night. Komar is in great shape for his clash with Stecher. Komar worked out three hours yesterday in a loop gymnasium. Stecher engaged only in light workouts.

SPANISH RING CHAMPION PLANS FIGHTS IN U. S.

BERLIN, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Paolino, heavyweight champion of Spain, here for a bout next Tuesday with the German pugilist Breitenstraeter, disclosed plans today for an invasion of the United States which he hopes will lead to a championship match with Jack Dempsey.

Paolino declared he had received a letter from Tex Rickard, New York promoter, asking for his terms to fight in the United States.

Paolino, now under the management of Francois Descamps, said he expects to leave Paris for New York on Dec. 20, accompanied by Georges Carpentier, Paul Fritsch and Bert Molina, French boxers.

TEX DENIES OFFER.

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Tex Rickard declared today he had made no definite offer to Paolino, Spanish heavyweight, for a bout with Jack Dempsey or any one else, but explained he stood ready to give Paolino a tryout here to determine his caliber.

Study of Birds in Winter O. K., Bob Becker Says

BY BOB BECKER.

Argo, Ill., Nov. 27.—[Special.]—We have read with interest your articles on birds and now we would like to organize an Audubon society in our high school to arouse interest in our "feathered friends." Can you advise us where to look for literature on this subject which would be helpful to boys and girls, or can you tell us of any other schol where there is such an organization? CORRINE ANDERSON.

ANSWER—If you will get in touch with the president of the Illinois Audubon society, Mr. Orpheus M. Schantz, sixteenth floor, 10 South La Salle street, I am sure that you will get much valuable information on how to start a bird club among the boys and girls and also how to begin the study of birds. Mr. Schantz undoubtedly can supply you with colored charts for study purposes.

Although the winter season is generally regarded as a poor one to study birds, it really is an excellent time, as winter feeding stations can be built, and through them the boys and girls usually can get well acquainted with a fair number of species. This department has prepared a small bird book which you may find helpful in your bird study. It is called "Birds and Bird Houses" and is on sale at The Tribune Public Service bureau, 11 South Dearborn, at 10 cents a copy.

He also will bowl tomorrow night, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. Mattie Williams, Ted Svora, Frank Kartheiser, William Wernicke, Louis Levine, and Frank Kafora will be his opponents.

Army Battles Navy Today on Mud Field

The Navy for a time seemed to be embarked on a bad season, for the team was tied by Princeton early in the fall when Princeton showed no great promise, and later was spurlos versenkt by Michigan, 54 to 0.

The Army's defeat by Yale was not particularly disturbing, but when Columbia also beat the cadets, and therein recorded Columbia's first conquest of a major league school in about 20 years, the Army was fined several numbers in the line of promotion.

However, they're usually in the same class, and with the unusual inspiration that always inflates the warlike chests of those apprentice commanders on the day of their big game they will probably wallow to a fairly close score this time.

Prominent figures in national, judicial, and civic life will be among the spectators. Members of congress will be among the boxholders. Never before has there been such a demand for tickets for the service game.

The navy is to be represented by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur. Gov. Ritchie of Maryland and Senator Elkins of West Virginia are among boxholders. Judge K. M. Landis of Chicago, who hasn't missed an Army-Navy game for years, also has a box.

INTERSTATE TO MEET HERE DEC. 6

Announcement was made yesterday by Father Maurice Sheehy, president of the western interestate conference, that the annual meeting and election of officers of the association will be held at the Auditorium hotel in Chicago on Dec. 6. Other business to be transacted will be the drafting of schedules for all branches of competition.

TEX OPENS NEW MADISON SQUARE GARDEN TONIGHT

Cycling Sprints to Mark First Sports Show.

New York, Nov. 27.—[Special.]—Tex Rickard will see the realization of an ambition tomorrow night. The new Madison Square Garden, the imposing structure at 8th avenue between 49th and 50th streets, representing a financial investment of $5,000,000, is to swing wide its portals for the admission of the public for the first time. The official opening, with all the dedication ceremonies and other features, is scheduled for Dec. 15. But the new arena opens tomorrow night. It launches its career as perhaps the greatest building of its kind the world over. It is expected more than 15,000 will flock to the new center of sport.

Cycling Sprints First.

The attraction, aside from the distinction of being among those constituting the first public gathering in the arena that has replaced the history laden old Madison Square Garden, will be the sprint cycling carnival which serves as an appetizer for the annual December six day bicycle race to start Sunday night. The greatest riders in this country and Europe are scheduled to participate in a stellar program of cycling events which promises plenty of interesting competition.

Its capacity for attractions where only the permanent seats will be utilized will be approximately 17,000; for boxing the capacity will be close to 20,000. The limit in capacity at the old Garden was 14,000. For bike races the old building could seat some 7,000 and accommodate between 2,000 and 3,000 in the infield. With two attractions going on at once the new building can accommodate 33,000 people.

Exhibits of All Kinds.

Under the arena floor is an exposition hall, where all varieties of shows can be accommodated. Boxing, hockey, various athletic attractions, horse shows, dog shows, industrial and commercial expositions; professional and political assemblages, balls, concerts, entertainments—these are among the undertakings this new Garden will accommodate.

The building is an improvement over the old Garden in every respect. Of course, it is more modern, with up to date ventilating system, elaborate piping and refrigerating plant for supplying the ice for hockey, which is to be one of the major sports. The building is erected on a site 200x375 feet, 40 feet longer than the old plot.

C. A. A. U. Officials and Members Dance Tonight

Officials and members of the Central Association of the Amateur Athletic union will hold a dance in the Broadway armory tonight. Proceeds of the dance will be used to promote the big novice track and field meet of the C. A. A. U. at the armory Jan. 31.

Coast Artillery Cagers to Play Beloit Thursday

Beloit's fast basketball five, headed by Bobby Hasbrook, former White Sox baseball star, will be the next opponents of the 202d coast artillery team at Broadway armory. Beloit will play the coast artillerymen Thursday evening at the armory, Broadway and Thorndale.

Redskins of Haskell Play Loyola Today

Haskell Indians, coached by Dick Hanley, and Loyola, developed by Roger Kiley, wil clash on Soldiers' field this afternoon in the final intercollegiate football game to be played in Chicago this year. The game will be called at 2 o'clock.

The Indian eleven is composed of some great players. McLain, the full back, is rated the equal of John Levi, while Capt. George Levi is considered one of the best backs in the Missouri valley. Keahna, guard, made a big impression on eastern gridirons, while Norton is a clever receiver of forward passes, usually tossed by McLain.

Coach Kiley will start his strongest lineup against the Redskins. The Loyola coach asserted last night his players are in as good condition as can be expected at thistime of the season. He looks for his team to at least hold the Indians on even terms. Lineup:

GRANGE GAME TICKET SCALPERS FINED $5 EACH

Eight ticket scalpers who sought to benefit financially by the appearance Thursday of Red Grange at Cubs park in the Turkey day football game were fined $5 each yesterday in the Sheffield avenue court.

The light fine was given, Judge Joseph W. Schulman announced, because it was agreed that scalpers had a sorry time of it at the first Grange pro game. Their market had been ruined unexpectedly by the management, who put several thousand standing room tickets on sale just before the game began.

Charges that some scalpers tried to sell crude counterfeit tickets did not enter into today's hearing.

Charges against three others were dropped and four cases continued.

CROSS-COUNTRY RUN.

THE TRIBUNE'S third annual cross-country run will be held in Washington park tomorrow afternoon. It has enlisted the best distance performers in this section of the country. It will be free to the public.

All expenses of this event are borne by The Tribune Athletic association, an organization formed primarily to conduct affairs of this general character. The Tribune A. A. also sponsors the Silver Skates Derby events, the water carnival, and inaugurated this year its golf driving contest. These different exhibitions attracted thousands of spectators.

What is the purpose? THE TRIBUNE believes in clean athletics. It believes the more boys and girls take part in outdoor sports the better will be our future men and women. Encouragement of athletics, then, becomes a service to the community.

Because of a sporting staff which understands how to conduct such meets and because it is willing to spend money to give free exhibitions which perhaps could not be financed by private clubs, The Tribune Athletic association considers it a privilege to provide this sort of entertainment several times during the year. Its program will be enlarged as other competitions suggest themselves. Appreciation of the public is evidenced by the large crowds which view the contests. That is the only reward The Tribune A. A. wants or expects.

Gridiron Reflections.

Dear Harve: Once a year the spirit moves me. I supported football 'way back when we stood on the sidelines of the lower campus and chipped anywhere from a thin dime to a plutocratic 4-bit piece into the hat passed by a sulky soph.

How times have changed! Now application and check for season tickets get the same consideration as given those sent in by the big Button Hole Man from the Vest who thinks Rutgers is a slang name for an Illinois highway.

And also, I am for starting the second half where the first half ended. But, most of all, I'm for tossing the Conference names into a hat and abiding by the draw. And, finally, I'm for good coaches but strong for locking them up while the game is being played.

From a "C" Man.

Friend Harve: I was a guest at the recent dinner to the Chicago football team. I gave what I had to the squad, and I know from experience that most of the boys there would rather have been in their rooms getting their studies or much needed rest.

For Chicago and the "Old Man," however, they felt they must attend and submit to a "rubbing it in" process from alumni and deans who sip their coffee, enjoy their pie, and puff their cigarets, which members of the squad cannot do.

I can recall many an evening, after the hard grind of the practice session, of going to my room with the thought of putting in four or five hours of study so some of the deans would not flunk me; getting seated in a chair, to awaken hours later and find that I had not even been able to get the textbook right side up.

No lady ever stood for the removal of nine yards of adhesive tape that had been plastered on by Johnny Johnson.

Western Ave. Improvement Projects On

BY J. L. JENKINS.

Development of Chicago's great wider highway plan, conceived and organized less than a year ago through the coöperation of all highway building agencies in the city's four-state district under the direction of the Chicago Regional Planning assoication, is already under way.

Work on the big scheme which will eventually double the width of main roads within a one hundred mile radius of Chicago and remove traffic obstacles from the big terminal gateways is starting in Western avenue, the main channel for traffic to and from the south. It is this road that carries practically all of the winter tourist movement to Florida and the gulf coast, the heaviest freight and passenger traffic into Chicago from all parts of Illinois, and the lion's share of rush hour automobile traffic into the loop.

According to the latest association report, six separate improvement projects are under way on the Western avenue artery south of Garfield boulevard. The first, sponsored by the south park board, will widen the Western avenue-Garfield boulevard intersection and place a safety island in its center to separate traffic, in addition to widening the paving south of the intersection to seventy feet. The second, a joint operation between city council, railroads and other agencies, proposes a subway under the network of railroad tracks at Western avenue and 75th street.

The third proposes paving of the center strip now separating traffic north of Blue Island. The fourth will improve the road by widening and repaving through Blue Island, Specialville, and Posen. The fifth includes a new subway under the Illinois Central tracks to the south of Homewood, to relieve danger and congestion in the present Homewood subway; and the sixth will widen all curves in the highway through Hazelwood and south through Kankakee county.

Eastern Chicken Keepers to Open Poultry Exchange

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Eastern poultry keepers have a new way of exchanging breed stock, using a central point to meet each year previous to the mating of their birds early in the new year. They find that the poultry exhibtions offer an ideal place to make comparisons of the various breeds and representatives of flocks of the same breed raised by different owners.

The scheme is approved by poultry authorities at Cornell university. They claim that the poultry exchange, which is to be operated at the annual poultry production show at Ithica, N. Y., gives an excellent opportunity for both buyer and seller to study stock.

It is pointed out that the value of such a system is that poultrymen have plenty of time to examine and study the birds thoroughly. The birds are exhibited under this plan in their natural condition, and there are sizes, shapes, and quality to meet the needs of practically all egg strains in that state.

Birds offered for sale are posted on a bulletin board, coops of sale birds are tagged, all birds are eligible to be sold on the exchange, and any one is able to buy. The exchange is open for trading for twenty minutes following 11 a. m. and 3 p. m. for two days. Birds listed for sale may be withdrawn at any time before they are sold.

Eddie Shea, the west side Italian 124 pounder, will meet Al Holtzman in the windup of the boxing show at East Chicago next Friday night. Shea takes the place of Ray Miller, who took a complete runout yesterday, according to Promoter Jim Mullen.

Miller gave as his reason a cut lip, but a physician asserted the slight injury would in no way affect his fighting. Promoter Mullen stated Miller had seen Holtzman perform in the gymnasium and does not care to take a chance with him. The matter will be placed before the Indiana boxing commission on Monday when efforts will be made to have Miller barred from appearing in any shows staged in the Hoosier state.

Promoter Mullen asserted the remainder of the card will stand as advertised and that Shea is in fair condition after light work of the last ten days. With fully a week to get in trim, Eddie is expected to show in his old time form.

Dwindling hog supplies and largest Friday shipping orders since last February at 16,000 boomed the market gain, prices advancing 15@35c yesterday, with general average 25c above Wednesday at $11.50, equaling high day of the month. Receipts included 400 directs to packers. Top grades averaging 160@180 lbs sold at $11.85, with 150 lb underweights at $12.00. Packers purchased indifferently, the Armour houses being out entirely. Some late shipping orders went over unfilled.

Strength prevailed in yesterday's cattle market following the Thanksgiving holiday, despite a run of 8,000, against 464 the previous Friday. Quality rated good for Friday, due to the larger number of show rejects included in offerings. A load of the latter averaging 1,202 lbs. topped at $14.50, with eight head of 1,085 lb averages, at $15.00, and five 1,100 pounders at $15.25. Few regular market cattle, owing to indifferent quality, passed $11.00. Butcher stock sold steady to strong. Calves and bulls were unchanged.

Yesterday's upward swing of the lamb market carried natives and fed westerns to $16.75, a new high mark for the season, which stands 75c above last week's top and highest since June. Shippers and city butchers bought at the top, with packers paying up to $16.65 for best sorts, taking the bulk of good lambs at $16.25@16.50. Aged and yearling sheep held firm, the latter reaching $13.60, with aged wethers at $11.00 and ewes at $8.50. Breeding ewes sold at $9.50. Feeding lambs in small lots were around $16.00; shorn lambs, $14.75.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 500 cattle, 4,000 hogs, and 1,000 sheep, against 1,037 cattle, 9,232 hogs, and 761 sheep the corresponding Saturday a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for Monday are estimated from 42,000 to [illegible]: G. M. Nicoll marked 42,000, A. E. Wellhener, 50,000; F. W. Waddell, [illegible],000; W. S. PRODUCE MARKETS

Demand for butter showed improvement with an advance of ½c in prices here and at New York and Philadelphia. Sales of 91 cars storage standards for December delivery were made here at 43¾@44½c, and 209 cars January at 43¾@44¼c. Trade in cheese only fair, with prices little changed.

Fresh eggs sold at former prices, but the undertone was unsettled. Receipts, 3,443 cases. Sales of 345 cars refrigerator standards for December delivery were made at 34@35¼c.

Demand for potatoes was fair, weather conditions being favorable, and sales were at full prices, with Wisconsins at $3.00@3.50 per 100 lbs. Receipts, 61 cars, with 27 cars on team track.

Live turkeys dropped 8c per lb as the result of the letup in the Thanksgiving demand. Old hens were advanced ½c and geese 1c, while roosters were ½c lower. Receipts, 10 cars and 1,105 coops.

CHICAGO STOCK TRANSACTIONS

Friday, Nov. 27, 1925.

Day's sales ....30,000 Year ago ....76,000 Total, 1925 ....12,551,792 Previous year 9,464,469

Bendix was a feature of Chicago stocks yesterday, bursting into activity and closing with a net gain of 1¾ to 33¼ in reflection of good earnings reports. After the meeting at which the quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the class A stock was declared, Vincent Bendix, president, announced that net income to date from the company's drive royalties has exceeded by 20 per cent the figures from the same source for 1924. United Light and Power A common advanced 2¾ to 151½ and Auburn Automobile, Yellow Truck, and Union Carbide each closed a point higher. Stewart-Warner was up ¾. Swift International declined ⅝.

On small sales, gains were: Chicago Title and Trust, 10 points; All American Radio, 2 points; Midland Steel Products, 1½; United Paperboard, 1⅜, and Gossard and American Shipbuilding, a point each. Ward preferred declined a point and Hurley Machine was 1½ lower. Initial trading in the new $5 par stock of the Consumers company was registered at 4¼, compared with the previous close of 8 for the old $10 par.

Formal announcement of details of the organization of Albert Pick, Barth & Co., the corporation which is to take over Albert Pick & Co. and L. Barth & Sons of New York, was made. The new company will own not less than 221,000 of the 300,000 shares of common stock of Albert Pick & Co. The company is making the same offer to minority stockholders of Albert Pick as was made to the Pick interests, $22 a share in cash or an exchange of share for share of the old Pick common for new class A stock. The new stock will pay $1.75 a share in dividends, compared with $1.60 a share being paid on the present Pick common.

·CASH·GRAIN NEWS

Export sales of 600,000 to 700,000 bu wheat were reported at the seaboard, including three cargoes of Manitobas to the United Kingdom. Resellers offered slightly below direct offers. Many exporters did not offer on account of the Argentine strength. Corn sales were estimated at 160,000 bu, while a little rye was said to have been sold to Scandinavia.

Chicago handlers sold 5,000 bu wheat, 191,000 bu corn, and 64,000 bu oats to the domestic trade, with 10,000 bu corn to go to store.

Offerings of cash wheat here was small, and the basis unchanged to 1c lower, the latter on dark northern, which was quoted at 5@15c over December for No. 1. No. 2 red was 8@14c and No. 2 hard winter 3@4c over the future. Premiums on cash wheat at Kansas City, Omaha, and St. Louis showed little change, while Minneapolis was unchanged to 1c higher, with shipping sales of 255,000 bu, including 100,000 bu to nearby mills and the balance to mills east of Chicago.

No. 4 mixed and white corn on track at Chicago sold at 4½@5c under December, a delivery basis. No. 5 grades brought 7½@9c, No. 6 grades 10½@12c under, and sample grade 13@27c under the future, the basis being unchanged to 2½c lower for the day. Outside markets were unchanged to 2c lower.

Offerings of cash oats were not large and the basis unchanged to ½c lower, with No. 2 white 1@1¾c over and No. 3 white ¾@1¼c over the December.

Williams Oil-O-Matic Heating.

P. J. S., Charlton, Ia.—The Williams Oil-O-Matic Heating corporation claims to be the largest manufacturer of electrically operated domestic oil burners in the world. Its business has been in successful operation since 1919. The 100,000 shares of no par value common stock now being offered is being bought from individuals and involves no new financing for the company. There are 350,000 shares of this stock outstanding. The company has no funded debt, bank debt or preferred stock. As of October 31, 1925, current assets amounted to $1,356,867 [including $275,238 of cash] and current liabilities amounted to $320,830, leaving working capital of $1,036,037. Total net tangible assets amount to $1,753,406. Net earnings, after taxes, have increased from $152,889 in 1923 to $664,433 in 1924 and to $775,403 in the first ten months of 1925. It is estimated that such net earnings for the entire year of 1925 will approximate $2.50 a share on the common stock. It is stated that the management intends immediately to place this stock on a $1.50 annual dividend basis. This stock deserves a fairly good rating among industrial common stocks.

LONDON WOOL AUCTION.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—(AP)—There was a full attendance at the wool auctions today. Offerings amounted to 11,331 bales. Merinos were quiet, while crossbreds were actively competed for, chiefly by the home trade. The opening rates were well maintained.

ITALY PAYS HIGH FOR PROGRESS, LEECH DECLARES

BY HARPER LEECH.

High praise for the substantial economic progress of Italy in the last three years is accorded by Dr. Henry A. E. Chandler, economist of the National Bank of Commerce, in an article soon to appear in Commerce Monthly.

Dr. Chandler's figures cannot be challenged, nor his immediate conclusions successfully assailed, but the question arises as to whether Italian industrialism has not sold itself into slavery. If so its present progress will likely prove temporary—a mere fattened prelude to more grievous times later on.

Now that Russia has ceased to shoot its few denizens with brains and has begun to find out that intelligence cannot be manufactured in schools, but first has to be bred at home from the right kind of stock, we may also expect a temporary period of industrial prosperity under political dictatorship there. It is true that for relatively brief periods in national life, the services of brains may be obtained by rulers or ruling castes, who deny liberty and full play of private enterprise and initiative. The world witnessed many such spurts under benevolent despots of the pre-capitalist eras. But they never last.

There was a period in which Wisconsin, under a mild form of political dictatorship and the submergence of the business man, led the rest of the country in many lines of progress, but that time seems definitely drawing to a close, if not already finished.

We will probably witness in Italy and Russia during the next few years a remarkable equalization of the results of dictatorship—each starting from opposite points but finally arriving at about the same spot. The Russian dictators have begun to relax their theories and tolerate the business man. In Italy Mussolini has begun to tolerate again the socialistic ideas which he originally espoused, and which are really the roots of his seemingly anti-socialist revolution.

We hear that Mussolini is to establish industrial courts and enforce compulsory arbitration of industrial and wage disputes.

He has definitely picked up the thread of state socialism, which we dropped shortly after the war.

The department of labor has just issued document No. 369 on the "Use of Cost of Living Figures in Wage Disputes." It is a historical museum of the war time industrial follies which came near proving our undoing.

Strange to say it was the American Federation of Labor in its opposition to the Kansas Industrial court, rather than American business, that led the attack here that regained industrial liberty in substantial measure.

The minute the state begins to assume the function of settling labor disputes on the basis of thories which ignore the fact that wages can only be paid out of production, it embarks upon a course which can only end in business strangulation. Mussolini appears to have set sail for that port.

WORLD'S·GRAIN MARKET·NEWS

Wheat traders were inclined to look for a further recession in values as most of the locals were said to be short and even those who are bullish want a break to get long after taking profits on the early advance. They ignored the advance in Buenos Aires and Liverpool and said those markets were too easily influenced by light transactions to follow on the bull side at present.

A large cash handler suggests that those who are bullish on wheat should buy Winnipeg futures as they are the lowest of all wheat markets and should advance more on export buying as Canada is the only place where large supplies of wheat can be obtained for immediate shipment.

ARGENTINE NEWS AGAIN ADVANCES PRICE OF WHEAT

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Continued bullish Argentine news with the pronounced strength in foreign wheat markets lifted prices here 2@4½c at the start to a new high on the present movement on the old crop futures, and put July to a new high for the season. December touched 1.66½; May, $1.64, and July, $1.48¼, with the close at $1.65¼ for December, or 3½c over May against 2½c on Wednesday. Net gains for the day were 2¼@3¼c. Winnipeg gained 3¼@5½c; Liverpool, 5@7¾d, and Buenos Aires, 4@7c, as compared with Wednesday's finish. Corn was weak and ¼@1c lower. Oats were ¼c lower to ¼c higher, and rye 2⅛@2¼c higher.

General short covering and commission house buying was in evidence here early when the highest prices of the day were made but as has been the case for some time profit taking developed on the advance, and the extreme figures were not maintained. Individual operations counted for little. The public failed to follow the upturn, but took the buying side on the declines.

Rust Develops in Argentine.

Cables from American crop experts in Argentine continue to indicate that all prospect of a large yield for this season has vanished. Bryant's cable to Jackson Bros. said the crop would not exceed 200,000,000 bushels, while Murray's cable to Clement, Curtis & Co., made it 210,000,000 bushels. A private cable suggested around 200,000,000 bushels. These crop estimates indicate an exportable surplus of 125,000,000 to 135,000,000 bushels. Reports sent through London and Liverpool were almost unanimous in making the surplus 150,000,000 bushels. B. W. Snow called attention to the fact that in 1911 black rust did heavy damage to the Argentine crop. Rust has appeared in the Pampas and in other sections. Rains were reported in the north and center.

December Corn Weakens.

Cash houses were sellers of December corn, hedging against purchases in the sample market, and it went to 5⅝c under May. Receipts of 771 cars were the largest of the season, and the trade is looking for over 900 cars for Monday's market. The best support in futures came from shorts. Forecast was for much colder weather with little or no moisture, which will be favorable for the movement. Oats held within a range of ⅜@⅝c and closed within a fraction of the bottom with the bulk of the trade in exchanging between December and May at 4½c difference. Rye was firm with an improvement in the export demand at the seaboard.

Lard Closes Lower.

Lard was firmer early with shorts taking the November, but the market flattened out toward the last on commission house selling, and the finish was about the bottom with net losses of 5@22½c. Ribs were 25c higher and bellies unchanged to 30c lower. Deliveries on November contracts were 50,000 lbs lard. Prices follow:

HIGHER DISCOUNT RATE INDICATED BY BANK REPORTS

BY O. A. MATHER.

The likelihood of an increase in the New York federal reserve bank's rediscount rate was more clearly indicated last night when the weekly reports of the federal reserve system were made public. The statement of the New York institution evidenced the increased loan burden thrown on it as the result of maintenance of its 3½ per cent rate, compared with 4 per cent at all other reserve banks.

Loans of the New York bank jumped $44,706,000, representing the major part of an increase of $58,348,000 for the whole reserve system. As loans of the Chicago bank also increased $16,355,000, the expansion of both institutions more than accounted for the increase of the whole system. Open market bills increased $9,156,000 at New York and $2,445,000 at Chicago, although the increase for the whole system was only $4,478,000.

Reserves Show Decrease.

Similarly, total reserves at New York dropped $40,907,000 and at Chicago, $14,605,000; while reserves of the whole system declined $44,550,000. The ratio of reserves to liabilities at New York fell from 82.8 to 79.6 per cent; at Chicago, from 75 to 71.8 per cent; and for the whole system, from 72.1 to 71.1 per cent. For the whole system, gold reserves declined $36,356,000; deposits fell $31,115,000, with member bank credits declining $41,009,000 and government deposits increasing $11,878,000; and note circulation expanded $23,460,000.

On Wednesday, the directors of the New York bank stated they would make no announcement unless a new rate is ready to be put into effect. But if the rate is advanced this week, Wall street believes its market effect has already been discounted and will be glad to have the uncertainty removed.

General Business Better.

Confidence in the general business situation is the keynote of the weekly mercantile reviews. While merchants are proceeding with conservatism, a disposition to place forward orders is replacing hand-to-mouth buying that so long has characterized trade. The holiday season is giving impetus to trade but general business is considerably better than a year ago.

"Replenishment orders for all classes of commodities and liberal purchases for early spring delivery continue to characterize reports from all sections of the country," Dun's Review says. "While wholesale trade reached its crest early this month, distribution at retail has held up relatively better," Bradstreet's Review finds. "Current wholesale distribution maintained the same volume as last week and exceeded the same week last year," Marshall Field & Co. say.

WALL STREET NOTES

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Revival of activity and strength in the public utility issues featured the further recovery of prices in today's curb market. Oils also received better support, Vacuum closing 2 points higher at 102¼ while Humble International Petroleum and Prairie Pipe showed net gains of a point or more. The demand for power and light stocks centered largely in such issues at American Light and Traction, Electric Investors, Lehigh Power Securities, Power Corporation of New York, and United Light and Power, which closed 2 to 4 points higher.

Chrysler [new stock] closed nearly two points higher at 48⅝ on total transactions of about 25,000 shares. Stutz climbed over a point to 19¾ and most of the other motors improved fractionally. Glen Alden Coal responded to reports of new anthracite peace negotiations by climbing over a point to 139½.

Strength of Liberty bonds was the outstanding feature of the bond market. The treasury department's offer to purchase the third Liberty 4¼s directly from holders for sinking fund purposes created a wide demand for these obligations which carried them rapidly toward the price of 101½, at which they will be taken by the government. Other Liberty and treasury issues moved forward in sympathy.

Advances in the railroad shares were accompanied by corresponding improvement in the bonds of the carriers. Both high grade and semi-speculative issues participated in the movement, substantial gains being recorded by Katy adjustment 5s, Chicago & Alton 3½s, Louisville & Nashville 4½s, Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s, and Northern Pacific 6s.

French bonds were steadied by the progress made in the formation of a new cabinet under the leadership of M. Briand and the accompanying rally in French francs. Some of the municipal issues recovered more than a point. Mexican government and railway issues were lower on unconfirmed reports that difficulty had been encountered in the plans to return the railways to private ownership.

FINANCIAL NOTES

The Motor Wheel Corporation has placed its stock on a $2 annual basis by declaring a quarterly payment of 50 cents, compared with 40 cents previously paid. An extra dividend of 30 cents was declared to bring total payments this year to $2 a share. The Utilities Power and Light company declared an initial dividend on class B stock of one tenth of a share. Extra dividends were announced as follow: Laclede Steel, 4 per cent; Continental Casualty, 2 per cent; Hydraulic Pressed Brick, 1 per cent on preferred; Silver King Coalition Mining, 10 cents. The Vulcan Detinning company declared 2 per cent toward arrears on the preferred stock. The Boyd Welsh Shoe company raised its dividend from $2 to $3 with a declaration of a quarterly payment of 75 cents.

Sales of the National Cash Register company for 1925 are estimated at $40,000,000 by President Patterson, who said the company planned to extend next year's business to $50,000,000.

The holding company which is to be organized to take over Kelvinator corporation and Nizer corporation will be known as the Electric Refrigeration corporation, it was reported.

SUGAR MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw market was unchanged today. While local refiners were not inclined to pay above 4.15c for Cuban, duty paid, there appeared to be nothing available below 4.21c. Raw futures gained 2 to 4 points early and closed unchanged to 2 points net higher. Refined prices were unchanged at 5.00@5.40c for fine granulated. Prices follow:

New York, Nov. 27.—(AP)—Constructive forces were again at work in today's stock market, which made further recovery from recent weakness on a substantially reduced volume of trading, which totaled 1,670,000 shares. Unlike some of the recent rallies, today's advance did not bring out any appreciable amount of fresh liquidation, closing quotations generally ruling around the day's highest and showing a long list of net gains ranging from 1 to 7 points.

Uncertainty over the New York federal rediscount rates continues, but it apparently has lost its dominating influence as a market factor. Tightening of the call money rate from 4¾ to 5 per cent also passed unnoticed, most of the day's highs being recorded after the rate had been raised.

Motor Shares Move Up.

Motor shares continued to make impressive recovery from Tuesday's low levels. Chrysler closed 6 points higher at 189⅞, and General Motors showed a net gain of 7⅛ at 118¾. Hudson showed a net gain of 5⅜ at 101.

Steels responded to reports of expanding mill operations and forward orders. Sloss Sheffield was the spectacular feature of that group, soaring 16 points to a record high at 140 and then easing to 136¼. U. S. Steel common, selling ex-dividend, showed a net gain of 1⅜ at 130⅝ and Ludlow closed 2½ points higher at 52. Youngstown Sheet and Tube, Republic, and Gulf States closed nearly 3 points higher.

Tobaccos were strong in expectation of record breaking holiday business, new peak prices for the year being attained by Consolidated Cigar, Liggett & Myers common and the B stock and Tobacco Products.

Mercantile Issues Strong.

Mercantile issues also reflected heavy holiday trade. Hartman Corporation advanced a point to within a fraction of the year's high on reports of an early restoration of the $4 annual dividend, and Weber & Heilbroner touched a new top at 95¼.

The oils gave a good demonstration of group strength on reports of further improvement in the trade situation. Other outstanding industrial strong spots were American Can, American Water Works, Case Threshing Machine, International Combustion Engineering, Postum-Cereal, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, Universal Pipe, preferred, U. S. Realty, Ward Baking A and Westinghouse Air Brake, the net gains running from 3¼ to 7 points.

Rails continued to receive strong buying support. [illegible] interest centered in the southern carriers. Atlantic Coast line jumped 5 points to a new peak at 234 and Kansas City Southern touched a new top at 44½.

MAKES $13,750 PROFIT ON 69 ACRES IN BLOOM

BY AL CHASE.

Oscar C. Hagen of Oscar C. Hagen & Co. seems to be the only person able to point to any considerable profit taking in the south end of Cook county this week.

Mr. Hagen bought a sixty-nine acre tract in Bloom township on Lincoln highway, east of Western avenue, from the Chicago Title and Trust company, as trustee, at an indicated $107,259, or at the rate of approximately $1,554 per acre.

Yesterday Mr. Hagen resold this property to Joseph Bigley for $121,009, according to the county records, or for approximately $1,753 an acre. His profit was about $13,750.

$350,000 South Side Deal.

The Fitzpatrick-McElroy company has sold the two story and flat building at the southeast corner of 59th street and Kedzie avenue, lot 130x125, to Frank R. McGarr, who took title for an undisclosed client, for a stated $350,000.

The twelve apartment building on Kolin avenue, east front, 120 feet south of 15th street, was sold by Ruben Beller Isaac Gutensky and Max Babitch to Osher H. Nudelman for an indicated $72,000, subject to $50,000. Samuel M. Ash was attorney.

$104,000 Cash Purchase.

Harry W. Hopp reports having sold the 50x150 two story machinery salesroom at 9 North Jefferson street, to the Norton company, who partly occupy the property, for $104,000, all cash.

The apartments at the northeast corner of Paxton avenue and 68th street, lot 95x124, were sold by Fred Klinckman to Theodore H. and Robert H. Bundo for an indicated $136,800, subject to $132,800. John B. Wheeler was broker.

The two story building at the northwest corner of Randolph and Curtis streets, lot 100x65, containing five stores, has been sold by Alfred E. Lanio to James and Theodore Gatziolis, commission merchants, for $130,500, subject to $42,500, according to the county records. McInerney & Powers were attorneys.

UNFAIR PRACTICE CHARGED AGAINST 2 CHICAGO FIRMS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 27.—(AP)—An amended complaint was issued today by the federal trade commission against the Calumet Baking Powder company of Chicago, charging unfair methods of competition. The company is charged particularly with making misleading statements through its salesmen and advertisements against the Jacques Manufacturing company of Chicago, which also makes baking powder, dealing with the ingredients of the latter company's product.

Unfair methods of competition also were charged against four Chicago men manufacturing toilet articles under the names of the Kling-Gibson company and the Dr. Eagan Manufacturing company, and other names. The respondents are Leroy A. Kling, John E. Weddell, William R. Burgel, and Carl Wittlefield. They are copartners. They are alleged to have made misleading statements concerning the articles they sell, both as to ingredients and the results they will achieve.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 27.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

The demand for wool has been moderate during the last week and the market has rather favored the buyer. The manufacturing outlook seems healthy and stocks of wool in consuming centers nowhere seem to be at all oppressive.

AMBITIOUS MEN.
100—MEN WANTED—100
SALARY,
COMMISSION.

Your opportunity to make money is at hand!

No experience necessary. Leads furnished. If you work consistently you can increase your income more rapidly with us than with any similar organization. A A M, who earned only $4,000 a year before we hired him received more than $25,000 last year his second year with us.

You can do the same if you are intelligent, willing to work and over 21 years of age.

Many of our highest paid men earned as little as $30 a week before coming to work with us. We are paying them five times as much. Now they own good cars and are enjoying big incomes every week.

YOU want the best things of life. Money will buy them, and we offer you the opportunity to earn MORE MONEY in one year than you might ordinarily earn in five.

We require 100 more men to help us handle our ever increasing volume of business, already amounting to more than $1,000,000 a month. We can double it if we get the right men right away.

That's why we will hire men inexperienced in selling and give them the best sales training in this business.

We are not a new firm, we have 27 years of success behind us and are now ready to start the most amazing sensational, price smashing sales campaign "RIGHT HERE IN CHICAGO." Our advance advertising amounts to more than $100,000 worth of publicity.

Cash in on this great wave of Chicago real estate activity and at the same time know down in your heart that you are selling the "best on the market," that you are building a clientele of customers who will be your friends for life.

This means a permanent position, a STEADY, high income and the best opportunity to rise to an executive position. All our managers are chosen from our sales force. Never before has there been such a great money making opportunity offered in these columns.

It may never come again. We need 100 men. Apply TODAY.

DIVIDEND NOTICE

The Board of Directors of the Interstate Power Company have declared the regular quarterly dividend of one dollar and seventy-five cents ($1.75) per share upon the outstanding Preferred Capital Stock of the Company, payable January 1, 1926, to stockholders of record at the close of business on December 5, 1925.

H. L. CLARKE, President.

DIVIDEND NOTICE

Utilities Power & Light Corporation

7% Cumulative Preferred Stock

The Board of Directors of Utilities Power & Light Corporation at a meeting held this day declared the regular quarterly dividend of One Dollar and Seventy-Five Cents ($1.75) per share upon the outstanding Preferred Stock of the Corporation, payable January 1, 1926, to stockholders of record at the close of business December 5, 1925.

Class A Stock

The regular quarterly dividend of Fifty Cents (50c) per share on the Class A Stock also was declared, payable January 1, 1926, to stockholders of record at the close of business December 5, 1925.

Under the resolutions of the Directors, the holders of Class A Stock have the option to accept, in lieu of their cash dividend, additional Class A Stock at the rate of one-fortieth of a share for each share standing in their names on December 5, 1925. Unless by the close of business December 5, 1925, the stockholder advises the Corporation that he desires his dividend in cash, the Corporation will send to him on January 1, 1926, the additional stock (or scrip for fractional shares) to which he is entitled.

Class B Stock

A dividend was also declared on the Class B Stock payable January 1, 1926, in Voting Trust Certificates for such Class B Stock at the rate of one-tenth of a share for each share of Class B Stock of record at the close of business December 5, 1925.

NOTICE OF REDEMPTION BY JACOB E. DECKER & SONS, MASON CITY, IOWA, OF FIRST MORTGAGE, SEVEN PER CENT SINKING FUND, GOLD BONDS.

To each and all of the owners of the first mortgage, seven per cent sinking fund, gold bonds of Jacob E. Decker & Sons, Mason City, Iowa:

YOU AND EACH OF YOU are hereby notified that Jacob E. Decker & Sons of Mason City, Iowa, have exercised the option to redeem all bonds issued under a certain first mortgage and deed of trust, dated Sept. 1, 1922, said first mortgage and deed of trust running from Jacob E. Decker & Sons, a corporation organized and existing under and by virtue of the laws of the State of Iowa, and having its principal place of business in Mason City, in the County of Cerro Gordo, State of Iowa, to the First National Bank of Mason City, Iowa, an association duly organized and existing under and by virtue of the National Bank Act of the United States and having its principal place of business in Mason City, in the County of Cerro Gordo, State of Iowa, as trustee.

YOU AND EACH OF YOU are further notified that the redemption date is Jan. 1, 1926, and that the said Jacob E. Decker & Sons have deposited with the said the First National Bank of Mason City, Iowa, the trustee hereinabove named, the money required to pay the full amount of principal, interest and premium pursuant to the terms of said bonds and said trust deed, which will be due and payable thereon Jan. 1, 1926, the redemption date aforesaid.

YOU AND EACH OF YOU are hereby further notified to present to the said the First National Bank of Mason City, Iowa, as trustee, any and all of said bonds owned by you or any of you, together with unpaid coupons belonging thereto, and on such presentation and surrender of said bonds and coupons, the amount due thereon with interest and premium will be paid by said trustee.

AND YOU AND EACH OF YOU are further notified that on and after the first day of January, 1926, interest ceases on any of said bonds.

One of Chicago's Fine Hotels.
LAKE PARK-AV., NEAR 50TH ST.

THE BRYSON was formally opened Sept. 17, 1925. It has already created a record in attractive guests of discrimination and refinement.

Many time worn conventions of hotel life have been set aside in favor of hospitality and comfort. The quiet elegance and the unusual details of service make THE BRYSON unique among hotels.

The rooms are spacious and overlook Lake Michigan. Furnishings of quality invite relaxation and rest. The best transportation in Chicago is available. Ten minutes to the loop on Illinois Central express trains. Surface cars and busses nearby.

There is an excellent dining room in the hotel. Club breakfasts are served at moderate prices. Luncheon fifty cents, evening dinner one dollar.

A limited number of single rooms, suites and a few kitchenettes are yet available. The rates are very attractive.

Special Offerings in Type 61 Open Cars

For a short time only, as a special offering, we will include a complete set of winter sides on all Type 61 touring cars and phaetons in our stock—at the regular price of $1,250.

The extra equipment makes these Type 61s even more attractive investments than before. With cold weather already here, winter side equipment is very desirable. On this special plan you can buy closed car comfort at the price of an open automobile.

The Type 61 Cadillac enjoyed great popularity as a new car. It was widely known for its almost unbelievable reliability, its smoothness and quiet, and the ease with which it is handled. These qualities are still retained in the used Type 61s we are offering today.

This unusual opportunity is open to you for a limited time. We advise you to come in today and select your Type 61 touring car or phaeton. A delay may mean that the car which would suit you best will be sold.

Time payments on any of these Cadillacs.
